

"IT'S TIME to take a step forward," said White Sox pitcher Larry Monroe, who is upset at his last minute demotion to Double A ball in Knoxville. Monroe spent the last six weeks of the 1976 campaign with the Sox and expected to go to Des Moines, Iowa and Triple A ball this season.

Unhappy Monroe needs lift

Byline report

A surplus of young pitching talent down on the farm may indicate a bright future for the White Sox, but it means something decidedly different for Larry Monroe, former Forest View High School hurler who is regarded as one of the top Sox pitching prospects.

Monroe feels he's getting the shaft from White Sox brass and is seriously considering quitting baseball entirely if somebody upstairs doesn't take notice — and soon.

Monroe, a strapping 6-4, 200-pound righthander from Mount Prospect is off to a great start for the Sox double A farm club in Knoxville, Tenn. In 19 innings he has yet to give up an earned run. His last two games have been two-and three-hit shutouts, respectively. But big Larry wants out of Knoxville and the quicker the better.

"IT'S TIME TO take a step forward," said Monroe, who spent the final six weeks of the 1976 season with the White Sox. "I hate to sound so bitter, but I am bitter because I just don't deserve to be here," he said.

Monroe's displeasure started in spring training when he felt he didn't get a chance to make the varsity. Things seemed to be predetermined — he would spend the year at Des Moines, Iowa, with the Sox Triple A affiliate. After a year at Knoxville, Larry was ready to move up to Triple A. Then the Sox traded Bucky Dent to the Yankees for cash, outfielder Oscar Gamble and a couple of minor league pitchers.

"They told me on the last day of camp that they'd rather have me be the No. 1 pitcher here (Knoxville) than the then No. 4 starter in Des Moines because of all the rainouts early in the season. "They (Sox) have too many starters in the minors and are going to have to make up their minds."

Monroe figured to be the fourth starter at Iowa behind Ken Kravec, Jack Kucek and Dave Frost, who Monroe rates as the top pitcher in the Sox farm system right now. But along with Gamble, the Sox picked up Bob Polinsky and Dewey Hoyt, a couple of pitchers from the Yankee system.

POLINSKY, 25, was 4-8 with Syracuse (Triple A) last season with a 3.30 ERA. Hoyt, 22, was 15-8, 2.50 ERA in Double A ball at West Haven, Conn. last year and the Sox decided to give both of them berths in Iowa rather than Monroe, with Hoyt taking Monroe's spot in the Iowa starting rotation.

"My record (11-14 at Knoxville) last year wasn't as impressive (as Hoyt's) but my statistics were decent (2.91 ERA, 113 strike outs, 75 walks)," Monroe said. Monroe joined the Sox on Aug. 22 last season and was 0-1 in eight appearances with a 4.15 ERA and several good efforts in relief.

"Baseball is no fun here," said Monroe, who has yet to turn 21 but is growing up fast in the strange world of pro baseball. "I just want to get out of here. There's no way I can take this league for another year."

"C. V. Davis (Sox farm director) told me on the last day of camp that I'd be going to Knoxville and he hoped I'd agree with him. I asked him if I had a choice and heasid no. I could go to Knoxville or go home.

"THEY TOLD ME 'you're still one of our top prospects but you're the most likely prospect to go back' (to double A)," Monroe said.

"One way or another I'm getting out of here in another month, whether they send me someplace else or I just leave."

He appears ready to leave at a moment's notice. Rather than rent an apartment, Monroe has been living in a Knoxville motel.

"They (Sox) told me I might not be down here long, but I've heard that song and dance before. They said Kevin Bell (Sox third baseman) would only spend a few days, if that, this year with Iowa. And he's still there, isn't he?"

SO FAR, Monroe has pitched better than well enough to earn a spot at Des Moines. On Sunday he tossed a three-hitter, which mistakenly went out over the wire services as a no-hitter. Of the 21 men he faced (Double A games are only seven innings long) 16 were retired by ground balls. He struck out four and walked two.

Monroe, a likeable young man with an easy going disposition is clearly upset by the spot he's in.

"I don't want to make waves, but I don't want to be here. How can they call you up to the major leagues one year then send you back down to double A the next?

"I don't want to sound cocky. I know I have things to learn yet. But not down here."

Bison rally past 'Cats; Warriors, Lions also win

Buffalo Grove put together a five-run rally in the top of the seventh inning to wipe out a 3-1 deficit and ring up their fifth straight win of the conference season at Wheeling Monday, 6-3.

In other Mid-Suburban League baseball action Hersey blanked Fremd, Palatine knocked off Arlington, Forest View nipped Rolling Meadows, Hoffman Estates handcuffed Schaumburg and Prospect slipped past Elk Grove.

Maine West and St. Viator also posted wins Monday to round out the area slate.

THE FEATURE faceoff at Wheeling saw the Wildcats drop from the undefeated ranks when an error opened the floodgates in the seventh. 'Cat hurler Jim Passolt, who had sailed into the fifth on a two-hit shutout, was tapped for an unearned run in the sixth and then issued a walk to Al Cymbal and a short single up the middle to Mike Marshall following the miscue to open the seventh.

That brought on Rick Heredia to spell Passolt on the mound and he walked Tim Prokoff to force in a run. Phil Czosnyka reached on an error after that and two more runs came home.

Dave Martin's two-run single to right rounded out the uprising and earned a win for Mark Rusche, one of three Bison pitchers seeing action.

Wheeling had struck for all of their runs off Bison starter Mike Marshall. Marty Geisler walked to open the second, and Bill Luzinski tripled him home. Jeff Passolt's suicide squeeze bunt brought in Luzinski and Steve Majokowski scored on a single by Jim Passolt.

TODD WALKER'S six-hit pitching led the Huskies past hosting Fremd, 3-0. Bob Schachner provided the firepower in the fourth, doubling to right center after Brian Hastings had doubled, Bob Hart had reached on a scratch single and Doug Frye had sacrificed the runners along.

Joe Pusatera's sacrifice fly brought home an insurance run in the seventh off Viking starter and losing pitcher Kerry Field.

Kevin McKenna came up with another outstanding mound performance — his third of the MSL campaign — in leading the Pirates past Arlington 6-3.

A pair of errors helped visiting Palatine jump into an early 2-0 lead but the Cardinals surged right back in the bottom of the first with three unearned runs.

MIKE MAYERICK'S sacrifice fly accounted for one Card score and Frank DeSimone drove home two more with a single.

After that McKenna slammed the door. Al Knotek, meanwhile, double home the tying run in the third and the Pirates broke the game open off Redbird starter Doug Harth in the seventh.

Dan McSweeney and Doug Buenzow singled to open the crucial rally and Mike Mikulan supplied the big blow, a triple to left center. Mikulan later scored on a wild pitch.

Forest View picked up four unearned runs in the second inning and then held on to nip Rolling Meadows 4-3 behind the four-hit twirling of Bob Koch.

MUSTANG HURLER Dennis Drolet allowed base raps by Chris Hansen, Joe Slawinski and Jeff Nelson to mix with a pair of extra base errors as the Falcons jumped in front.

Meadows came back with three unearned runs of their own but Koch went on to fan ten and yield just four hits in notching the win.

Ray Gawron pitched and hit Hoffman Estates to their first win of the

NBA refs back to work

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Basketball Association's striking referees reached agreement on a new contract with the league Monday and will return to work for Tuesday night's playoffs.

The referees had stopped work on the final day of the regular season two weeks ago in a dispute over their association's status as a union. They also wanted to negotiate a contract that would include this year's playoffs along with next year's regular season.

During the two-week strike, the NBA hired officials from the Eastern League, college and amateur ranks to work with two non-striking NBA referees, Earl Strom and Richie Powers. The interim refs, however, were criticized greatly by the NBA players and coaches.

"WE ARE PLEASED the strike is over," said Simon P. Gourdine, deputy commissioner of the NBA and labor negotiator for the league. "The referees have agreed to return to work without a contract. Next year's contract will be negotiated during the off-season.

"While the referees have finally agreed with our long-standing position that we should not negotiate under pressure of the playoffs, we do not view this as a victory for the NBA alone. We consider it a victory for everyone concerned — the league, players, referees and fans."

Richard Phillips, attorney for the striking referees, said in Philadelphia that "we didn't get the whole loaf and they didn't get the whole loaf."

Phillips said the strike by the National Association for Basketball Referees served "several purposes from our point of view."

He said it showed that the NBA referees "if pressed will join together and rise up." He also said he felt there was now a "new appreciation of the quality of the NBA officials."

Phillips, at a news conference where he served champagne and hors d'oeuvres, said recognition of the NABR as the bargaining unit for the referees was one of the principal aims of the strike but "not just the major goal.

"We reached a philosophical accord on many items," Phillips said.

Gourdine said discussions on the agreement began last Saturday between the NBA and the National Association of Basketball Referees. The two sides negotiated through the day Sunday and final agreement was reached late Sunday night.

The agreement includes the following points:

—Regular referees return to work for the remainder of the playoffs. Playoff compensation is $750, $850, $950 for each game, an across the board increase of $150 per game.

—THE REFEREES union withdraws allegations of unfair labor practice against the league which are pending before the National Labor Relations Board.

—The union agrees not to strike or participate in any other work stoppage by others during the playoffs.

—NBA agrees to drop plans to sue the referees for damages resulting from their actions, conditional upon the "no strike" clause.

—NBA recognizes the NABR as the collective bargaining representative of the referees, based on evidence showing authorization to NABR by individual members to represent them.

—NBA AND NABR agree to collective bargaining negotiations after the playoffs. If they fail to reach an agreement by Aug. 1, 1977, either party may request mediation, without objection from the other party.

—Referees who are member of NABR must remain members as a condition of employment. Referees hired in the future must also join within 30 days of their employment.

Gourdine said he had instructed all regular referees to return to work Tuesday night. He said he would contact all of the substitute referees to personally thank them for helping out under trying circumstances.

"These referees did an outstanding job in a high-pressure situation," said Gourdine. "We appreciate their efforts and their high degree of capability which was so evident. Their applications to become regular NBA officials will receive the most careful consideration prior to the beginning of next season."

Pirates' Kevin McKenna will enroll at Creighton

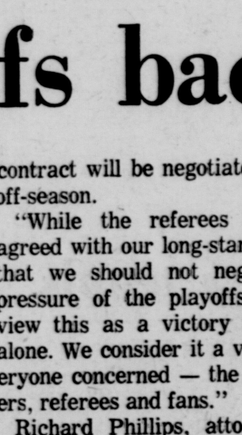

Kevin McKenna, Palatine High School's 6-7 record-breaking basketball player, will enroll at Creighton University, The Herald learned Monday.

McKenna led the Mid-Suburban League in scoring with 22.2 points per game his senior year and set school marks for points in a season (618) and points in a career (1,576). His 42 points in the regional title game against Fremd is also a Pirate record.

During the height of the recruiting process McKenna was wooed by Northwestern, Tulsa, Purdue and Creighton.

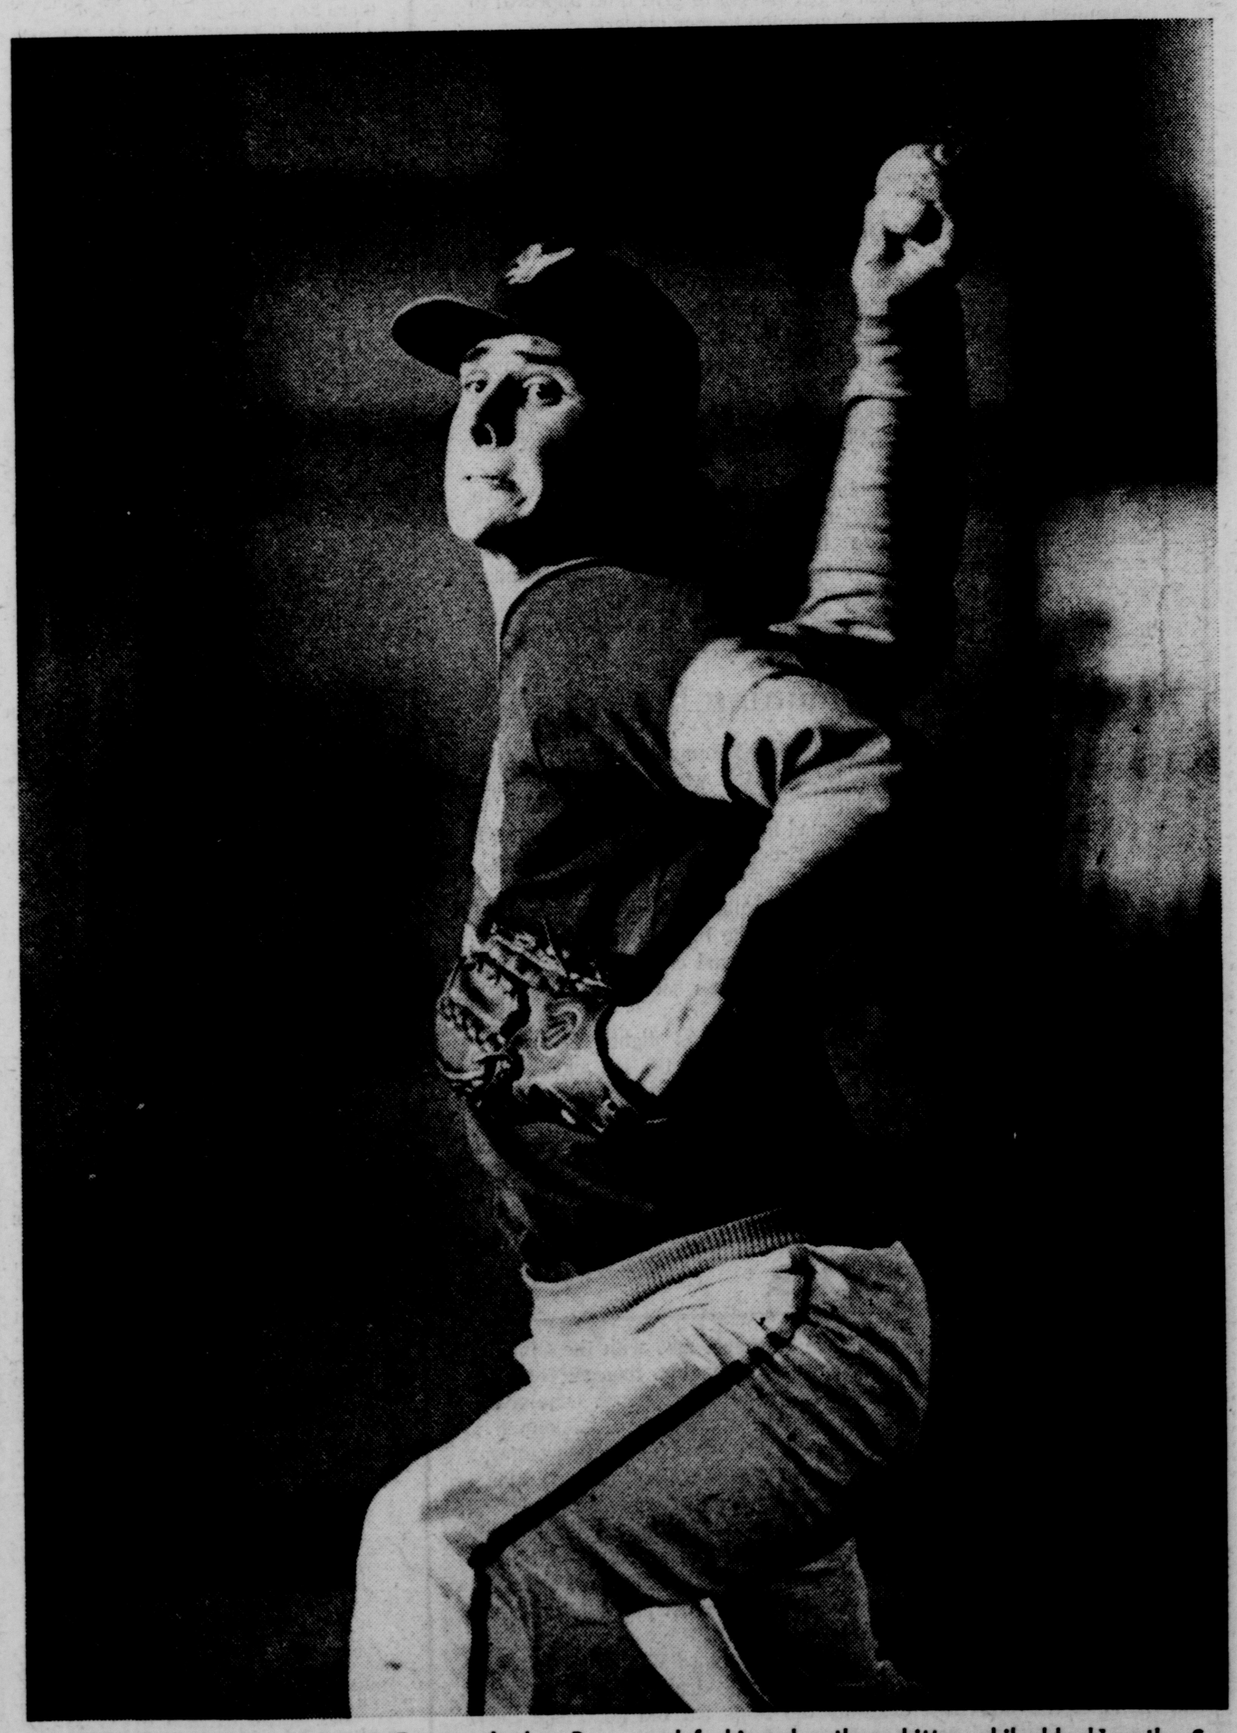

"Creighton is the one he liked," said Palatine coach Ed Molitor. "They came back to visit him Friday and expressed a great amount of interest in Kevin.

"I think in the back of his mind, Creighton is the place he wanted to go all along."

Kevin McKenna

Creighton University, located in Omaha, Neb., currently plays an independent schedule but will join the Missouri Valley Conference next year.

HOFFMAN'S HERO. Hoffman Estates hurler Ray Gawron fires a bullet toward the plate during Monday's game with Schaumburg. Gawron whiffed 10 and fashioned a three hitter while blanking the Saxons on the mound and also contributed three hits and three RBI's to the 3-0 victory.

Patty 'wanted to beat dad to the punch'

by DAVE IBATA

Patricia Columbo solicited two men to murder her family because she believed her father had taken out a "contract" on the lives of herself and her boyfriend, a police stenographer testified Monday.

"I wanted to beat my father to the punch," Miss Columbo allegedly said in a written statement she gave to police.

However, relations with her father improved shortly before the May 4, 1976 slayings and she unsuccessfully tried to call off the plot, Miss Columbo told police.

Defense attorneys are trying to suppress the incriminating statement, contending police failed to read Miss Columbo her Constitutional rights and coerced her into giving the statement.

THE SHORTHAND original of Miss Columbo's statement was read aloud Monday in Cook County Circuit Court, Chicago.

Elieen Biercz, a stenographer for the Elk Grove Village Police Dept., took the witness stand and read aloud from her shorthand notes the statement she said she took from Miss Columbo May 15, 1976.

Miss Columbo had been taken into custody earlier that day in connection with the May 4, 1976 slayings of her parents, Frank and Mary Columbo, and her brother, Michael, 13, of 55 E. Brantwood Dr., Elk Grove Village.

Miss Columbo agreed to make a written statement at the police station, police have testified.

Miss Columbo sat in the courtroom Monday, wearing a green dress and the same sad expression she has worn throughout the latest round of pretrial hearings, as Mrs. Biercz read the statement.

MISS COLUMBO told of the falling-out she had with her family over her love affair with Frank DeLuca, 39, a married father of five.

Relations with her parents hit their lowest point in July 1975 when Frank Columbo hit DeLuca n the mouth with a rifle at the Walgreen Drug Store DeLuca Managed at 955 Grove Mall, Elk Grove Village, Miss Columbo said.

Miss Columbo said later that summer, she met two men while double-dating: "Lanny" Mitchell and "Roman," whose last name she said she could not recall.

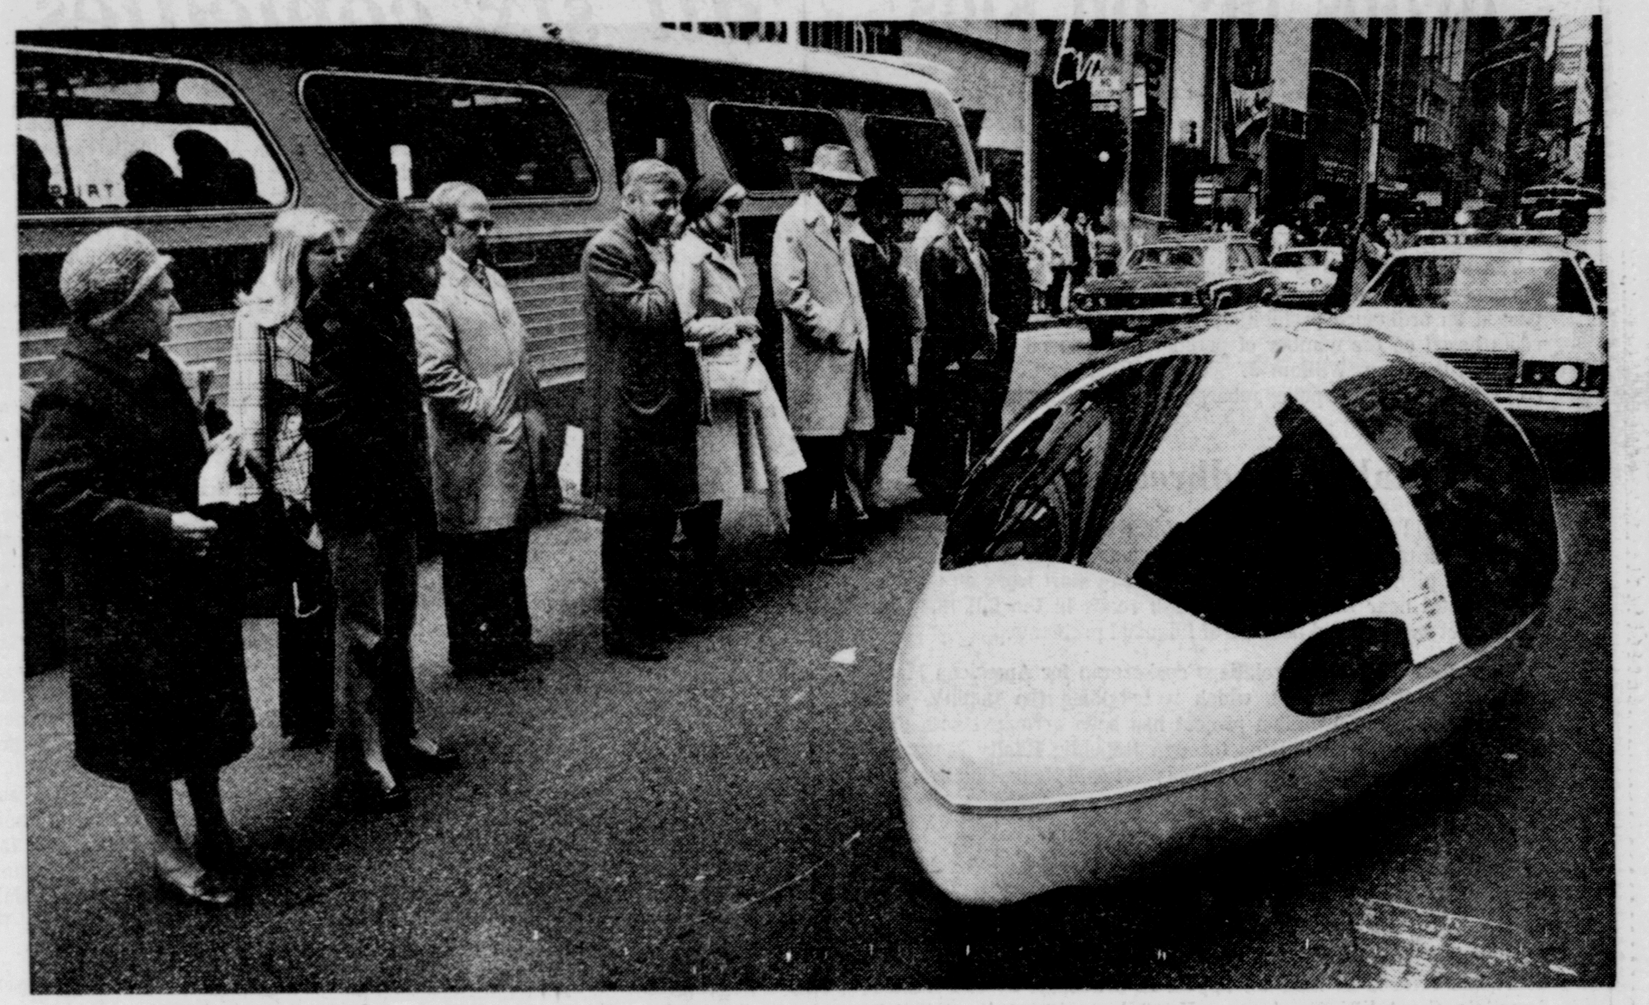

"Lanny" apparently is Lanyon R. Mitchell, 25, of Lake Villa, and "Roman" apparently is Roman Sobczynski, 35, a civil service recruiter for Cook County. His address is unknown.

Both are named as unindicted co-conspirators in a July 1976 indictment in which Miss Columbo and DeLuca are charged with the Columbo slayings.

MITCHELL AND Sobczynski also are key prosecution witnesses.

Miss Columbo said the night of their first meeting, Mitchell had threatened her with a gun. She then had sex with Mitchell, she said, and out of fear

GM exchange plan grabs area dealers by surprise

General Motors' announcement Monday of an exchange plan for 128,000 buyers of Oldsmobiles, Pontiacs and Buicks equipped with Chevrolet V8 engines caught several Northwest GM dealers by surprise.

Asked about the automaker's offer of a new, comparable car or a special insurance policy on the 1977 model cars' power train, sales manager Ed Wallner at Larry Faul Oldsmobile, 1230 E. Golf Rd., Schaumburg, said he had not received any notice of the deal. Wallner said he hoped to receive an explanation of tht plan by this morning.

"I haven't received anything in the mail. I knew it was coming to a head," said Ed Brown, sales manager at Ladendorf Motors Inc., 77 Rand Rd., Des Plaines. Brown said a "small number" of Olds buyers would be affected by GM's exchange plan.

AT BILL SULLIVAN Pontiac Inc. dealership in Buffalo Grove, Bill Sullivan said he "hadn't heard officially" about the exchange. "It really wouldn't have too much effect on us," Sullivan said, compared to Oldsmobile dealers "plagued by Chevrolet engines."

William Kelly of Martin J. Kelly Oldsmobile Inc., 1516 Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, said he was not "notified of the particulars," and the Olds zone office in Oak Brook didn't have details when he called. Kelly said he wonders what will happen to 1977 model cars traded in for new 1977 autos.

Although GM will pay each dealer $300 less 8 cents a mile for each exchange, Kelly said the telegram he received from GM Monday morning didn't explain the trade-in details.

"Dealers are being informed of today's action and will have details for owners," said Bruce McCristal, regional public relations manager, Chicago.

McCristal said the offer on 5 per cent of GM's 2.6 million 1977 model cars was available only for cars delivered by April 10. It will extend through June 1.

Metric road signs by 1982 proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Highway Administration said Monday it will propose a $100 million program to convert the nation's road signs to metric by 1982, with new speed limit signs to be in place by September of next year.

The agency said it will propose a notice of intended rulemaking on Wednesday under which a complete changeover of all signs, all the way down to the county road level, would be finished by Sept. 30, 1982

The proposal will be published for comment and could be revised.

If the original timetable is held to, drivers would begin to notice the impact next year when, in a 90-day period, all speed limit signs would go from miles per hour to kilometers.

There would be no provision for simultaneous English and metric listings, a spokesman said, because "it's our feeling it's better to go cold turkey on it and get the public to adjust quickly."

There would, however, be an intensive government education program prior to the first change.

Zone unit approves teen foster home

Despite residents' heated objections, plans for a temporary foster home for teen-age boys in Arlington Heights were narrowly approved Monday night by the village zoning board of appeals.

If the village board approves the 4-3 recommendation, the Northwest Municipal Conference and Shelter Inc., will convert a home at 225 E. Algonquin Rd. into a group foster home for boys. Shelter, Inc., serves Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Palatine townships.

About 25 residents from the area objected to the home, saying it would devalue their property and increase crime in the neighborhood.

"THIS HAS BEEN a big oversimplification," said William J. Wysocki of 2502 S. Embers Ln., the closest resident to the home.

"It's just not this simple," he said. "The people in this area are going to be affected. I can't believe that Mary Poppins is going to run this thing. And after listening to all this molasses, I wonder if this neighborhood is good enough for this project."

Shelter Inc. Executive Director Allen Yasgur said the home will care for only five boys at a time, that the children will not be delinquents or have drug problems, but will be from troubled homes.

"We will not accept any child without their parents knowing about it," he said. "We will not accept a kid who runs away because he thinks it's fun or because daddy won't lend them the car. No one on drugs or alcohol

2 Twins pitchers hurt in car crash

MINNEAPOLIS — Big southpaw pitcher Mike Pazik of the Minnesota Twins Monday suffered fractures of both legs and reliever Don Carrithers received fractures of the wrist and knee in a head-on traffic collision.

The Twins said Pazik, 27, who has a 1-0 record this year, was in "good post surgical condition" but will be out the rest of the season. Carrithers, 27, with a wrist fracture in his right pitching arm, will be out "at least two to three months."

The accident occurred about four hours after the pitchers returned home with the Twins following Sunday's 12-6 victory over the Texas Rangers at Arlington, Tex. Police said Carrithers' van collided with a car traveling the wrong way on a freeway exit ramp.

Authorities identified the driver of the other car as Cheryl Petros, 23, Canton, Ohio. She was taken to a hospital for observation and then released.

After returning from Texas, a Twins' spokesman said, Pazik and Carrithers apparently took their luggage to their apartments and then went out to eat a late dinner and get groceries for breakfast.

Dr. Harvey O'Phelan, operating surgeon at Fairview Southdale Hospital, said Pazik was in the passenger seat without the protection of a seatbelt. He said Pazik, 6-3 and 186 pounds, was jammed under the dashboard and broke both bones in both legs between the knee and ankle.

The surgeon said Pazik will be hospitalized "indefinitely." He said it is "too early to speculate about his future." O'Phelan said Carrithers, acquired from the Montreal Expos earlier this month, had a compound fracture of the right knee, rupture of the tendon attached to the right knee and fracture of the right wrist. He had pitched only three innings so far this year. Pazik had been scheduled to be the Twin's starting pitcher Thursday against Seattle.

Randle charged in Lucchesi beating

ORLANDO, Fla. — Suspended Texas Rangers' infielder Len Randle was named Monday in a warrant charging him with aggravated battery, a felony, for allegedly beating Rangers' Manager Frank Lucchesi on March 28, authorities said.

A spokesman for the Orange County sheriff's department said Randle was being sought out-of-state, in either Arlington, Tex., or Arizona, where the ballplayer has a home. The charge carries a bond of $2,500.

Lucchesi suffered a fractured cheekbone when Randle allegedly hit him at Tinker Field, shortly before the Rangers were to play the Minnesota Twins in a spring training game.

Randle, apparently disgruntled about losing his second baseman's job to rookie Bump Wills, was suspended for 30 days after the incident.

Lucchesi said in a hospital interview after the incident that it was "a sneak attack — worse than Pearl Habor." Randle's suspension is up Wednesday, but Rangers' officials have said he'll never play for the team again. They have been trying to trade or sell him, but apparently without much success.

The sheriff's spokesman said the charge, a second degree felony, carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison or a $10,000 fine, or both.

NFL owners urge judge to OK pact

MINNEAPOLIS — Attorneys for football club owners and union players urged U.S. District Judge Earl Larson Monday to approve a pact between them so the delayed college football player draft can begin early in May.

Larson issued a preliminary ruling March 29 to settle a multi-million dollar lawsuit. But several non-union players questioned the decision.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the National Football League Players Association, and Hamilton Corothers, attorney for the National Football League, both urged Larson to give final approval to $15.8 million in payments to players and former players.

The payments are tied to a collective bargaining agreement, which the football players have not had since 1973. The lack of a contract led to a 36-day player strike in July and August, 1974.

Attorneys for several players objected to terms of the pact. They said their clients should be allowed to challenge the collective bargaining agreement and the payments.

Fire destroys baseball plant in Haiti

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — What was reportedly the largest baseball manufacturing plant in the world went up in flames Monday in Port-Au-Prince.

The fire began in a diesel generator room beneath the three-story Tomar Industries factory, which occupied one square block and made thousands of Rawlings baseballs and softballs daily. The 60 employes were evacuated, but two persons suffered minor injuries.

Firemen brought the spectacular blaze under control after five hours. Residents miles away from the scene could smell burning leather and firemen were hampered as they slipped and scrambled over floors covered with thousands of rolling baseballs, freed when their containers burst.

Company officials tentatively estimated damage at about $500,000.

Soviets crush Romanian hockey 18-1

VIENNA — The Soviet Union trounced Romania 18-1 Monday in a confrontation of the strongest and the weakest teams in the World Ice Hockey Championships.

It was the highest score recorded in the eight nation tournament so far. Reigning world champion Czechoslovakia crushed the bottom-ranked Romanians 13-1 earlier.

The powerful Russians, who had humiliated Team Canada 11-1 the day before, used the match against the Romanians as a warm-up. They operated largely at half speed and could have run up a higher score if they had desired. There was not a single penalty called.

Soviet forward Alexander Maltsev, who was slightly injured in the match against Canada, did not appear on the ice and took a day off to recover from his injury.

Only 600 spectators watched the game.

Sweden handled West Germany 7-1 in an earlier game Monday and emerged as the third unbeaten team along with Russia and Czechoslovakia.

Forest View picks cage coach

Glen Elms has been named to the head basketball coaching position at Forest View High School.

The six-year Falcon sophomore cage coach replaces Ted Wissen, who resigned at the conclusion of the 1976-77 season.

A prep basketball standout at Schurz High School who went on to star at Millikin University, Elms comes to the head coaching ranks in rather indirect fashion.

Although an all-conference player who was named to the NAIA district team, Elms earned an engineering degree at Millikin and then went into the engineering profession.

Later Elms returned to the same school and earned a masters degree in education. He then began his teaching career as a math instructor at Miner Junior High in Arlington Heights.

Next Elms was selected to administer a U.S. government pilot program. Termed the Title Three Project, it involved television work and took him out of teaching for nearly three years.

When Elms returned to teaching, at Forest View, he still had to wait another year before a prep coaching opportunity became available. His contact with the sport up until that time had been maintained by playing and coaching in the AAU and semi-professional ranks.

Falcon athletic director Bill Beckman was obviously very pleased to announce the replacement for the well-liked veteran Wissen: "When you have competent people on your staff, you don't have to go outside for a new coach."

Added Beckman, "We feel Glen has done a fine job with his teams through the years. He's solid in fundamentals and we like the way he gets along with the kids. We're very happy with our choice."

Elms and his wife Sherry have two daughters, Lauri, 14, and Kristi, 5.

Apartment owner drops tax on kids

The owner of the 12 Oaks Apartments in Arlington Heights has dropped plans to charge tenants an extra $15 a month for each child. The change was announced Monday by Arlington Heights Village Pres. James T. Ryan after several meetings last week with Michael Sparks of Michael Sparks & Associates, Des Plaines. Sparks was unavailable for comment Monday.

The new rental policy at the apartments, 1130 Wilke Rd., was announced in late March. The Arlington Heights Village Board passed an ordinance prohibiting apartment owners from charging rents based on the number of persons living in an apartment and Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott filed suit in Cook County Circuit Court against the policy, charging Sparks with discrimination.

Hospital groundbreaking set

Ground will be broken Saturday for the long-delayed Hoffman Estates Community Hospital, it was announced Monday, 2½ years later than planned. The firm had planned to start work on the 312-bed hospital near Barrington and Golf roads in the fall 1974, but the project was delayed because of financial problems.

Roger Rainville, public relations spokesman for American Medicorp Inc. of Pennsylvania, which is buildding the facility, said financing for the $20 million project has been arranged with Chicago area savings institutions through Republic Realty Mortgage Corp., an affiliate of Continental Illinois National Bank, Chicago.

Court won't hear X-rated case

Cook County officials will have to start over again if they intend to ban sexually explicit movies at the Rte. 53 Outdoor Theater at Rand and Hicks roads, Palatine Township. The Illinois Supreme Court has refused to hear an appeal of a decison by the Illinois Appellate Court lifting a ban on X-rated movies at the theater, said John Dienner, an assistant state's attorney.

The appellate court had said the injunction bannng the films was unconstitutional. The county had sought to ban the films on the grounds the theater was a public nuisance.

ABC announces new fall shows; all six comedies

ABC, the overnight leader in television ratings Monday announced its new fall programming lineup which is dominated by comedy and mini series.

The network, which went from third to first place last season with specials like "Roots" and series like "Happy Days," will feature only six new regular shows next fall — all of them comedies reflecting the network's move away from violence programs.

The network will retain 80 per cent of the regular series it ran this past season.

The new shows, which constitute 10 additional hours of prime-time comedy, will be:

• "San Pedro Bums," a comedy about five guys on a tuna boat, to air from 7 to 8 p.m. Mondays.

• "Soap," an adult comedy which is ABC's version of "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" which is guaranteed to have something to offend everyone, to air from 8 to 8:30 p.m. Tuesdays.

• "Carter Country," a comedy about a Southern police chief and his New York-trained deputy to air 8:30 to 9 p.m. Thursdays.

• "The Redd Foxx Hour," a comedy and variety show to air from 9 to 10 p.m. Thursdays.

• "Operation Petticoat," based on the motion picture of the same name and stars John Astin, to air from 7:30 to 8 p.m. Saturdays.

• "Love Boat," stars Gavin MacLeod as captain of a cruise ship, to air from 9 to 10 p.m. Saturdays.

ABC also plans to run a fair share of mini series which will include "Washington D.C.," a 12-hour adaptation of John Erlichman's book "The Company" and a 20-hour, 10-part contemporary version of "How the West Was Won."

The shows that ABC has decided to axe due to poor ratings which will give way to the six new comedies are: "Most Wanted," "Streets of San Francisco," "The Bionic Woman," "Dog and Cat," "Blansky's Beauties," "The Tony Randall Show," and "The Feather and Father Gang."

"The Captain and Tenille" and "The Brady Bunch Hour" variety shows will be continued by the network only as periodic specials.

The other two networks, CBS and NBC, will be working during the next several weeks on their own new fall season line-ups in hopes of counter-programming the new ABC schedule which was announced by ABC-TV president Frederick Pierce.

The complete ABC prime programs schedule is as follows:

• Sunday: 6-7 p.m. "The Hardy Boys/Nancy Drew Mysteries," 7-8 p.m. "The Six Million Dollar Man," 8-10 p.m. The Sunday Night Movie.

• Monday: 7-8 p.m. "The San Pedro Bums," 8-10 p.m. National Football League game.

Powell defends cool exec style of President

by HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An assistant who does a good job should not expect "a kiss on the ear" from President Carter, White House Press Sec. Jody Powell Monday said in defense of his boss' executive style.

Conceding that the President is not especially effusive, Powell disclosed that Carter has complimented him seven times since they met in 1970. The last time, he said, was in the past 10 days.

"I have never made a secret of the fact that this particular President is not given overly to pats on the back, or stroking his staff or a kiss on the ear," he said.

Powell brought up the subject of presidential personality during a denial of a New York Times report that likened Carter to his hero, Adm. Hyman Rickover. The story said, "like the grim-faced admiral, those around him say, the President can also be brutally brusque and sharp-tongued with those who displease him or disagree with him."

POWELL SAID the story by James Wooten was "totally inaccurate" and "a complete departure from the facts in the White House."

"Unfortunately no member of the senior staff was consulted," said Powell. "It is completely untrue . . .I can assure you none of us feels intimidated or constrained to ofer dissenting opinions."

He said that a quote attributed to the President rejecting a dissent from presidential assistant Hamilton Jordan "did not take place."

Powell also said that an "assertion that the President had instructed his Secret Service agents to bar staffers from the Oval Office is absolutely not the case.

"The senior staff has access to him whenever we choose," he said.

"There is not any constraint upon calling him at night or on weekends except what we impose on ourselves."

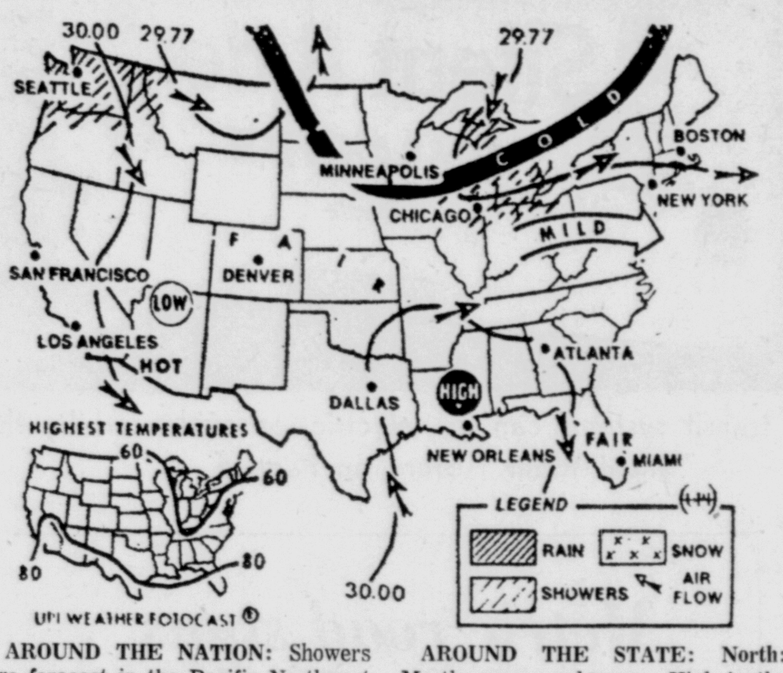

Powell also said that the President was not unhappy with the Cabinet as the Times said. "He has said quite the opposite to the Cabinet," Powell said. "He has never said anything like that privately or publicly."

Powell said that the story "implies that the President is becoming reclusive and brutal. Nothing could be further from the truth."

Viator trackmen win metric meet

They've been telling Jim Lyne to think metric — and the St. Viator track coach has been doing just that. But for Lyne to think metric he needs only to think victory.

His Lions won the first Cary-Grove Track and Field Invitational Saturday, featuring a metric mile (won by St. Viator's Dave E'ken in 4:18), a 3,200-meter relay (won by Viator in 8:50.3), and a metric shot put (won by "rookie" Dave Nicolau with a baffling 14.24).

"Eventually we're going to have to get used to it," Lyne said of the international measuring system. "But I still like feet better."

THE LION coach at least didn't have to convert the final point-totals which showed St. Viator with 81 points. In second place was Carmel of Mundelein with 59. Cary-Grove, Lake Zurich and Elmwood Park were farther down the line of finishers in the five-team meet.

St. Viator captured nine first places, led by Efken, Dan Bobowski and Ed Schwab.

"It was good competition for us," said Lyne, whose team has virtually no home facilities and has run just three meets this season.

Efken, a junior with the background and experience to compete with the area's top distance runners, added a victory in the 3,000-meter race (9:15.4) for an impressive double. Another Lion junior, sprinter Dan Bobowski, took firsts in the 100-meters (11.6) and the 200-meters (23.0).

MEANWHILE, Schwab, a senior jumper, placed first in the triple jump (11.55) and the long jump (5.77).

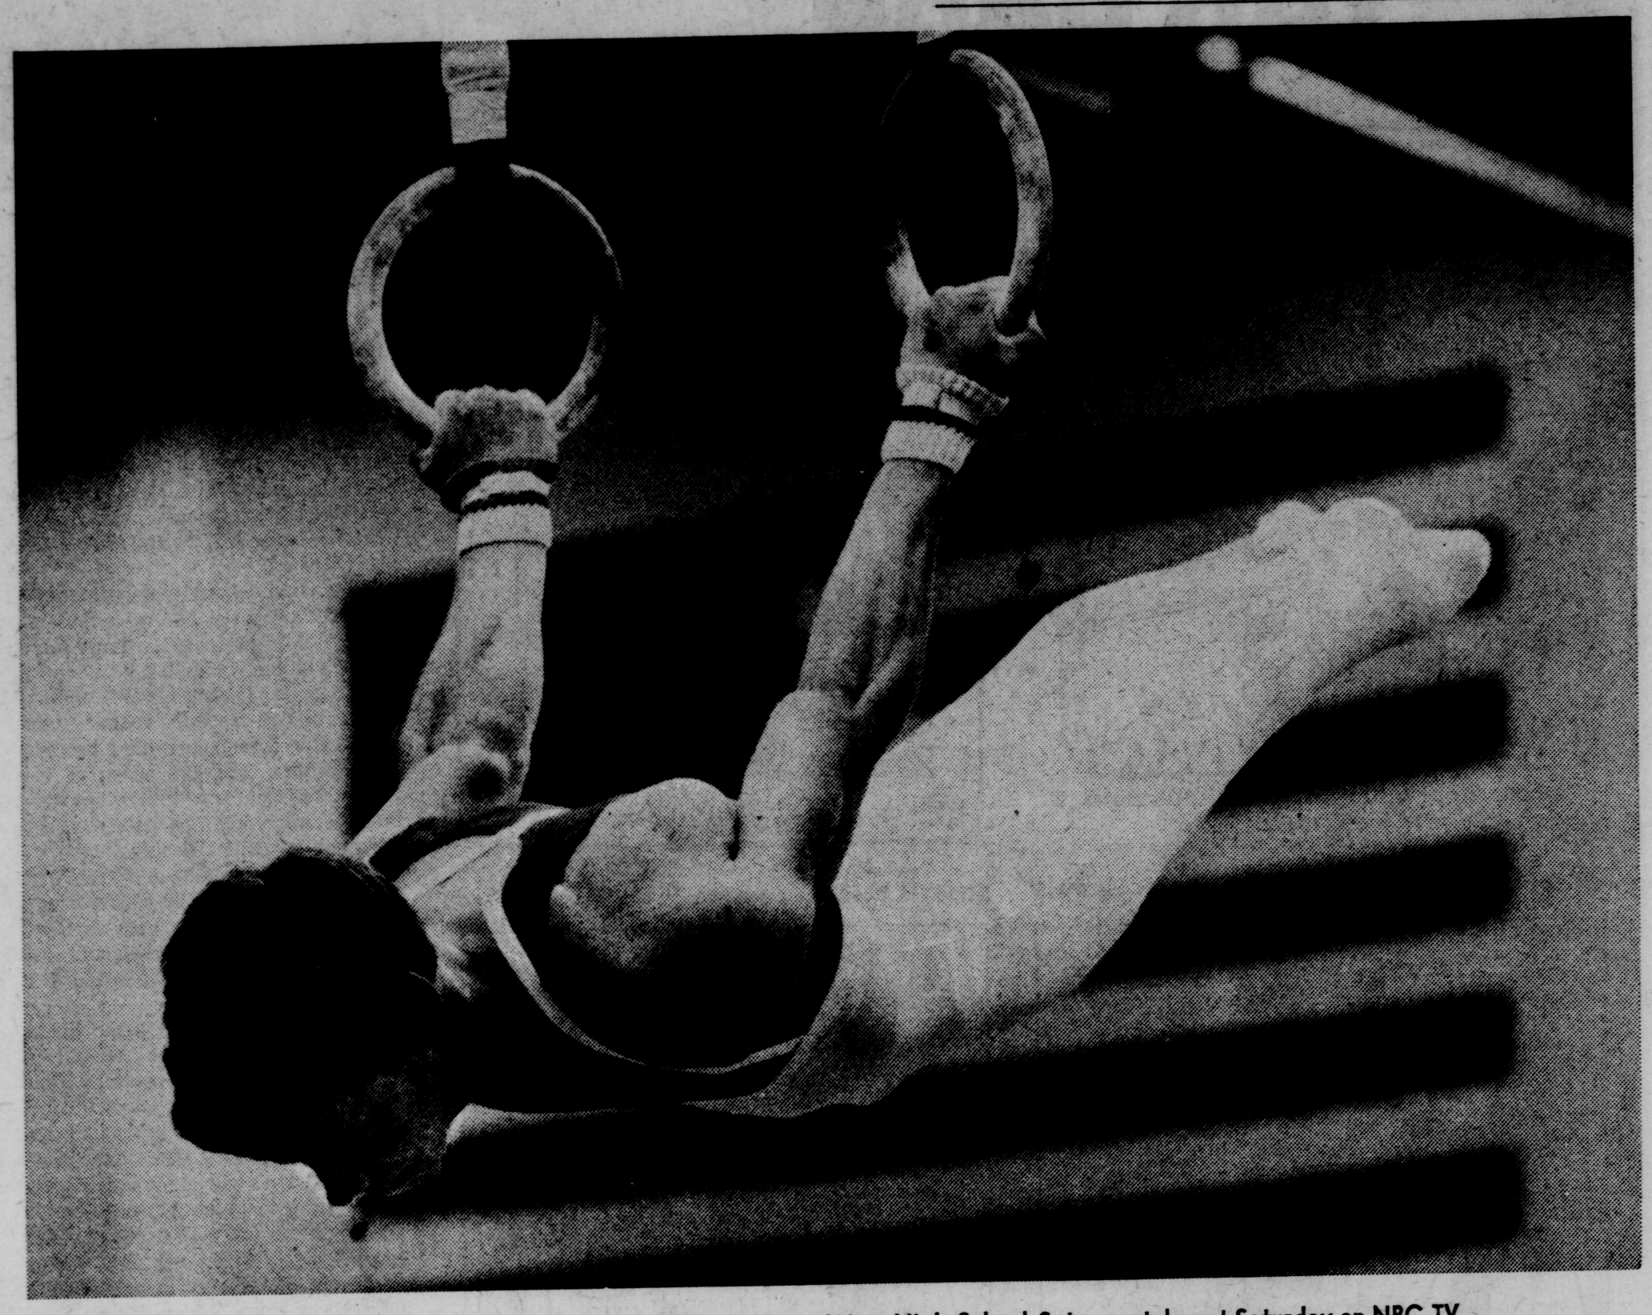

"It takes a little getting used to, those meters," said Lyne. "I was standing over by the long jump area and after a while I got to know that five-something was a good ump. Then I'd see one that I knew wasn't too good. So you get used to it"

Nicolau, 6-5, 230-pound all-state football player competing in the shot for only the second time, won the event at Cary-Grove with his 14.24 put.

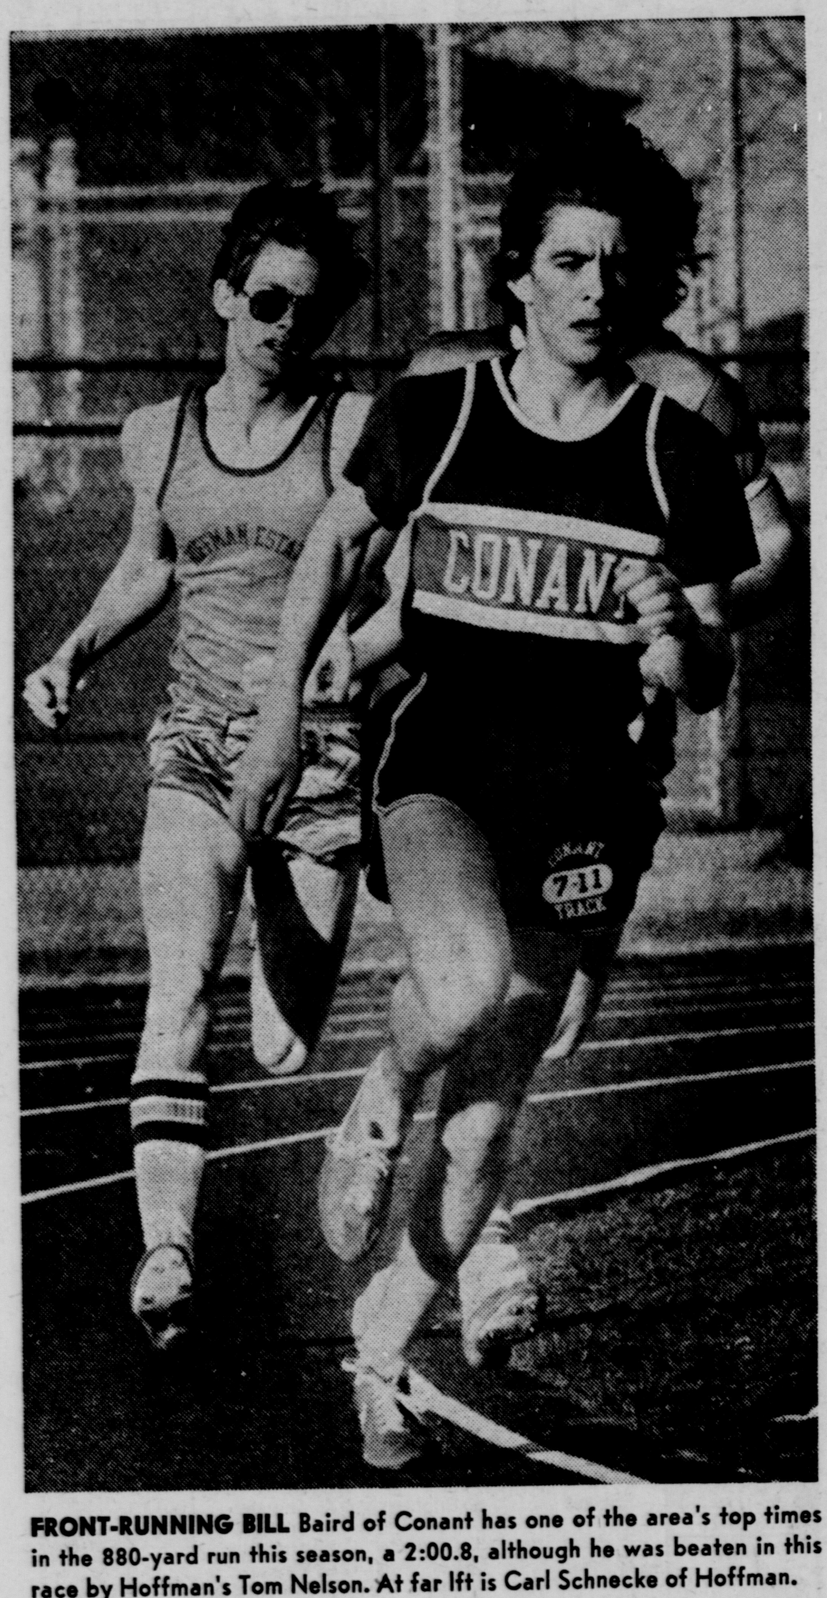

Eric Locher of St. Viator won the discus throw with a toss of 42.70.

"I guess we're going to be going to metrics so it's good to get used to it," Lyne said, referring to the IHSA directive effective in 1980.

UNTIL THEN, Lyne and his Lions will be happy to go to Cary-Grove for a slight inconvenience and their metric trophy.

DOUG SMIDL of Fremd took part in the National High School Gymnastics All-Around Invitational at Maine West High School Saturday night. Highlights of the meet will be telecast Saturday on NBC-TV.

FRONT-RUNNING BILL Baird of Conant has one of the area's top times in the 880-yard run this season, a 2:00.8, although he was beaten in this race by Hoffman's Tom Nelson. At far lft is Carl Schnecke of Hoffman.

Cubs frozen out but Reds get hot

The Cubs' game with St. Louis was postponed Monday because of cold weather but the Cincinnati Reds supplied their own heat in Atlanta as they broke out of an early season slump with a 23-9 win over the Braves.

The Cubs, who evened their record at 6-6 with a pair of victories Saturday and Sunday over the Reds, plan to send righthander Rick Reuschel (1-1) against the Cardinals and pitcher Harry Rasmussen (1-2) when the teams meet today at 1:30 p.m. in Wrigley Field.

The Cardinals lead the division with a 9-6 mark in the early going under first-year manager Vern Rapp. They will play the Cubs again Wednesday to close out the current homestand.

IN ATLANTA, George Foster hit two homers and drove in seven runs, including three in a 12-run fifth inning outburst, while Johnny Bench and Dan Driessen each had four RBI Monday night for the Reds.

The Reds, who had lost 10 of their first 14 games and fallen seven games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West, broke on top with six runs in the first inning. Foster hit the first of two three-run homers in that inning and had a one-run double in the second when Cincinnati scored three more runs.

Major league baseball

Foster's second three-run shot came in the fifth inning when the Reds, off to their terrible start this season because of their inability to score runs, erupted for 12 while sending 17 batters to the plate. The two teams totaled 35 hits in the game.

Bench had a homer and four RBI and Driessen also drove in four runs, all in the fifth, when he hit a three-run double and a single.

THE REDS HAD a 23-4 lead in the fifth inning and threatened at that time the modern major league record of 29 runs in a game.

The Braves had enough offense themselves to win most games as they pounded out 17 hits and had two four-run innings. Jeff Burroughs, the National League home run leader, drove in four runs for Atlanta with four singles and Biff Pocoroba had a three-run homer.

In the only other National League game scheduled, San Diego and Los Angeles were meeting on the West Coast later Monday night.

In the American League, Dwight Evans scored the winning run on Rick Burleson's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded in the eighth inning Monday to give the Boston Red Sox a 6-5 victory in the nightcap over Toronto after Otto Velez' two homers gave the Blue Jays a 4-3 triumph.

BOSTON'S CARLTON Fisk was thrown out at the plate attempting to score on a single by Butch Hobson to start the eighth, but the Red Sox loaded the bases and Burleson delivered the tie-breaking run with his sacrifice fly.

In the opener Velez hit a solo blast in the fifth inning then connected with a man aboard off Bill Campbell in the eighth inning to cap a three-run rally. Pete Vuckovich benefitted from the homer to win his first game of the year while Campbell, the Red sox' million dollar reliever, was tagged with his third loss.

Elsewhere in the A. L., New York was at Baltimore in a game delayed by rain while Oakland was scheduled at California in a late game.

season, 6-0 at Schaumburg. On the mound he whiffed ten and allowed just three hits in recording the shutout.

At the plate Gawron was three-for-four including a double and drove in half the Hawk runs.

PROSPECT CAME up with single runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings to edge hosting Elk Grove 3-1 and retain a slim half-game lead over Forest View atop the South Division standings. Doug Clark went the distance on the mound for the Knights to earn the victory.

Maine East's Tim Ringstrand and Maine West's Rob Earhart were locked in a pitchers' duel for nine innings Monday before a bases loaded walk gave West the win.

After eight near flawless innings, Ringstrand gave up all three of his walks in the final inning and that's what led to his downfall as the Warriors improved their Central Suburban Leauge slate to 3-1.

Earhart also went the distance for the Warriors, striking out 12 and walking only one over nine innings, giving up just one hit. Maine West scratched out but three hits against Ringstrand.

Bob Zuccarini and Dean Carpenter walked to open the ninth for the Warriors and Tim Platek's base hit loaded the bases. But Ringstrand struck out Bob Anderson, then got Earhart to tap out, catcher to first, for the second out. That brought up Forrest Wantroba, who walked to drive in the winning run.

Maine West is now 8-2 overall going into today's contest, scheduled for 4:30 at Niles West.

St. Viator improved its mark to 3-4 Monday with a 5-2 win over visiting Notre Dame in an East Suburban Catholic Conference game.

Ahead 2-1, the Lions broke the game open in the fifth inning with a three run outburst as Jim Simmerman got the win for Viator.

Dick Sanders opened the fifth with a walk, then stole second for the Lions. Dan Schwellenbach followed with a walk. Both were driven in on a double by John Josten.

Josten later came home with the fifth Viator run on a single by Mike Cusack.

Fieldhouse runs 4:17.4 for Hawks' fastest mile

Wil Fieldhouse of Harper came within a couple of seconds of national-qualifying time in the mile run at the Carthage Track Invitational, but it was only good enough for fifth place in a field of mostly university milers Saturday.

"We were hoping Wil would get under national-qualifying," said Harper coach Bob Nolan. "But I was still really pleased. He's looking a lot stronger now after he got in a good week of workouts this past week."

Fieldhouse ran 4:17.4 Saturday while the winner clocked 4:12.2. The Fremd High School graduate set a Harper record by five seconds.

FIELDHOUSE, a national junior college qualifier in the mile indoors, had taken a week off to look at colleges out East prior to the Harper Invitational April 16. He was running on literally no practice when he won the mile in that meet in a time of 4:23.8.

"Will fell off the pace a little in the third quarter at Carthage," said Nolan. "But he came back fairly good. That was the difference in running 14:15 or under."

Harper weightman Bob Roels, high jumper Mike Nichol and hurdler Jim Lemke also contributed to the Hawk scoring Saturday as Nolan's team held its own in competition with several four-year schools. The Hawks had 15 points, but Carthage won with 152 and several University of Wisconsin branches scored high.

"It was good for the guys to see competition like that," Nolan explained. "We ran well in several events."

ROELS TOOK fourth in the discus with a toss of 144-1 and reached a personal best in the shot put (46-4) for a sixth place. Nichol, who holds the Harper high jump record at 6-8, managed only 6-2 for third. The winner went just 6-4.

"Nichol said he didn't like the surface," Nolan noted. "He was slipping a lot."

Lemke finished fifth in the intermediate hurdles and Paul Rizzo, who failed to place, did run a 52.0 in the 440.

Shoot smoke, kid!

The dubious distinction of having the lowest career high goes to immortal Bernie Harris.

A fourth round draft choice of the Buffalo Braves in 1974, Harris, from Virginia Commonwealth, had a career high of two points. He was later waived.

Carter asks 9% lid on hospital bill hikes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter appealed to Congress Monday to halt "runaway costs of hospital care" by imposing a 9 per cent a year limit on increases in patient bills for 6,000 hospitals.

The limit would be enforced by punitive taxation of 150 per cent of excess billings and would be an average figure based on the total annual charges by each hospital.

Carter said the cost of health care has increased more than 1,000 per cent since 1950 while the cost of living has gone up 136 per cent. Since 1965, the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare said, the cost of an average hospital stay has shot up from less than $300 to more than $1,300 and the average cost of a day's hospitalization has increased from $41 to more than $158.

Most Northwest suburban hospitals had not assessed the proposed ceiling late Monday, but a Lutheran General Hospital spokesman said passage of a 9 per cent limit could force a cutback in patient services.

"Anything that . . . does not seem to consider the increases in cost that the hospital will experience, such as utilities, supplies and equipment, means we eventually would have no option but to cut back on services," Edward Van Natta, public information officer at the Park Ridge hospital, said.

"And any cutback on services could affect the quality of patient care," he said.

PATIENT COSTS at Lutheran General have increased about 13 per cent per year in the past few years, Van Natta said.

Other Northwest suburban hospitals reported patient cost increases ranging from 8.5-23.4 per cent during 1975. Malpractice insurance, employe raises and an increase in operating costs were blamed.

Carter described his proposal as "very fair" and said it would save $2 billion in hospital expenditures during the first year. He also proposed legislation to establish a $180 million program to provide medical care for poor children.

He first mentioned the two proposals in his fiscal year 1978 budget message, and said Monday, "These two proposals go well together . . . to control runaway costs of hospital care and to deal in a preventive fashion with threats to the health of American citizens at an early age."

CONGRESS WAS ASKED to approve the hospital cost control proposal quickly so it could take effect Oct. 1.

The proposal does not cover nursing homes, Health Maintenance Organization hospitals, Veterans Administration and Public Health Service hospitals, although VA and PHS hospitals could and would have cost controls imposed directly by the President under existing authority, said Health, Education and Welfare Sec. Joseph Califano.

Under the proposed Hospital Cost Containment Act of 1977, hospital charges could go up no more than about 9 per cent a year in fiscal 1978, with the percentage dropping in future years.

About 90 per cent of hospital patients do not pay their own bills; most are paid by private insurers, Medicare and Medicaid.

IF A HOSPITAL'S charges rise above the 9 per cent level, it would have to put the excess amount in escrow the next year or face a tax penalty, Califano said.

Any hospital or insurance company found to have received funds in violation of the act would be required to pay a tax equal to 150 per cent of the amount in violation.

Limits on hospital charges would be imposed through a formula reflecting general price trends in the economy and the difference between over-all price increases and hospital costs. An allowance would be permitted for some increase in patient services.

Under the formula, for example, with an over-all limit of 9 per cent and an estimated increase of 2 per cent in hospital admissions, a hospital would be allowed an increase in average revenue per admission of 7 per cent.

To prevent hospitals from shifting costs of in-patient services outside the hospital to avoid the revenue limit, the ceiling would exclude any services previously performed in the hospital that were moved outside, according to HEW.

"This country spends more on health care than any other nation — $160 billion this year, almost 9 per cent of our Gross National Product," Carter said in a message to Congress.

"Yet many of our people still lack adequate medical care, and the cost of care is rising so rapidly it jeopardizes our health goals and our other important social objectives."

Manson appeal rejected by Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Supreme Court Monday rejected appeals of erstwhile cult leader Charles Manson of California and of a Texas death row inmate who has said he wants to die.

Lawyers for Robert Excell White insisted on bringing several constitutional issues to the high court despite his death wish.

He was convicted of the 1976 robbery-murder of a grocery store attendant near McKinney, Tex., and for a time was engaged in a bizarre race with Gary Gilmore of Utah to become the first person executed in this country since 1967.

THE HIGH COURT stayed White's execution last Dec. 6, while Gilmore, who also said he wanted to die, was executed by firing squad Jan. 17.

Manson, 42, was sentenced to death for the 1969 murders of actress Sharon Tate and six others in Los Angeles — but California subsequently dropped capital punishment. He is in maximum security at the state medical facility at Vacaville.

Manson is eligible for parole in December 1978, but a state spokesman said he is unlikely to be freed for a long time, if ever. The high court rejected without comment his request for review on grounds of pretrial publicity, among other things.

In his request for high court review, Manson asserted his innocence and raised numerous issues, including a charge that prosecutors schemed with the media to cause massive publicity. He said his trial should have been held elsewhere.

As the justices moved into their last week of arguments in the current term, they also refused to review the Mississippi Supreme Court's rewriting of the state's 1974 capital punishment law. This allows new trials for 19 death row inmates. In the interim, the legislature has passed a new law.

Rough seas, winds halt oil cleanup in North Sea

STAVANGER, Norway (UPI) — Rough seas and 35-mile-an-hour winds Monday forced oil company officials to abandon work on an offshore oil well leak that is spewing 4,000 tons of oil and mud a day into the North Sea.

Ken Laird, a spokesman for American Phillips Petroleum Co., said a work barge being used in efforts to plug the leak was towed from the "Bravo" platform due to the deteriorating weather.

"When the wind gets up the barge cannot stay near 'Bravo' because the waves would slam it into the platform. That would be a dangerous situation," Laird said.

A PHILLIPS spokesman said work would resume as soon as the winds died down, but noted that even under ideal conditions the job could take up to five days. If it fails, a relief well must be drilled to siphon off the pressure of the main well — a task that could last two months.

The choppy seas also forced six pollution control ships from Norway, Denmark and Sweden loaded with skimmers and heavy booms to retreat from the site of a 40-square-mile slick created by the leak.

The rig is 175 miles southwest of Stavanger in the Norwegian Ekofisk field, Europe's largest one.

DURING THE first three months of 1977 the field produced about 30 million barrels of oil worth nearly $400 million, But Phippips has stopped all operations until the leak is plugged.

Relatively calm winds has slowed the progress of the oil slick toward the Danish and Norwegian coasts, but officials said the bad weather and choppy seas could spread the oil over a wider area.

The oil slick has nearly surrounded Ekofisk City, a huge platform housing 350 employes about two miles from the offshore rig. Gordon Goering, regional manager for Phillips in Norway, said contingency plans have been drawn up to evacuate the city by helicopter.

Two of the world's top oil blowout experts — Anger "Boots" Hansen and Richard Hatterberg of Houston's famed Red Adair Fires and Blowout Co. — landed a helicopter party onto the rig for an inspection Sunday.

BUNNY DALE shows Susan Pierce, right, of Arlington Heights the proper way to serve during interviews at the Hyatt Regency O'Hare Hotel Monday. Susan was one of many seeking Playboy jobs.

Recruiters look for 'Bunny image'

Bunnies were in season Monday at the Hyatt Regency O'Hare.

Recruiters from the Lake Geneva Playboy Club were in town to interview girls interested in becoming Playboy Bunnies.

There was Bunny Mother Gail Hintz, Pixie and Deb, all of them waiting for a girl to walk through door of Room 717 with the "Bunny image."

FOR THE UNINITIATED, "Bunny image" is defined as "a young, fresh, youthful looking girl with a nice face, nice figure and a sparkling personality." It's glamor and the girl next door; Hollywood and everyone's home town rolled into one.

The girls make $1.65 an hour plus tips, and there are fringe benefits. They can use the facilities at Playboy Club hotels for free or at reduced cost; their food and drinks are half-priced; they get a 75 per cent discount on rooms at Playboy Clubs; there is company-paid-for health and life insurance; a week's vacation after one year; and if they choose, the girls can stay in the Bunny dorm in Lake Geneva for $60 a month.

There is not, however, a Bunny pension plan. Girls must be at least 18 years old, but there is no upper age limit. They can work until the Bunny image fades.

Applicants were asked to fill out a short form Monday and model a two-piece bathing suit.

"IT'S VERY IMPORTANT that I see the girl, especially her legs, because of the uniform they wear," says Mother Hintz, a Bunny herself for 5½ years.

Lake Geneva wants to hire 50 Bunnies to work as cocktail and restaurant waitresses. The girls are trained for their work. There is, it seems, a certain Playboy way to stand and serve. But Ms. Hintz insists she does not try to mold the girls' personality.

"Everybody has to have a boss and I'm in charge of training the girls, seeing that they're doing their job," she says. Even for a girl with the Bunny image, a boss is still a boss.

Our Genie hops right in Bunny tryout

by GENIE CAMPBELL

It was a little after 6 p.m. and the night session had just begun. I was the only candidate there. Still, in Playboy's heyday, I imagine there would have been a line.

Two Bunnies behind a long table — I recognized them because they were wearing ears but no tails — asked me to fill out a short application. It required my name, address, past employment, and most important, weight and measurements.

"Guess if you don't know," suggested one Bunny.

I didn't guess. I lied.

"DID YOU BRING a swimsuit?" the other Bunny asked.

"No," I answered, mumbling how I'd come straight from work and didn't have time to prepare.

I need not have worried that my skirt and vest were more conservative than sexy. They weren't about to interview me in my clothes, anyhow.

"What size are you — 9-10?" asked one Bunny.

"Hey, that's good," I said.

"Here's a 7-8," a Bunny said, handing me one. "The bathroom is right around the corner. You can change in there."

IT ISN'T FAIR that the girl who came in right after me was auditioning in a leotard. It slims you out. I know. I exercise in one. I had to wear a two-piece bikini, a size too small. It's just what they wanted.

All kinds of strange thoughts ran through my mind as I slipped into my red "uniform." I had a premonition that if I left my clothes in the bathroom, they might get stolen.

"That's silly," I admonished myself. "Who would want to steal your clothes." But I kept my blouse on for good measure, waiting to unbutton it just before I sat down to face "Bunny Mother."

I PUT A BIG smile on my face and tried to remember to suck in, but then I couldn't talk. It didn't matter because she was giving a rundown about the hours. She rattled off the bunny benefits, including free use of all the facilities at the Lake Geneva Playboy Club and one-half price off all food.

She asked me a few more questions about my background. I lied again.

Of course, she said, the interview was based on appearance. "I'd like you to stand over there," she said, pointing to a spot midway across the room.

"Ankles together, please." "Now, turn to the side and the back. OK, thank you," Bunny Mother said. "We'll call you one way or the other."

I grabbed my blouse and exited fast.

GOP leaders criticize Carter energy program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter's energy program could lead to a recession, House Republican leader John Rhodes said Monday.

But neither he, nor Senate GOP leader Howard Baker nor party chairman William Brock, each of them criticizing the President's plan, offered a proposal of his own.

At a news conference, the Republican leaders agreed there is an energy crisis and they expressed various degrees of opposition to Carter's energy tax proposals, which they said should not be used to finance projects in other fields, such as welfare.

RHODES SAID he opposes all of Carter's energy taxes. Rhodes said the Carter plan "could lead to a recession or worse. There is a slight trend toward a drop in the growth of the Gross National Product. Now is not the time to put on new taxes."

Baker said he wants to see the fine print before saying, but he said he favors a tax incentive to producers and a tax on any windfall profits.

Brock said, "The President's tax proposals are clearly not conservation taxes. If they are not conservation taxes then we don't know exactly what they are for. This is not the kind of approach our party will support."

Key portions of the detailed Carter plan involve new taxes, tax rebates or tax credits. There would be a tax on gas guzzling automobiles and authority to impose a nickel-a-car increase in federal gasoline taxes. Domestic oil, industrial use of natural gas and aviation and marine fuel would be taxed higher.

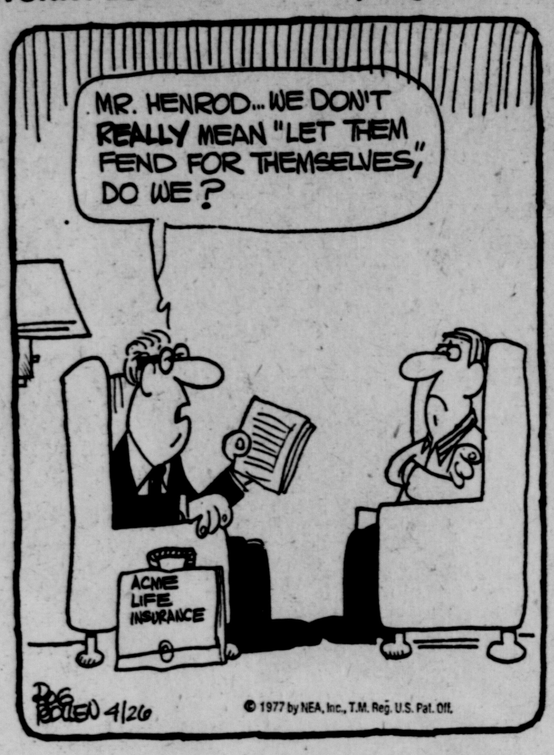

THERE WOULD be rebates or credits for intercity bus transportation, home insulation, solar heating and industrial conversion to coal.

Mary Zita Jacoby never has become a really expert player, but her 1,500 master points are mostly of the red variety since she usually played in major events with some of the family.

She sat South today, while Oswald held the North cards. His bidding can best be described as typical husband-wife slam bidding. For all he knew, when he settled for six spades the combined hands might produce seven spades or seven notrump, but he decided to settle for the small slam.

Mrs. Jacoby was unhappy with the dummy. She could only count to 11 tricks. Of course, 12 would have been easy without that diamond lead, but that diamond lead is what hit her.

She drew trumps with two leads after taking the first diamond and noted that trumps had been accounted for. Then she played three rounds of hearts to ruff the third one in dummy. A diamond was led to her 10 and West's jack.

West made his best lead — the queen of clubs. Now Mary Zita remembered that honors were supposed to divide. She rose with dummy's king, finessed against East's jack and made the slam.

Ask Andy

1769 brought development of automobile

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1977 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Tommy Wilk, 11, of Williamsport, Pa., for his question:

WHEN WAS THE FIRST AUTOMOBILE MADE?

The enactment and enforcement of the Red Flag Act of 1836, which wasn't repealed until 1896, hindered and slowed the automotive industry for more than 60 years. The act made it mandatory for all self-propelled vehicles to be preceded by a man carrying a red flag or a lantern, and the speed of the vehicle was limited to 4 miles per hour in the country and 2 mph in the city.

French inventor Nicolas Cugnot is given credit for building in 1769 the first mechanically propelled vehicle. It was powered by a steam engine and had three wheels, a single one in front being the driver. It reached the speed of 3 miles an hour.

The French were back again in the late 1800s with a gasoline-powered internal combustion engine built by Rene Panhard and Emile Levassor. In Germany, Gottlieb Daimler adapted it to a bicycle in 1886, and B. Benz, in the same year, used it in a tricycle-type carriage.

America got into the act when Charles Duryea came out with a one-cylinder car in 1892. The Haynes and Winton cars were close behind and these were followed by Ford, Selden, Buick, Bristoe, Maxwell, Franklin, White and others.

Almost every type of car imaginable was produced between 1903 and 1915. Cylinders ranged in number from one to 16. Roads improved and the business of building automobiles took off in full force to become one of the world's most important industries.

The internal combustion engine was probably the most important item that boosted the auto industry into prominence. Major parts include the pistons, cylinders, connecting rods, crankshaft, fuel system, ignition and cooling systems and a lubrication system. The piston is pushed by an explosion of fuel in the cylinder, and it thrusts the connecting rod, which in turn moves the crankshaft. The crankshaft is connected to a mechanism which rotates the wheels of the car.

Most gasoline-powered automobiles operate on what are called four-cycle engines. The piston moves the length of the cylinder four times to take in gasoline, compress the fuel mixture, burn it and then remove the waste products of combustion through the exhaust pipe.

What does the future spell for automobiles? We can't tell for sure, but we can safely guess there will be some marvelous developments.

Andy sends a Denoyer-Geppert World Globe to Marie Manaigre, age 15, of St. Boniface, Manitoba, Canada, for her question:

WHAT CAUSES EARTHQUAKES?

An earthquake, simply, is the shaking of the Earth's surface. While thousands occur each year, only a few cause damage. They're caused by the movement of the crustal blocks of rocks that make up the Earth.

Earthquakes occur mainly where mountains are high and oceans are deep because this is where most breaks, or faults, in the Earth's crust are found. Sudden slippage along a fault line causes an earthquake.

A seismograph is an instrument that records the vibrations of an earthquake. By knowing how to read the instrument, scientists can find the exact location of a quake and the intensity of its force.

Electric autos hum along

New car expo—just charge 'em

Instead of filling their tanks, about 5,000 car owners now plug their cars into the nearest electrical outlet.

They are among the elite few who own electric vehicles. The cars look like toys — some are small and boxy while others look like a prop from a science fiction movie. But lots of people think they are the coming thing and they have gathered at McCormick Place this week to deliver that message at the International Electric Vehicle Exp.

Charles Taylor, project coordinator of the Electric Vehicle Council, is one of those proclaiming the benefits of the electric car.

"THE AVERAGE electric vehicle costs about 3 cents a mile to operate and they are very maintenance-free," he said. Moreover, the cars have no emissions, making them a favorite with environmentalists, he said.

Taylor said the biggest plus for electric vehicles is that they don't use gasoline.

"Only 16 per cent of the electricity in the United States is generated with petroleum. So you can see if you have electric vehicles on the road how much we could be saving," he said, noting that 54.6 per cent of the petroleum in this country is used in transportation.

Based on current energy use, Taylor said the United States could support a fleet of all-electric cars without running into an energy problem until about the year 2000. That's because most electrical energy is produced from coal, hydroelectric plants and nuclear energy.

THE BIGGEST problem with electric cars is their limited driving range. Most battery packs will provide only enough power for about 75 miles of travel before they need recharging.

"I think the main reason why more people don't have them is cost," Taylor said, estimating the vehicles cost $3,000 and up. "Most people don't want to put that much into a car with limited use."

But for the suburban housewife or the city driver, Taylor said he thinks electric vehicles are the answer.

Although there are some familiar names like Datsun, Toyota and Fiat among the exhibitors, most of the people who make electric vehicles are not the big car manufacturers. Many are like Steve Feher of Honolulu who came to exhibit an electric motorcycle he built himself.

"I'D LIKE TO communite my ideas to the powers that be," Faher said, noting he's been experimenting with the electrical power source to propel a car. "I'm also here to see what everyone else has."

The exhibits range from sleek electric autos to buses, trucks and motorcycles. Gould Inc. of Rolling Meadows is showing electric vehicles now used by the U.S. Post Office while Bob McKee of McKee Engineering Corp., Palatine, designed several vehicles for the exhibit.

Faher and others in the exhibit say much has to be done to the electric vehicle before it will become widely accepted.

"There is a psychological barrier when your vehicle only can go so far and then it will be hung up for so many hours charging," he said.

But Faher, like everyone else at the expo, is certain that the hum of electric vehicles is in our future.

kept in touch with Mitchell and "Roman."

She said in October 1975 Mitchell told her he had learned Frank Columbo had taken out a "contract" on her and DeLuca. She said Mitchell and "Roman" asked her whether she wanted her father "taken care of."

Miss Columbo said she told the pair to go ahead with the killings.

"My father was the only one I wanted hit, but they said if he went, my mother had to go, too," Miss Columbo said. "I said all right, as long as my brother wasn't hurt."

MISS COLUMBO also said she never told DeLuca of the contract on her family.

The conspirators had discussed whether they should bomb the family car or shoot family members, Miss Columbo said.

One of the men suggested making the killings look like a robbery or burglary, Miss Columbo said. She said she told the men they could finance the "hit" by taking whatever they desired from the house.

Mitchell, after turning informant for police, reportedly told investigators Miss Columbo had provided him with family snapshots, a floor plan of the Columbo home and a handritten dossier of family activities to help plot the slayings.

However, in Miss Columbo's statement, she denied handing over the snapshots, and said she only improved on a floor plan Mitchell already had and mentioned a list of valuables as the only handwritten document she gave Mitchell.

"WE HAD A CONTRACT set up about Christmas time," Miss Columbo said.

However, by spring Frank Columbo's attitude had changed, Miss Columbo said.

"I wanted to call it off," she said. "I knew Lanny (Mitchell) was sick and would probably get kicks out of raping mother or something."

Miss Columbo did not explain why she failed to cancel the "hit."

After the May 4 killings, Mitchell turned informant and led police to Miss Columbo and DeLuca, police have testified.

Mitchell and Sobczynski reportedly have told police they were solicited to kill by Miss Columbo, but backed out of the plot before the slayings occurred.

DeLuca lawyer says cop lied

A defense attorney for Frank DeLuca, alleged slayer of an Elk Grove Village family, Monday accused a detective of lying to the Cook County grand jury which indicted DeLuca.

Michael J. Toomin, private defense attorney appointed to represent DeLuca, 39, filed two motions Monday to dismiss a grand jury indictment against his client because of what he called perjury committed by John G. Landers, a former Elk Grove Village police detective.

Landers, now an administrative assistant to the director of law enforcement in Illinois, was one of several Elk Grove Village and Cook County Sheriff's police who investigated the May 4, 1976, slayings of Frank and Mary Columbo and their 13-year-old son, Michael.

The investigation led to the arrests of the Columbo's daughter Patricia, 20, in May 1976, and DeLuca, her boy friend, in July 1976.

Miss Columbo and DeLuca were charged with the slayings in an indictment June 18, 1976. DeLuca was arrested shortly after he was indicted.

Toomin said he had reviewed grand jury testimony, and found false statements allegedly made by Landers.

Judge R. Eugene Pincham of the Cook County Circuit Court declined to make the motions public. Pincham said the motions likely will be made public at a pretrial hearing starting at 9 a.m. today in his courtroom at the Cook County Criminal Courts Building, 26th Street and California Avenue, Chicago.

Police block traffic in van probe

Illinois State Police Monday set up a road block at the Northwest Tollway near the Lee Street exit in an attempt to locate witnesses to the Friday afternoon hijacking of an Illinois Tollway van carrying $80,000 in cash.

Lt. Charles McArthur, Dist. 15 Illinois State Police, said Monday afternoon that the blockade didn't turn up any witnesses to the hijacking.

Tollway van driver Darko Kucan, 27, told police he was driving on the tollway about to turn onto the Lee Street exit when a car with flashing lights pulled him over. Kucan said he was abducted when he went back to see what the men wanted. He said he thought the men were police.

POLICE FOUND Kucan tied up inside the empty van Saturday on Chicago's north side after an anonymous telephone caller told them the van's location.

McArthur said police have questioned Kucan "for an indeterminant period of time" Monday but learned "nothing of consequence."

State troopers are riding "shotgun" for all Illinois Tollway vans carrying money since the truck disappeared Friday, McArthur said. One armed man is with each truck.

McArthur would not say how many vans operate throughout the area.

"For security reasons, all I can say is (we have) quite a few (vans)," he said.

McArthur would not comment on rumors that Kucan may be involved in the possible scheme to collect the tollway money, $60,000 in coins and $20,000 in bills.

"All I can say is that we've beefed up our plainclothesmen and we're trying to run down leads," he said.

The tollway authority also has decided to check the backgrounds of new employes. Daniel J. Kennelly, authority director, said the move is not a reflection on Kucan.

Disappearance of heiress probed

A Cook County grand jury Monday began an investigation into the February disappearance of candy heiress Helen Voorhees Brach. Kenneth Gillis, deputy state's attorney, said subpoenas had been issued for the 62-year-old widow's financial records, including chrage accounts and bank statements. Gillis said investigators would use the records to try to trace her movements since she disappeared, and also to determine whether there was evidence of theft from her bank accounts. Speculation has mounted that Mrs. Brach is dead.

"But without a body," said Glenview Police Chief William Bartlett, "you don't have a case. You don't have anything."

Sullivan invited on 'death flight'

Thomas P. Sullivan, recommended to become the next U.S. attorney for northern Illinois, said Monday he and his wife had been invited on a flight that ended in death for four persons near Meigs Field. "I had flown on that plane 25 times," Sullivan said. "My wife and I decided not to accept the invitation to go on the trip." Everyone aboard the Aero Commander 680 private plane was killed when it flew into a flock of seagulls while taking off Saturday and crashed into Lake Michigan.

A federal official said the pilot of the plane was told about the birds before takeoff. Neal Callahan, spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration, said that's all the controller can do. It's then up to the pilot whether he wants to try to make it or not.

Illinois briefs

Stevenson slated for gland surgery

Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., will undergo surgery later this week for removal of a nodule on his thyroid gland, Stevenson's office in Washington said Monday. The senator will enter the Naval Medical Center in Bethesda Wednesday, with the surgery scheduled Thursday. It will be performed by Dr. William Fouty, chief of surgery at the naval hospital. The nodule, located on the right side of the thyroid gland was found during a routine physical examination, aides said. The senator decided on surgery last week when another examination showed the nodule had not been suppressed by medication.

Unit OKs marriage license hike

A bill to increase marriage license fees from $10 to $20 cleared the House Counties Committee Monday, 15-0 as both the House and Senate spent most of their day working in committee. House rules require bills other than budget bills be heard in committee not later than Saturday. The Senate has given itself until May 6 for committee deliberations. Hundreds of bills still await consideration in each house.

In other committee action:

- Legislation to allow Illinois residents to bring Coor's beer into the state and sell it to friends failed to get out of the House Veterans Affairs, Registration and Regulation Committee.
- A bill allowing persons to vote in primary elections without declaring party affiliation fell one vote short of passing the House Elections Committee.

Carey Olson and backup band perform

A nursery for the youngsters while the parents attend Sunday services

Unusual group calls unchurched

by PAUL GORES

The marquee at Willow Creek Theatre in Palatine never mentions it, but each weekend at the theater there is a unique free performance.

The performance features a variety of singers, backed by the music of electric guitars, an organ, piano, percussion and brass instruments. There is a colorful slide presentation set to music. There is a comical but poignant skit by several actors and actresses.

And most important to those who attend Willow Creek Theatre each Sunday morning, the performance features something they can take with them when they leave — a message from the Bible.

"WE'RE NOT your everyday type of church," said Bill Hybels, coordinating minister of the nondenominational Willow Creek Community Church. "We are for those who have been turned off by the traditional kind of church. We're the church for people without a church."

Two years ago at the age of 23, Hybels and another church coordinator, Dave Holmbo, set out to found a Christian church that would attract persons who normally spend Sunday mornings anywhere but in church.

"Dave and I went out knocking on doors to find out what it was about church that turns people off," Hybels said. "We asked them if they had a church, and if they did, fine, we would go to the next house. If they didn't, we would ask them why. We asked them if church were made more positive, 'would you be interested'."

Hybels said he and Holmbo found many persons were staying away from church because of its "stiffness, boredom, guilt-ridden messages and negative approach."

So in October 1975 Hybels and Holmbo rented the Willow Creek Theatre and invited Palatine residents to perhaps the most untraditional church service they had ever seen.

IT INCLUDED many features of Son City, a Christian youth group that Hybels and Holmbo brought to Palatine only a month earlier. The modern music, the skits, the films and messages and prayer led by Hybels and Holmbo were put not only to youths, but to their parents or acquaintances who previously had little enthusiasm for church.

It has proved to be popular. Willow Creek Community Church has expanded from one morning service to two each Sunday, and has a regular weekly attendance of about 1,500 persons.

Son City has grown in two years from 175 high school students to 600. The church has branched into weeknight activities, with Son Village, a Christian leadership training session for youths, meeting on Mondays at Pleasant Hill School in Palatine. The New Community, a Bible study and leadership training session for those college-aged and older, meets Wednesdays at the Arlington Heights Elks Club.

"We're getting to the point where we almost fill the theater twice (on Sundays)," Hybels said. He said it is time for the congregation to begin thinking about building its own church sometime in the future.

Hybels said the popularity of the Willow Creek Community Church is not a fad, but is "here to stay."

"We find that people who have given up on church really enjoy contemporary music and the program we offer," Hybels said. "And the message, too. The content is similar to any evangelical church in the area, but it's meant to be inspiring, helpful, practical and uplifting."

MUCH OF THE congregation appears youthful, but Hybels said that the church's growth during the last four months has come from "the upper end of the age spectrum."

The music, although it is played with instruments commonly associated with rock music, generally is mellow and appealing to persons of all ages. It is performed by Music Inc., a group of about 60 vocalists and 15 to 18 musicians who take turns performing on Sundays.

Each Sunday there is a slide show, presented by two or three projectors to create a motion effect on the screen. The slide illustrations are the original work of staff artist Ginny Meredith. They are often modern-day parables with a Biblical message.

The skits, too, are meant to drive home a point in an abstract way. They are usually comical, but contain a serious message.

ONE MIGHT expect other churches to accuse Willow Creek Community Church of offering gimmicks to attract attendance. But Hybels said that has not been the case.

"We are not competing with other churches," Hybels said. "These are people who were not members of another church. We are presenting an alternative to people who cannot go to a traditional church."

Unlike most churches, Willow Creek Community Church does not take up a collection from its congregation. Instead, there are two baskets at the door where persons can leave a donation.

Despite the "no collection" policy, Hybels said the church has never had financial problems.

"We don't have a wealthy group, but we have a lot of people who are dedicated," he said. "Because of the dedication of our people we're doing very well. Our needs have always been met."

Hybels said the generosity of the Palatine Park District, whose Birchwood Park Recreation Center is used for the Son City youth meetings, also has helped.

"We would be the first to say Willow Creek is not for everybody," Hybels said."We offer a creative, fresh, positive, practical approach. We want to get people interested in God."

Coordinator Bill Hybels greets the congregation

12 Oaks drops child surcharge

Plans to charge tenants at Twelve Oaks Apartments in Arlington Heights $15 extra a month for each child have been abandoned by the complex's owner.

The announcement was made Monday by Village Pres. James T. Ryan after several meetings with Michael Sparks of Sparks & Associates, Des Plaines, the new owner of Twelve Oaks.

Sparks, who was unavailable for comment Monday, announced the new rental policy in late March. When he acquired Twelve Oaks, 1130 Wilke Rd., March 1 he told tenants with children their leases would not be renewed. He dropped plans to convert the apartments to an adult complex when his attorney advised him it violated an obscure state statute passed in 1909.

Twelve Oaks residents took their objections to Sparks' surcharge on children to village and state officials.

THE ARLINGTON Heights Village Board passed an ordinance prohibiting apartment owners from charging rents based on the number of persons living in an apartment and Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott filed a lawsuit in Cook County Circuit Court charging Sparks with discrimination.

After the village's ordinance was passed, Sparks agreed to postpone imposing the tax on children until a court ruling was received.

Stanley Eisenhammer, a Twelve Oaks resident who with Stuart Wolf represented the newly formed Twelve Oaks Tenants Ass., credited the village's new ordinance with convincing Sparks to drop the surcharge on children.

"It surprised me that he dropped the idea because he changed his tactics with every move of the citizens and village board, but I think his attorney saw that the village's ordinance was well-drafted and could withstand judicial attack," Eisenhammer said.

Teen foster home approved

will be accepted.

"If delinquency is a problem we won't take them. We will allow only those who run away because there's a serious problem at home."

THE CHILDREN, aged 11 to 17, will stay at the home a maximum of 21 days and then either will be sent back home if problems there are worked out or will be placed in a long-term foster home by the state, Yasgur said.

Three full-time staff persons will supervise the children. Two of them will live at the home. Yasgur said the children's activities will be restricted. A curfew will be imposed and they may not leave the home unless the supervisors know they are leaving, where they are going and with whom.

"If any criminals are involved here," said Shelter Inc., Pres. Susan Roberts, "they are the parents, not the children. The children we are talking about may have parents who are alcoholics, who neglect, abandon or physically abuse them."

The home will be financed by an $80,000 grant from the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, Yasgur said.

William Utley of Elk Grove Village, the owner of the property, said he favors the home. But all of the 25 residents present disagreed.

THE BOARD recommended the project with several conditions. They said the land variation should expire in two years so the program can be reevaluated; that after one year the village board should review the home; that only five children be allowed in the home at one time and that personnel living at the home be on duty 24 hours a day.

They also requested the matter be referred to the zero vandalism committee for review.

Disgusted residents after the vote said they plan to take their fight to the village board when the matter comes up there.

As Wysocki said, "You ain't seen nothin' yet."

Syrians hit stiff Beirut resistance

Syrian peacekeeping troops battled house-to-house with Palestinian and Lebanese extremists on the outskirts of Beirut Monday in ont of the worst Syrian-Palestinian clashes since the end of the civil war last November. The Syrians, using armored cars and heavy machine guns, pushed slowly into a largely Palestinian neighborhood near the sprawling refugee camps of Sabra and Shatilla south of the capital, reporters who toured the area said.

The Syrians met stiff resistance in their operation to crackdown on the leftist Palestinian "rejection front," who holed up in basements and on apartment-house balconies, the reporters said. "It was too hot even to approach," one reporter said. Syrian-controled Saiqa guerrillas also skirmished with the "rejectionists" inside Sabra camp itself, a Palestinian official said. He said guerrilla leaders were meeting in emergency session to try to arrange a cease-fire.

Zaireans capture rebel post

Government troops attacking through tall elephant grass captured the rebel stronghold of Mutshatsha Monday in the first major government victory in eight weeks of fighting, the military reported. The Zairean forces, with Moroccan troops in rear support, quickly fanned out past the town and pushed westward along dirt tracks toward the Angolan border. They also were reported ready to attack the town of Kapanga, where eight American Methodist missionaries were being held under house arrest by the rebels. Kapanga is 205 miles northwest of Mutshatsha and 47 miles from the Angolan border. President Mobutu Sese Seko, in an interview with the government news agency AZAP, refused to say whether Zairean units would pursue the rebels into Angola. He said the "paramount" thing was "the territorial integrity of Zaire."

Soviets warn of rights 'battle'

The Soviet Union warned Monday that any Western attempt to provoke a confrontation over human rights at the forthcoming Belgrade conference would be harmful to detente. The official Soviet News agency Tass also said the Communists would win such a "'battle" because only under their system are human rights guaranteed not only in words but by deeds. Political commentator Alexei Petrov said the June meeting to review the 1975 East-West Helsinki security pact could lead to "the crystalization of a common positive political approach . . . There are different signs as well, and they cannot but attract attention."

The nation

$35.9 billion arms bill to Senate

The House, after rejecting amendments to withdraw troops from South Korea and reduce pensions for future military enlistees, passed and sent to the Senate Monday legislation authorizing the spending of $35.9 billion for weapons, aircraft and naval ships. The bill, for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1, was approved by a 347-43 vote. It calls for $24.8 billion in military procurement, a $792.7 million increase over President Carter's requests. About $10.9 billion would be spent on research for new weapons, $776.7 million less than asked by Carter.

Included in the measure was a $5.7 billion shipbuilding program that would place more emphasis on combat ships than Carter's, add a nuclear attack submarine and start funds for a new type nuclear cruiser. It also restored cuts Carter had asked in production of some weapons, such as $334 million to raise total production of F15 fighter planes to 108 next year and $24.4 million to keep the production line for Navy A7 attack bombers open.

GOP to vote on tax cut plan

Senate Republicans, hoping to use the popularity of tax cuts to hand President Carter a big legislative defeat, agreed Monday to a Wednesday vote on their plan to cut income taxes $7.9 billion a year. The delay gives the GOP a chance to publicly question Carter's top economic lieutenants Tuesday afternoon when they appear before the Senate Budget Committee. Debate on the Republican plan has droned on for several days as its sponsors marked time awaiting their chance to hear Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal, budget director Bert Lance and chief economic adviser Charles Schultze.

Democratic leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia said that following the 12 p.m. CDT vote Wednesday, the Senate would work long hours the remainder of the week to complete the bill. It contains a $6 billion per year tax cut for those who use the standard deduction and business tax cuts amounting to $4.1 billion over the next two years.

Warnke has nuclear fuel plan

Paul Warnke, chief U. S. arms control negotiator, said Monday the United States should halt nuclear fuel shipments to countries which set off nuclear blasts. "We should immediately cease nuclear supply if a nation explodes a nuclear device," Warnke told a hearing of a Senate subcommittee on energy and nuclear proliferation. Since India set off a "peaceful" device in May 1974, U. S. officials have looked askance at such blasts as precursors of nuclear arms.

Carter says time crucial for Mideast peace

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter sought to maintain momentum in the United States search for a Middle East peace Monday by telling Jordan's King Hussein the situation will become "very difficult" if Arabs and Israelis fail to settle their differences this year.

In brief remarks welcoming Hussein, Carter said somberly, "This year, 1977, is a special time. It is one when we face possible opportunities for major strides toward permanent peace in the Middle East.

"It would bt a mistake to be too optimistic because of the serious nature of the divisions that have long separated one people from another in the eastern Mediterranean region."

AFTER AN Oval Office session with the President, Hessein conferred at the State Dept. with Sec. of State Cyrus Vance.

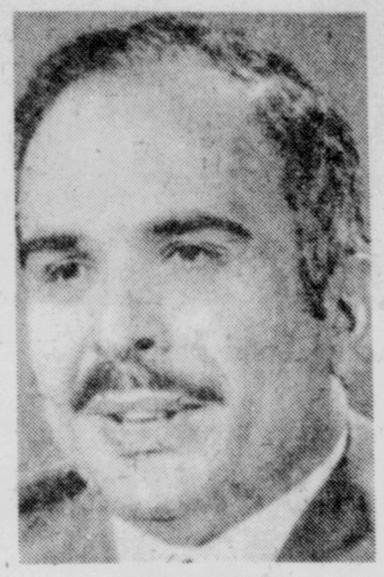

His schedule included a "working banquet" Monday night at the White House with Carter and other American officials and another Oval Office discussion Tuesday.

The simple and austere welcoming ceremony for Hussein on the South Lawn included only the traditional 21-gun salute, a band and a small color guard — the same low-key greeting accorded the two other Middle East leaders who have visited Carter: Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

The President said, "If there is one leader who is a key to the comprehension of the problems and also the analysis of the possible solutions, it would be King Hussein."

Carter said as the Oval Office talk began, "We have a group of moderate leaders (in the Middle East) who tremendously want peace. If we fail this year, it's going to be very difficult to marshal a new effort next year."

Sadat had told Carter he believed 1977 would be a "golden opportunity" for a Mideast settlement but Hussein in recent interviews has been far less optimistic of the chances for meaningful peace talks.

U.S. OFFICIALS, pushing for progress in the area, are lining up early meetings between Carter and Deputy Prime Minister Prince Fahd of Saudi Arabia, President Hazez Assad of Syria and Rabin's successor.

Hussein is a key to the resolution of the Palestinian problem, because there is a growing consensus — which includes the leaders of Egypt and Israel — that the future Palestinian "ministate" on the West Bank of the Jordan river should be politically linked with Hussein's government.

U.S. officials said Hussein during his three-day visit is not expected to ask for any new arms from the United States.

Jordan still is awaiting delivery of a $543 million air defense system, as well as B59 fighters, and appears to be lacking finances to pay for additional new weapons.

Americans leave Ethiopia after nation's ultimatum

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) — A military jet flew 85 American dependents to Athens Monday, the first of nearly 300 United States citizens ordered expelled from Ethiopia with the abrupt shutdown of five United States agencies.

Citing what it called "fallacious and totally biased dispatches used for anti-Ethionian government propaganda," the leftist military government also told three Western foreign correspondents to leave by Wednesday.

It followed the government's ultimatum Saturday ordering the United States installations plus the consulates or honorary consulates of five other nations in Asmara — capital of troubled Eritrea province—to pack up and leave in four days.

U.S. EMBASSY officials amended a State Dept. statement Sunday that Washington was given assurances the Wednesday deadline would not be pressed. But officials said there were strong indications the Ethiopians were considering extension of the deadline.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman at Athens' Ellenikon airport said those flown out were mostly dependents, including a 9-month-old baby.

"We are making a transit stop in Athens and are planning to move home within 24 to 48 hours," said Col. Jerry Frydendall, who accompanied the evacuees aboard a military C141 transport jet.

State Dept. officials say 326 Americans are affected by the expulsion order.

Witnesses at the airport said the evacuees looked tired but "they seemed to be in great spirits."

"They were all dressed in casual clothes, blue denims and so on," one witness said. "There were about 30 children and teen-agers, plus one pregnant woman."

THE OUSTER OF the correspondents of the Washington Post, the British news agency Reuter and Agence France Presse apparently was related to their coverage of the 15-year war between the government and secessionist guerrillas in Eritrea.

A ministry spokesman said the correspondents — David Ottaway of the Washington Post, Jeremy Toye of Reuter and Laurent Chanard of Agence France Presse — had been "giving very little attention to official government statements" but had relied on "hearsay, rumor and fabricated propaganda materials" from Eritrean secessionist groups.

United States - Ethiopian relations have deteriorated as the government, headed by Lt. Col. Mengitsu Haile Marian, has drifted steadily toward the Soviet camp since the 1974 military overthrow of the late Emperor Haile Selassie.

The United States virtually had been the government's sole supplier of weaponry in its anti-rebel campaign until earlier this year when the Carter administration cut off arms supplies to Addis Ababa citing alleged human rights violations.

Ethiopia gave no reason for the closure of the American installations, but diplomatic sources said it was apparently triggered by the arms cut-off.

Group asks God to guide officials

by DEBBE JONAK

While people are writing and calling and petitioning and lambasting local politicans, another group gathers together once a month to reach them in a much more subtle manner. They pray.

The Northwest Suburban Prayer Breakfast Committee confines its lobbying to God, depending on Him to influence officials and keep them on the right track.

The seven-member committee hosted its second morning meal Saturday in Mount Prospect, with 35 local mayors, aldermen, school board members, law enforcement officers and county officials in attendance.

DES PLAINES Mayor-elect Herbert Volberding, Cook County Circuit Court Judge James Walton and Arlington Heights Village President James Ryan were there. So were Cook County Sheriff Richard J. Elrod, Arlington Heights Police Chief Robert Derks and Tom Shirley, High School Dist. 214 principal.

They mingled with about 250 lay prayer supporters, explaining their jobs, their pressures and their ideas.

"Once we know what their concerns are, what their plans for the future are, we can pray for them," Mark Swanson, committee chairman, said.

Swanson, 35 S. Bothwell St., Palatine, is a researcher and graduate student at the University of Illinois Medical Center, Chicago. He formed the committee last fall through church contacts.

PRAYING FOR public officials is a Biblical command, he said, adding the results of prayer are significant.

"It's going to change the course of history. We have a very strong God," he said.

The committee is not meant to act as a pressure group, he said, but rather as a support group for politicians. It is a special interest group, its only interest being that officials receive God's support and guidance.

"Most officials start out so idealistic. They get their feet in the system and see competition and are hit with lobbyists on all sides . . . There's no one to say, 'I'll support you, I'll pray for you,' " said Jean Extrom, a 45-year-old Arlington Heights homemaker. Mrs. Extrom, 418 S. Vail St., is Swanson's assistant.

THE POLITICIANS she called were enthusiastic about the concept, she said. One official said, "Thank you for calling. I need prayer," she said. Another said, "I want you to know how happy I am that someone is doing something like this."

Many politicians at the breakfast agreed they really need prayer, although some said they attended mostly because they were invited.

"As far as prayer goes, we need everything we can get," Elrod said.

The committee also has an evangelistic aim — the members hope to show officials that laws and politics are ineffective unless this country experiences a spiritual revival. The hearts of politicians and constituents alike must change along with the laws — and Jesus Christ has the power to make that change, a speaker at the breakfast told officials.

"I THINK THE officials were impressed," Mrs. Extrom said.

While the laymen and politicians will always have disagreements over policies and party lines, she said the committee's aim is to find a common denominator in God.

"There still will be conflict, but they will know they have a resource in prayer and that we care," she said.

Simon rips Carter plan as energy 'monstrosity'

The nation's first energy czar Monday night called President Carter's proposed energy plan a "monstrosity" that could lead to an "energy police state."

William E. Simon, former U. S. Treasury secretary and energy adviser to former President Richard M. Nixon, warned the proposed energy package "would result in a national energy police state" that could have a "disastrous" impact on the nation.

Simon spoke to a group of more than 500 Republicans attending a fund-raising dinner for U. S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, at the O'Hare Inn in Rosemont.

SIMON, WHO WAS the nation's first so-called energy czar in the Nixon administration, called President Carter's proposal "the same kind of national quack reasoning" that he said is "leading to socialism."

Simon also criticized the media for what he indicated was unfair and unbalanced coverage of the energy issue.

In a speech sprinkled with criticism of "big government" and liberal philosophies, Simon attacked some of the Carter administration's foreign and domestic proposals, including what he called Carter's inconsistent stand on human rights.

Simon accused the administration of advocating human rights in foreign lands while failing to address what he called the rights of the average family and business at home.

"Rhetoric is not reality," Simon said criticizing what he called the "architects of the new society."

"I SENSE THAT THE country may return to the boom-bust trends of the past," he said. "Have we not learned we cannot spend our way to prosperity?"

Simon's remarks followed an address by Crane, who also blasted the Carter administration for making what he called "miscues" that he said will help lead to Republican victories in 1978.

Crane also repeated a statement made last weekend calling for a limit on the amount of taxes states can levy on individuals.

The dinner was part of "Phil Crane appreciation night" a special fund-raising event to benefit Crane's 1978 congressional campaign.

Simon called Crane "not just a staunch conservative but a rock solid conservative," who he said is needed in Washington to lobby for conservative interests.

GM exchange plan surprises area dealers

128,000 original buyers of Oldsmobile, Buick, and Pontiac cars affected by the GM plan.

First, a customer may return a car to the original dealer for a credit on the purchase of another new 1977 car of the same make, with whatever engine is available.

The cost of damage "beyond normal wear and tear, 8 cents a mile for the use of the car, any registration, licensing and sales tax will be deducted from the credit. If the replacement car costs more than the original auto, the customer will pay additional sales tax, registration and title transfer fees.

If a buyer chooses the second alternative, he will keep the car and at no charge he will receive a special performance insurance policy. The policy will cover the engine, transmission and rear axle, for 36 months or 36,000 miles from the date of original delivery, whichever happens first. The policy is available only to the original owner and it is not transferable to other owners.

The simplest way to determine whether an Olds, Buick or Pontiac model is affected by the GM exchange plan is to check the vehicle identification number, McCristal said. The number may be viewed from the outside of the car, looking through the left side of the windshield near the instrument panel.

THE 13-CHARACTER vehicle identification number, includes a letter, the fifth from the left, indicating the engine manufacturer. For V8 engines, the letter keys are as follows: Chevrolet 350 cubic inch, four barrel, L; Chevrolet 350 cubic inch two-barrel, G; Pontiac 301 cubic inch, Y; Pontiac 350 cubic inch, P; Oldsmobile 350 cubic inch, R; Buick 350 cubic inch, four-barrel, J; Buick 350 cubic inch, two barrel, H; Chevrolet 305 cubic inch, U.

If a 1977 Oldsmobile owner finds the letter G as the fifth identification character, then the auto is equipped with a Chevrolet 350 cubic inch engine.

Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott said GM's offer to satisfy 80,000 Olds customers who purchased cars with Chevrolet engines is a "step in the right direction." Scott said the GM offer does not go far enough, however. He said customers should have "other options" including a cash adjustment of $300.

If you're like countless other home dwellers who want to give their surroundings a new look, but think they lack the skills to redecorate, there's good news today.

Sears at Woodfield is offering interior decorating classes — eight 90-minute weekly sessions for just $40 — that include how-to instruction about furniture styles, color uses, window dressing, lighting and accessories, carpets and the creation of a total home environment. The classes are taught by a professional interior decorator. Working materials covered by the fee include text book, floor plan for a project you'll design yourself, fabric and carpet swatches and a roomy, handy tote bag.

In addition, the experience and expertise of the Sears staff is often put to use. Department managers from various home-related sections of the store are invited to be frequent guest speakers. Especially useful are their tips on new products and ideas so important to contemporary lifestyles and modern home design.

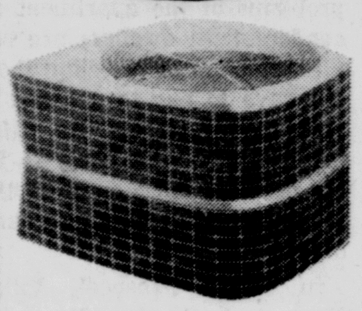

The courses are intended to be fun, as well as practical and enlightening. They follow an informal format and enrollment is limited. They are open to men and women.

Best of all, there are no tests or exams. The final bonus is what you learn and literally take home with you.

For more information on these continuing interior decorating classes, please call me at Sears at Woodfield — Sylvia Becker, fashion/activities co-ordinator, 884-2329.

The way we see it

Election issues face officials

Now that the local political season is past, it is time for voters and officials to turn their attention to ongoing governmental problems.

In three area communities, municipal governments are changing from one power group to another because of the voters' decisions. In all three communities, Wheeling, Des Plaines and Mount Prospect, the new officials face particular problems in the months ahead.

In Wheeling, where William Hein and the Wheeling Citizens Party defeated the reformers who were elected two years ago, there are several pressing issues.

Hein has said his first priority will be to create a liquor commission to act on liquor license applications, an action that is much needed considering the fact that Hein's parents hold a village license.

Hein has promised to use the new commission to avoid any conflicts of interest involving the village president's role as liquor commissioner. That will be a good start for his new administration.

Another issue Hein will face is the problem of what to do with the substandard, undedicated streets in some of the village's condominium and apartment complexes. The Wheeling Citizens Party gained substantial support among residents of those areas by promising that the village would take over street maintenance.

Once Hein is in office, he should proceed cautiously on fulfilling that pledge. While the problems of the apartment and condominium dwellers are real, all taxpayers in Wheeling should not have to pay to upgrade the substandard streets. As village president, Hein is likely to find the problem more complex than it seemed when he was a candidate.

In Mount Prospect, Village Pres.-elect Carolyn Krause is likely to find that her promises to hold the line on spending are more difficult to realize than she might have envisioned. The growth of the Mount Prospect budget has been a major concern in recent years.

Mrs. Krause will find herself weighing the necessity for maintaining the quality of municipal services against the pledge to stop spending increases.

In Des Plaines, the newly elected mayor, Herbert Volberding, comes to office with substantial support from the labor unions which represent city employes.

Volberding's first duty will be to prove that as mayor he will serve all constituencies in the city and not just be the "union man" as mayor.

In addition, Volberding may find it appropriate to take this opportunity to reopen discussions about converting Des Plaines government structure to one with a part-time mayor and full-time city manager. Volberding comes to his post without substantial administrative experience and may be able to make a forceful push for a change in the present system.

In all communities where newly elected public officials are taking office, problems are sure to come up which were not anticipated in the recent campaigns. It will be on their approach to these issues, as well as their action in fulfilling campaign promises, that the voters will judge their officials in the years ahead.

Iceberg on the rocks?

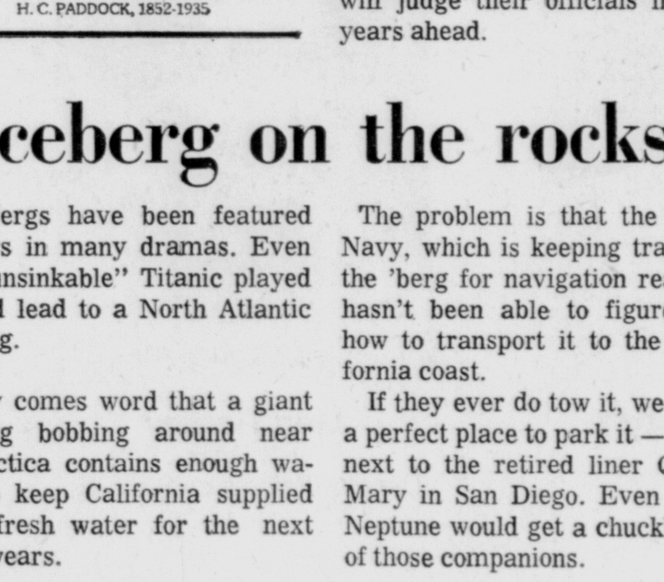

Icebergs have been featured players in many dramas. Even the "unsinkable" Titanic played second lead to a North Atlantic iceberg.

Now comes word that a giant iceberg bobbing around near Antarctica contains enough water to keep California supplied with fresh water for the next 1,100 years.

The problem is that the U.S. Navy, which is keeping track of the 'berg for navigation reasons hasn't been able to figure out how to transport it to the California coast.

If they ever do tow it, we have a perfect place to park it — right next to the retired liner Queen Mary in San Diego. Even King Neptune would get a chuckle out of those companions.

This call for local power trancends ideological label

Byline report

Wandalyn Rice

About two years ago, Northwest suburban school officials and parents who volunteer to help in the classroom found themselves caught in a bureaucratic squeeze.

The state had approved rules requiring all teacher's aides, whether paid or volunteer, to have 30 hours of college credit before they could help with instructional programs.

The rule brought out much hostility from PTA's and school administrators. A bill was introduced in the Illinois General Assembly to eliminate the requirement for unpaid volunteers. It was defeated by opposition from the state's two largest teachers' unions.

Now, the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research has published a booklet, titled "To Empower People" which gives a definition to what was happening in the teacher-aide hassle. It was "the elitist and essentially antidemocratic effects of the bureaucratization and professionalization of American Society."

"To Empower People" is a brief (45-page) treatise setting out the theoretical basis for a research project the AEI is undertaking in New York City on what it calls the role of "mediating structures" (neighborhoods, families, churches) in promoting social welfare.

The authors of the document are Peter Berger, a conservative sociology professor from Rutgers University, and Pastor Richard J. Neuhaus, a "liberal" activist Lutheran minister.

Once a reader cuts through the occasional lapses into jargon in Berger and Neuhaus' work, he can discover a startling amount of sense.

They begin by discussing how society has removed the control of children's education from parents and installed teams of "experts" — the bureaucrats and professionals referred to in the foregoing quote. And then they call for restoring a system where parents would have the power to shape their children's education for the reason that "virtually all parents love their children. Very few experts love, or can love, most of the children in their care."

The way to return to parents the power over education, the authors say, is through "educational vouchers," tax grants that parents could redeem at any school, public or private.

The call for a voucher system in education is not new. It has even been the subject of limited experiments in a few communities.

What is new — or at least out of the ordinary — is the way Berger and Neuhaus go far beyond a call for increased parent control of education and examine the over-all impact of centrally regulated social programs.

Thus they say that efforts to ensure "individual" rights, when carried to extremes, can fatally impinge on the right of a community to be different from other communities. Efforts to ensure separation of church and state can, if again carried to extremes, mean that the state will replace church as "except for the most narrowly construed definition of religion limited to worship and religious instruction."

The authors approve of many of the goals of the government programs that have had liberal support over the past 40 years. They want to eliminate racism in society, provide quality education for rich and poor children alike, provide a humane welfare system that protects individuals and families from poverty.

What they oppose is the way "liberal" government programs have tried to solve the problems by creating centralized bureaucracies and by trying to eliminate differences between communities.

It is not useful, they say, for government to set up programs to promote "good" neighborhoods that fit a single mold. Rather, government programs should help residents of neighborhoods to preserve the values that are important to them.

They say, "For public policy purposes there is no useful definition of what makes a good neighborhood, though we can agree on what constitutes a bad neighborhood. Few people would choose to live where crime is rampant, housing deteriorated and garbage uncollected . . . It is not necessarily true that a vital neighborhood is one that supplies a strong sense of social cohesion or reinforces personal identity with a group. In fact many people want neighborhoods where free choice in association and even anonymity are cherished."

What Berger and Neuhaus call for is an effort to provide programs that make available choices for individuals and families. Thus, they oppose the day care proposal currently favored by the American Federation of Teachers which calls for day care to be integrated into the public school system (presumably with AFT members doing the caring.)

Instead, Berger and Neuhaus call for providing funds to various nonprofit groups to run day care. The groups could be public or private, manned by parents or neighborhood volunteers or by paid staff. Such a program would solve the day care problem, they say, in as "inexpensive and unintrusive" way as possible.

"Inexpensive and unintrusive" sounds like the conservative adage "the best government is the least government.'' However, Berger and Neuhaus avoid the pitfall that has trapped so many conservatives who have used that statement to justify opposition to all official efforts to solve any social problems.

Berger and Neuhaus trace the error of public policy that undermines individual differences to the rationalism of the late 18th century, which held that there was a single Law of Nature and that it could be implemented by persons with Reason.

Those theories led to the derision of the concepts of tribe and parochial differences. And, they say, while few people today believe in Rationalism and the Law of Nature "most social thought and planning continues to act as though they were true."

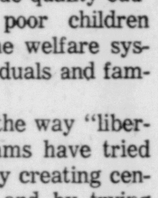

Adopting a public policy that seeks to enhance individual choice at solving problems, Berger and Neuhaus say, will mean a profound change in the way social planners view society.

And, near the end of their essay, they propose a definition of "liberation" that glitters with common sense — a rare commodity coming from sociologists or ministers.

"Liberation," they say, "is not escape from particularity but discovery of the particularity that fits."

Gordon Liddy—ill served by his own strange virtue

Paul Greenberg

Jimmy Carter's commutation of G. Gordon Liddy's sentence is an act of mercy and, in a way, of justice. Because of all the Watergate gang, Gordon Liddy was the only one to maintain his agent's code of silence. He held fast even after the commander-in-chief he was protecting had tacitly admitted some kind of guilt by accepting a pardon for deeds unspecified.

Gordon Liddy brings to mind one of those Japanese soldiers on some forgotten isle who, even if he had heard of the emperor's surrender, would not give up himself. Admirable in a strange way. Within the zingy bounds of his own warrior's code, G. Gordon Liddy is a man of integrity.

Gordon Liddy has become a legend in his own time, or at least a good story. His eccentricities made great copy for those Watergaters who rushed into pirnt with their memories. It was told how he used to hold his hand over an open flame to impress others, and how his first reaction to Watergate's breaking open was to volunteer to be shot down on any streetcorner the White House in its wisdom might designate.

BUT GORDON LIDDY never profited from Gordon Liddy stories. Yes, a man of integrity. He could have stepped out of one of E. Howard Hunt's pseudonymous and meretricious novels of foreign intrigue. In a way he did — a combination of hero and fall guy, and the only one of the Watergate bunch of much interest any more. The only one to play the game to the end.

Just as Judge John Sirica's harsh sentence (20 years) for an unrepentant and uncommunicative Gordon Liddy was justified, so Jimmy Carter's commutation now seems proper, too. For continued imprisonment in this case would seem to serve no purpose now except to continue a pointless and self-imposed martyrdom.

Wasn't it George Bernard Shaw who defined martyrdom as a career open to those with no other talent? Mr. Liddy definitely has a talent for it. He can take a 20-year sentence without a murmur.

BUT THERE IS no longer any reason for the government of the United States to indulge Mr. Liddy in his own talent. The story he still keeps to himself was told long ago by a host of others. Watergate is over. Let it be over for Gordon Liddy, too.

It might be different, of course, if all the Watergaters had imitated Gordon Liddy's stony silence. That third-rate burglary and first-rate abuse of power might still be hidden. In that case, his kind of integrity might not be so admirable. Perhaps it is admirable only when it has been isolated and rendered powerless.

One wishes that Gordon Liddy had chosen to devote his immense capacity for loyalty to a higher authority, to the Constitution rather than those who held (and abused) power under it. He was ill served by his greatest virtue, and so was his country.

'Don't label local Dems'

After the April 5 defeat of the nine Democratic candidates for Elk Grove Township offices, the Republican Committeeman Carl Hansen was quoted as stating "The Democrats tried their luck in the suburbs and they failed utterly. Maybe now they'll crawl back into the Chicago woodwork." As a suburban resident, a Democrat, the wife of Democratic candidate James R. Truschke, I must protest this crude, uninformed remark as both personally offensive and factually inaccurate.

We are proud to be residents of Mount Prospect and proud to call ourselves Democrats. This country was founded upon and made strong by a viable two-party system. Regardless of who wins or loses a particular election, the success of our republican system of self-government rests upon giving the voters a choice between candidates and a choice between parties. This uniquely American method of selecting our representatives insures two vitally important concepts of self-government: incumbents are constantly held accountable to the electorate for their actions, and challengers can offer new ideas for discussion and debate.

Mr. Hansen is saying, however, that Elk Grove Township is the exclusive domain of the Republican Party. Any uninvited challenger of a different political bent is automatically suspect and blindly labeled a "Chicago Democrat." I am fully confident that informed and reasonable citizens recognize that there is a distinct line between election rhetoric and kneejerk bigotry based on party lines. Mr. Hansen inexcusably crossed that line.

'Liability claim hurts business'

In reading the article by Richard Harnett on product liability claims, I just can't believe it. Are people no longer to be held accountable for their actions. If in using a product, someone does a stupid thing, should they be able to blame someone else? The courts have moved from the concept of "negligence" to the concept of "strict liability" which holds that a person does not have to prove a product was faulty in order to collect. What does this mean for business? How can some businesses survive?

This is another phase of our immaturity as a nation. We always want someone to take care of us through welfare, social security and liability insurance so we won't have to assume responsibility.

Mr. Thomas J. Ryan, senior vice president of Marsh and McLennan, the nation's largest insurance broker, states in the article that he believes there is no real problem — just an adjustment to make. Well, maybe it is no problem for Mr. Ryan, but it certainly is for all the businesses in the country. We had better wake and realize that we will be hit by increased cost of goods because of this product liability insurance.

Energy pinch pushes research on electric cars to better batteries

Robert McKee, a Palatine entrepreneur, says he believes he's spent more time researching and building electric vehicles than anyone else.

An exhibitor at the International Electric Vehicle Exposition opening today at Chicago's McCormick Place, McKee says he's encouraged by President Carter's call for conservation and rebates on electric car purchases.

Thanks to the energy pinch, area researchers working on everything from "super" batteries to energy-efficient carburetors, household appliances and electric vehicles should benefit from renewed public interest in conservation.

"I THINK CARTER'S message will help the electric vehicle industry," McKee said. An executive at McKee Engineering Corp., 411 W. Colfax, McKee said it's only a matter of time before electric cars take their rightful place on the roadway.

"In the near term, we're stuck with lead-acid batteries," McKee said. He looks to battery research firms for improved batteries that will eventually improve the range of electric cars.

McKee takes pride in the 22 electric vehicles he's turned out during the past several years. "The car we just finished will run at 60 miles an hour, and it has an easy range of 120 miles," McKee said. The car was built for the Globe Union company in Milwaukee for display at the electric vehicle show.

Several products in the development stage at Gould, Inc., 10 Gould Center, Rolling Meadows probably will get a boost from the new emphasis on energy conservation, said Daniel T. Carroll, Gould president.

CARROLL SAID these products include electric vehicle propulsion systems, load leveling batteries that help utilities distribute power and the nickel-zinc battery. The nickel zinc battery has super energy capability compared with today's lead-acid batteries, Carroll said.

A new electronic control carburetor designed to improve emissions control and fuel efficiency on gasoline-fueled cars has been developed by researchers at Borg-Warner, Wolf and Algonquin roads in Des Plaines. The system monitors a car's exhaust and adjusts the mixture of fuel and air to the proper ratio. Senior research engineer Howard Paul said such a system will be a boon to automakers in their quest for improved fuel economy and pollution control. "Whether it's our system or someone else's, this system, is in the making," Paul said.

Consumers can expect applicances such as washers, dryers and refrigerators to operate more efficiently, on less power than previous models, according to Jim Huoy of the Elgin-based McGraw-Edison Co. A maker of major appliances, McGraw-Edison will introduce a new line of Speed Queen washers and dryers within the next 18 months. Although some consumers are reluctant to buy energy efficient models already on the market because of higher price tags, Huoy said Carter's emphasis on conservation should create new public awareness of over-all energy costs.

Business briefs

New car sales up 3% in mid-April

Domestic automakers said Monday new car sales were up 3 per cent and the highest in history in mid-April, the 10-day sales period just before President Carter announced his energy conservation proposals. The four U.S. automakers sold 289,648 cars in the period, 10,000 more than most analysts had predicted and enough to erase a 12-year-old record. Truck sales of 94,125 vehicles topped last year by 17 per cent and also were a record for a mid-April period. General Motors' auto sales were up nearly 6 per cent to post a record on the basis of its large cars while Ford reported a 9 per cent sales gain. Chrysler, however, slipped 9 per cent and American Motors, complaining that its small car sales will slump even further because would-be buyers are waiting for rebates to begin, was down 32 per cent. It was the 19th consecutive 10-day period in which AMC sales have failed to match a year-earlier period. Industry analysts and executives said they would not really begin to see the effects of the Carter proposals for taxes on fuel hogs and rebates on fuel-efficient models until the April 21-30 sales results are compiled in early May.

Rebates to hurt our sales: VW

A Volkswagen official Monday said that President Carter's tax rebate program could hurt competition of foreign cars in the United States and deter energy conservation. A Toyota official told a House Commerce subcommittee hearing on fuel efficiency in cars that tough emission standards are the greatest obstacle to fuel economy improvements. Philip A. Hutchinson Jr., Washington representative for Volkswagen of America, said Carter's recommendations "could harm the competitiveness of imported cars to the detriment of energy conservation." "We want to compete in this market and hope the deck will not be stacked against imported cars or imported car companies who, like Volkswagen, have decided to build their vehicles here," he said. Carter has proposed taxing large gas-eating cars and giving rebates to buyers of more economical models. The program would apply to auto corporations and, Hutchinson said, was currently worded to exclude foreign cars assembled in U.S. plants, like Volkswagen and Volvo.

ICC approves insulation funding

The Illinois Commerce Commission has authorized Commonwealth Edison Co. to provide financing for the purchase and installation of home ceiling insulation to its 2.5 million customers, it was announced Monday. Residential customers could seek financing for up to $600 at an interest rate of 1.25 per cent a month on the plan, which would cover no more than 36 months. The ICC noted on its order signed last Wednesday that customers would select their own contractors, then submit the contract to Edison for approval. "Implementation of the ceiling insulation program . . . will help to motivate customers to install insulation and will, therefore, result in the conservation of energy resources and will tend to minimize electrical plant capacity requirement," the ICC said.

FCC told of minority woes

Minority groups find it hard to buy broadcast stations because they have difficulty obtaining financing, a Federal Communications Commission conference was told Monday. Ragan Henry, president of Broadcast Enterprises, Inc., of Philadelphia, said he has "become an expert on being turned down and off by every conceivable source of financing for reasons that have ranged from being well-founded to being shameful and utterly stupid." FCC Chairman Richard E. Wiley, who opened the two-day conference, said "less than one-half of 1 per cent of the nation's 8,500 broadcast stations are owned by black Americans" and other minorities have similar low levels of ownership, staistics he called "very disturbing."

Make Meany mad–keep minimum wage down a tad

Louis Rukeyser

NEW YORK — While it is certainly a badge of merit for a President to win the reproach of George Meany, it should not be considered an unqualified endorsement.

The AFL-CIO leader is one of America's most highly talented grumblers, and he has been grumbling a-plenty lately about Jimmy Carter — and notably about the President's proposal to raise the minimum wage only to $2.50, rather than the $3 that Meany considers the least he could tolerate.

All praise to the President for resisting the full inflationary demands here, just as he has trimmed requests on agricultural supports, shoe industry protection and public works.

BUT COMPROMISE, despite its political attractions, is not always the correct economic answer, and in proposing any increase at all in the current $2.30 minimum wage Carter is making what could turn out to be a costly mistake — not only in terms of inflation, but in terms of frustrating some of his own efforts to reduce unemployment.

The painful fact, detailed at some length in this column previously, is that almost every time Congress has raised the national minimum wage — and there have been nine significant increases since 1945 — there has been a noticeable increase in unemployment among U.S. teen-agers. With teen-age unemployment already running at three times the national average, it takes a strange brand of "humanity" to advocate another increase.

There is no mystery about this relationship. The typical teen-ager seeking a job is the product of an educational system that has left him poorly prepared either for life or for employment. He's not worth $2.30 an hour to the average employer, and no union or legislative fiat can change that economic fact.

But it is in his interest, and ours, that he go to work. Not just because that is the route to making him a taxpayer, rather than a tax drain, but because work itself will be an educational experience for him.

THERE SHOULD be no doubt about who is trying to put this kid to work and who is finding alibis to keep him away. As the AFL-CIO has acknowledged, practically all unionized workers already are paid more than $3 per hour. The defensive notion that we cannot hire a youngster without firing his father comes from the same anti-growth well that would have denied America's astounding postwar economic surge.

Lest anyone think that raising the minimum wage would not, in fact, contribute to inflation and unemployment, consider the testimony of Franklin D. Feiler, an executive of the Friendly Ice Cream Corp., with more than 16,000 employees in 17 states. "I can assure you," Feiler writes me, "that our firm, which employs primarily young people, will be the loser of any proposed minimum wage increase."

In the end "the consumer will have to fund any such wage increases," Feiler said. He expressed strong opposition to a bill introduced by Pennsylvania Congressman John Dent that would tie future minimums to the over-all hourly earnings index for manufacturers — a device Feiler calls nonrealistic.

The dreary record of counter-productive increases in the minimum wage suggests that this is not an overly pessimistic forecast. Since Meany is not going to adore him anyhow, Carter should move sensibly to reduce the present minimum wage, at least for teen-agers, and thereby truly help solve one of the country's most persistent and humanly destructive problems.

Dow falls amid revised forecasts

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Dow Jones industrial average, suffering its worst loss since early November, plunged to its lowest level in 15 months Monday as Wall Street reacted to the Carter administration's revised economic forecasts.

The Dow average fell 12.47 points to 914.60, the lowest level since it closed at 912.94 Jan. 13, 1976. That was the worst loss since it fell 17.37 points Nov. 5, and put its three-day loss total at 27.99 points. It fell 20.69 points over-all last week, including 8.73 Friday.

Carter's budget office triggered the selling by predicting late Friday that the Consumer Price Index would rise 6.7 per cent this year, up sharply from the 5.3 per cent originally forecast.

Also, the Office of Management and Budget predicted the gross national product would grow at a 4.9 per cent rate, down from the 5.4 per cent originally forecast.

THE NYSE common stock index lost .69 to 53 and the average price of a common share fell 41 cents.

Declines routed advances, 1,210 to 292, among the 1,883 issues crossing the composite tape.

Big board volume totaled 20,440,000 shares, down slightly from the 20,700,000 traded Friday. Composite volume NYSE issues traded on all exchanges totaled 22,846,280 shares, compared with 23,051,908 Friday.

The American Stock Exchange index gave up .90 to 110.85 and the average price of a common share lost 9 cents.

ALTHOUGH HAVANA has fallen into a state of disrepair since the 1959 revolution, it remains one of the most beautiful cities in the Caribbean. At left is the Hotel Nacional and at lower right, the Hotel Capri.

Cubans dine out and beat the food-rationing system

by JOHN VIRTUE

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI) — Food rationing has touched off a boom in Havana's restaurants and supper clubs.

Nightly, people from all walks of life line up to get into the city's best restaurants. By show time, all the tables are taken at the clubs in the luxury hotels — by Cubans, not by foreign guests.

It's not cheap, either. A dinner for two — with beer instead of wine — can come to $35, the equivalent of a week's salary.

THE REASON FOR the outlay is that Cubans have the money to buy food, but it's rationed, so they spend it in restaurants instead.

"We can eat well at home for 14 or 16 days a month with the rationed food," said Leandro C., a 30-year-old accountant. "The rest of the time we'll eat out twice a week."

Even though the average Cuban might only make $200 a month, his rent could be $20. There are no taxes and education and medical services are free, so there's always money left over for restaurants.

THE BANKS PAY no interest on deposits — it's considered capitalistic — so many Cubans prefer to spend their money.

"Look," said Elvio. "You don't get any interest in the bank and if you accumulate too much money there the government gets suspicious and thinks you're involved in some shady business. You're better off spending your money."

Except for fruits and vegetables, most foodstuffs are rationed. Each person is allowed one pound of meat every 10 days. The ration of coffee — Cubans are great coffee drinkers — was recently cut from 1½ to one ounce per person per week.

But in the restaurants, you can eat as much as you want of anything. It is not uncommon to see a well-dressed diner take wrapping paper from his pocket and wrap up part of his meal to take home to his wife or children.

AN INCREASING number of women work, which brings two advantages, as far as food shortages are concerned. First, many women can eat at work. Secondly, the additional money permits the family to eat out more, further stretching the rations.

Cuban officials say the rationing does not necessarily mean there are food shortages. They say there's so much money around that food has to be rationed to permit an equal distribution.

"The Cuban officials encourage dining out," said one western diplomat. "It helps drain off excess money."

7-member U.S. team visiting Cuba for talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A high-ranking U.S. delegation Monday met with Cuban government representatives in Havana for the first time in 16 years in a major step toward ending official hostility between the two nations.

Assistant Sec. of State Terence Todman became the first U.S. diplomat to visit Havana since 1961, heading a seven-member delegation to talks ostensibly called to resolve overlapping fishing zones off Florida.

The State Dept. insisted the maritime boundary issue was the only purpose for the talks. But unofficially they were being closely watched for their implications on the future of long-stalled U.S.-Cuban relations.

A TWO-PARAGRAPH State Dept. announcement did not mention Todman, but spokesman Hodding Carter III confirmed later the diplomat flew to Havana from Florida this weekend aboard a chartered aircraft.

The spokesman said he did not know whether Todman planned to meet with President Fidel Castro.

Todman's stay, according to Carter, "will last a few days," depending on progress in the fishing and maritime talks.

Asked if other issues — including the possibility of setting up "diplomatic interest sections" in both capitals — would be raised during Todman's visit, Carter simply referred reporters to the official State Dept. announcement which said:

"The governments of the United States of America and the Republic of Cuba initiated today in Havana the second round of negotiations on matters concerning fisheries and maritime boundaries which arise from the laws passed by both countries."

THE FISHING TALKS began in New York last month. Each nation, now claiming a 200-mile fishing zone, seeks agreement on rules governing fishing in the 90-mile Florida Straits where the boundaries overlap and in other areas often fished by the Cubans in the past.

Castro told Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., recently the lifting of the 1962 U.S. trade embargo on Cuba is the key condition for any improvement of relations with the United States.

President Carter, in his recent policy speech to the Organization of American States, said "we are seeking to determine whether relations with Cuba can be improved on a measured and reciprocal basis."

From the Carter administration's point of view, among the major obstacles to normal relations are Cuba's active role in Africa — mainly Angola — and the situation of human rights under the Castro regime.

Men's cosmetics

Good grooming booming

by MARIANNE SCOTT

The day has arrived when wives and girlfriends no longer have to hide their cosmetics from the menfolk in their lives.

Reports are that men are losing their shyness. They are not waiting for Christmas and Father's Day, but are buying their own beauty aids.

The whole profile of men's toiletry customers has changed. It's not just the gay community anymore but sophisticates dedicated to their own macho image who have a growing awareness and desire for grooming products that go beyond soap, deodorant and the traditional shave products.

In many stores the men have their very own cosmetic bars and often their very own counter pitchmen. Space for men's cosmetics has doubled in countless stores over the past two years.

BESIDES OLD standby products they can now select from a vast array, their very own shampoos, hair sprays and hair conditioners; their very own bath salts, soaps, dusting powders, moisturizers and skin conditioners; their very own colognes; their very own facial moisturizers, conditioners, toners, bronzers and gels. Even hand moisturizers.

For a real eye-opener into this fast-growing field of men's cosmetics, visit the men's cosmetic bar at Marshall Field's in Woodfield. Located on the main aisle across from the men's department, it's a large island with its own salespersons, pretty young women who know all about what's best for a man's individual skin.

They'll help him choose everything from a relaxing bath product that softens the water, glycerine or creme soap, body conditioner and perhaps a dusting powder that comes in a box topped with a set of brass knuckles to facial moisturizers, conditioners and gels and bronzers that match his skin tones or give him a healthy tan. And of course, a cologne.

MEN CARE less about price than women, according to surveys, and they think nothing of spending up to $25 for a four-ounce bottle of cologne.

Biggest seller nationwide is Aramis, the champagne of colognes, which pulls in a whopping $35 million per year for Estee Lauder. It sells at $6.50 for two ounces — and at 35 mil that's a lot of ounces!

Royal Copenhagen by Swank and designer fragrances by Pierre Cardin, Halston and St. Laurent are close seconds. YSL's fragrance offers "a healthy presence, freshness and a bit of indulgence."

Other best seller labels are Chanel, Eau Sauvage, Givenchy, Gucci, Macho, Paco, Chaz, Kanon, Bogart and British Sterling. English Leather and Brut are still among the favorites but in some areas are reported to be losing ground.

IT ALL STARTED with hair — when men began going to stylists instead of barbers. They needed hair sprays and the men's toiletry industry was quick to glop onto a good thing.

Next came colognes. Not the drying after shave astringents they had been slapping on their faces for years, but true colognes with manly scents meant for splashing on neck, shoulders and chest.

While colognes have already established their role among men's grooming aids, moisturizers, balms and other treatment products are coming up very fast. In fact, toiletries for men is growing faster than any other area of the cosmetic business.

Franchised men's cosmetic lines already exceed $200 million. Neiman-Marcus and Marshall Field's are each expected to do more than $3 million in men's cosmetics alone this year, an increase of 25 per cent over 1976. Most of the increase is expected to be in treatment products — cleansers, toners, moisturizers and conditioners.

THE OLD ASTRINGENTS, with high alcohol content and designed to close the pores, can actually break the skin capillaries, according to one of Field's cosmeticians specializing in men's grooming aids. She added that men are now less reluctant to change their old habits and are becoming more sophisticated about the use of scents and treatments.

Whether he admits it or not, a man may be just as vain as a woman and wants to look his best. And why not? Just because he's a man his skin isn't immune to exposure, extremes in weather and — aging.

If he's still shy, tell him to ask for an anti-pollution balm. The girls behind the counter will understand.

Fashion's gone to man's head

by CHARLES HIX

Hat check girls — sorry, persons — of America, rejoice! The prospect of more tips is looking up since things are looking up for men's hats this spring and summer.

Although the popularity of masculine headgear has been steadily inching back since the big plummet during the long-haired days of doing your own thing, this year hat manufacturers are flinging theirs into the air with jubilation.

Stetson Hats, the world-renowned firm based in St. Joseph, Mo., reports that its sales of dress hats are up 15 per cent this spring over last and that western-style hat sales have jumped forward by a whopping 32 per cent.

"THE LARGEST AREA of hat growth is currently in fashion hats," says Stetson vice president John E. Secrest. "This spring, the biggest swing is to an all-around turned down brim."

John Milano, the president of Byer-Rolnick (Garland, Tex.), America's largest hat manufacturer promoting several brands, including Dobbs, Knox, Cavanagh and others, concurs that "fashion" is the "biggest thing" in men's hats and that the fashion look for spring is "the down turned silhouette."

He attributes the renewed interest in headgear to the hat industry becoming more attuned to the mood of his country's young males. "Finally we got smart," notes Milano. "The reason young fellows weren't wearing hats is that they didn't want to look like their grandfathers in their gray fedoras. Today's hats, even dress hats, are sportier."

PROOF THAT MEN'S hats again belong on the best-dressed list is that the Men's Fashion Association of America, at its spring-summer showing in Atlanta, invited a relatively unknown firm barely two years old — Makins Hats — to participate in its "designer showcase." The spontaneous applause from the audience expressed genuine approval for the innovative headgear, which ranged from raffia (more flexible than Panama) straw, racing and baseball caps to the handsome down turned brimmed dress hats to contemporary pork pies. Of course, it remains to be seen whether men across the country will sport the looks.

Marsha Akins, Makins' young founder and designer, later admitted that her headgear sells best in sophisticated urban areas. She explains in her small New York plant, where the hats are hand-blocked and hand-finished, "The difference between caps and hats is that a hat has a brim completely surrounding the crown, but a cap only has a partial or no brim. Some of the Irish fabric 'caps' are really hats, because their brims are continuous."

NOTING THAT THE men's hat industry has been "stagnant" (her word), Ms. Akins remarks, "Men who haven't gotten into hats have lots of misconceptions about them. Does wearing a hat make you bald faster? Absolutely not. Will hats leave marks on the forehead or mat the hair? Only if they're too heavy or don't fit correctly. Hats should rest on the head, not squeeze it. Will hats make you perspire more? Leather sweat bands might, not those made of ribbon. But if a hat is too tight, you'll perspire more.

"Do hats require reblocking and special care? Not if they're treated

ROUGHLY textured baseball cap of raffia suits all ages.

Shy no longer about buying cosmetics, men can shop at their own beauty bars.

"The Riviera. My Riviera Suit gives me a pleasant feeling of being on the international scene. The look is suave and Continental. Cut to trace the body naturally, comfortably. And emphasized by the matching vest. The fabric itself is relaxing. All-texturized polyester that 'gives' with every move, then reassumes its trim, tailored lines. The colors are light, clear and sunny. Like the Riviera climate. Join me on the international scene. In a Riviera suit." From $150

Men's slacks go plain and fancy

SPORTSWEAR HIGHLIGHTS — Anyone with the urge to blossom out in fancy pants will have no trouble doing so this season.

Slack specialists are showing colorful pattern work in addition to the ever-popular solids. Jaymar, as an example, features its flared-bottom Sansabelt slacks in colorful patchwork and foulard prints in polyester fabrics.

For a well coordinated look, the fancy slacks are topped with a subdued tone-on-tone sport shirt. Conversely, when the slacks are solid, a patterned shirt adds interest — for example, yellow slacks with a yellow- and blueprint shirt.

Casually speaking, whether you go plain or fancy, here's to a colorful summer season.

READERS ASK:

Dear Mr. Juster: Is it smart to buy a summer suit a size larger than what I usually wear? My wif suggests this because she finds in hot weather a looser fitting dress feels more comfortable and thinks I would too, in an easier fitting suit. — B. F. W.

The idea is fine — if you plan to gain about 10 pounds. Otherwise, stay with your proper size. Designers give full consideration to the need for comfort in summer suits and proportion them accordingly. A larger size will make you look like you lost a lot of weight or are wearing someone else's suit.

Dear Mr. Juster: I have just gone to a natural-shoulder suit as I like the look. One thing bothers me, though. Can wide-spread collar shirts be worn with this style suit or should I stick to button-downs only? That's about all I see worn with these suits. — M. G.

True, the button-down is the favorite collar with natural-shoulder suits. Going to other collars is recommended to vary the look, such as wide spreads, moderate long points and pin collars.

Dear Mr. Juster: We live in quite a damp area so periodically we run an electric fan in the closets to keep clothes from getting musty. But what can be done to kill the odor that goes into things in drawers? Lugging the drawers outside and exposing them to the sun helps, but there must be an easier way to lick this problem. — Mrs. H. L.

There is. Placing a bar of scented soap in each drawer will help keep the contents from absorbing musty odors. (P.S. Pick a masculine woody scent for the drawers your husband uses.)

CLOTHES-ING TIP TO GOLFERS — Knock off the dirt around the cleats of your golf shoes after the game. It hardens and can be difficult to remove later on . . . Don't stuff a damp glove in your bag. Let it dry first or it may stiffen and be uncomfortable to wear.

Designer wins nod from Rosalynn

by ELLIE GROSSMAN

The secret service called Dominic Rompollo a few weeks ago and said, listen, Dom, clear your calendar next Wednesday between 4:30 and 5:30 because we're bringing Miz Carter in to pick up a couple of things for summer.

Keep the windows shut and the drapes pulled when we get there and don't worry if we nose around every little crook, uh, nook and cranny. We do that with everyone. Just let us mind the exits and entrances and there won't be any problem. Thanks, Dom.

Come Wednesday, sure enough Rosalynn Carter, her press secretary, and her sister-in-law, Ruth Carter Stapleton, appeared at the designer's showroom at the designer's showroom at 530 Seventh Ave. with perhaps five serious, watchful men.

ROMPOLLO, a short, rapid-speaking man who looks just the slightest bit like a prairie dog, is getting to be an old hand at this sort of thing. He was dealing with Rosalyn Carter before Jimmy became President. Just about a month before, as a matter of fact.

"In December," he says, "she was choosing clothes through a store in Americus Ga., and they called me and told me to make some sketches for an inaugural costume for her, and a wrap to cover the dress she was wearing that night."

So he did, the store liked them and she liked them. "At that point, I was told to go ahead and they gave me measurements which come out to a perfect size six." (Truth be told, he had to shorten the sleeves and length a little).

ANYWAY, he made up a "beautiful" wool crepe dress in green and a double-faced wool coat with a big fringe shawl for the inauguration, and a long hooded cape in blue wool to match her old chiffon gown.

"After these things were completed, I went to Plains to see if anything else was needed," he says. "I was a little apprehensive at first, but Mrs. Carter was terribly warm and relaxing, and she liked the clothes even better than the sketches."

She's just a lovely woman, he says, so unpretentious, so concerned about not being the center of attention and not being made a fuss over.

Don't you go telling people what I spend on clothes, she told him (between $100 and $300 per item), and don't you go making sketches for the press. I'm just plain folks — you ask Jimmy — just one of your customers who likes clean silhouettes, solids not prints, divine colors instead of neutrals.

SHE ALSO LIKES emphasis on the figure," Rompollo says, "and her arms and neck usually covered."

She and her lady friends had a grand time trying things on in Rompollo's office while the large men stood guard outside. And when they were finished, everyone had bought something.

The President's lady selected two little striped cotton jersey day dresses for summer, a one-piece in "peanut" and white (read that "brown"), and a two-piece in apricot and white. Both short-sleeved and round necked.

(Just to have something to wear until the weather really turns warm, she took home a long sleeved, belted, a A-line pale mauve wool dress with a fringe shawl.)

SHE ADDED A "banana" colored linen jumper with two big pockets and fitted waist. "Banana" refers to the part you eat, not the part you peel.

"She also chose a couple of long things for evening," Rompollo says. "One turquoise full length T-shirt with short sleeves, a blouson waist and matching scarf. And a sleeveless dress and coat, in white."

That last outfit comes with a matching head scarf but it'll take more than a cold day in Washington for Rosalynn to put a hat on her head.

Fashion has gone to man's head with the common courtesy of resting them flat on a shelf. Must a man remove his hat in a restaurant? I don't think so. If it's proper for a woman to keep on her hat, why shouldn't it be so for a man? It's that old division of sex roles nonsense."

Naturally, a lot of hat check persons will argue with her last remark. And so will followers of "proper" etiquette.

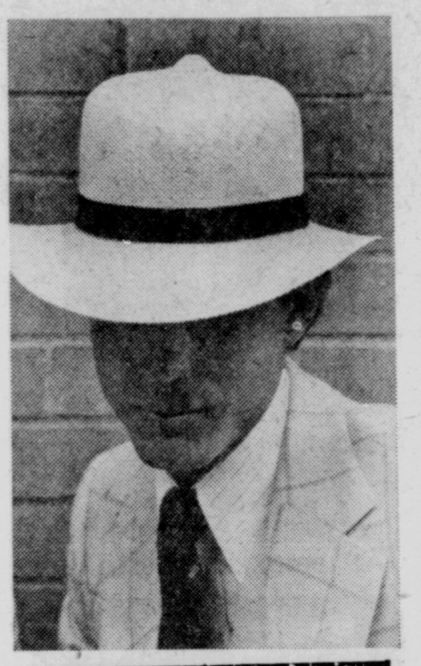

IN "AMY VANDERBILT'S Etiquette," one finds some of the following guildelines for men: Don't wear a hat tipped too jauntily to the side. It's acceptable to wear a hat in the corridors and elevators of public buildings, but not inside an office. A gentleman touches his hat but does not remove it after accidentally jostling a woman in a crowded place. (If he jostles her purposefully, there's no rule mentioned.) When a female is greeted on the street, a man lifts his hat from his head, turning his head slightly toward her and smiling. If they stop to speak, he may return his hat to his head without apology IF the weather is bad. A man removes his hat in a residential elevator.

If hat etiquette seems rather sexist and unliberated, so too might most formal rules of acceptable behavior. And while Doubleday Books is in the midst of overhauling the lat Ms. Vanderbilt's tome (previously revised in 1972), with socialite-businesswoman Letitia Baldrige doing the updating, there's no word yet whether double standards will be tackled or tactfully ignored. The revision won't be published for another year, so in the meanwhile, lots of men will just have to hold onto their hats.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW LIGHTWEIGHT raffia straw hat by Dobbs has a two and a half inch brim and is trimmed with a multicolored jute band. It's called the "Baccarat."

NARROW GROSGRAIN trims this blocked panama straw optimo with brim that dips both front and back. It's from Makins.

Rosalynn likes his work

"She doesn't like hats, she's never worn them and doesn't see any reason to change," he says.

Obviously she likes Rompollo's clothes, but that afternoon she also visited a few other designers — Jerry Silverman, Kasper, one or two others. Still, Rompollo just may be her main man which pleases him no end.

"I'M FROM Detroit and Betty Ford was from Detroit and when she chose Albert Capraro to do her clothes, I thought it was a little unjust."

Strange thing was, he and Capraro were the only two boys in the class of '64 at Parsons School of Design.

"He's a terrific guy," Rompollo says. And now that he and Betty are retired, so to speak, and Rosalynn is boosting business, Rompollo likes him even better.

The doctor says

Good diet contains only needed protein

From what I've read I've always thought any athlete would need a high protein diet, but at the last Olympic games some of the athletes were supposedly on high carbohydrate diets.

Would such a diet be recommended for a weight lifter trying to build muscle as well as a runner or a boxer who needs long-lasting energy? Would you give an example of a high carbohydrate diet?

The only reason one needs protein as opposed to carbohydrate or fat in the diet is to provide enough of the amino acids in protein to replace lost protein from the body or to build new protein as in new muscle growth.

The calorie needs of the body for energy can be supplied by any of these three basic foods. Your question is a bit like asking me if you should burn coal or wood to heat the house. There is no advantage in consuming more protein than is needed for the building processes I mentioned.

Carbohydrates are a good source of energy because the body can process them rapidly and they require less oxygen to enable your cells to release the energy than does either fat or protein. That is because carbohydrates already contain some oxygen.

Whether you are using carbohydrates, protein or fat, you need to consume enough calories to meet your needs and still leave the protein available for building purposes. So, 100 grams of protein a day with adequate total calorie intake from any source is more than adequate for more muscle building programs despite what you may have been told by people interested in selling protein supplements.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-4, Weight Training for Energy and Weight Control. It explains this in more detail for you. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

VEGETABLES, fruits and cereals are mostly carbohydrates. For concentrated carbohydrates you want foods devoid of roughage and water. The ultimate on this scale for energy is sugar. All of the sweets are concentrated carbohydrates obtained from vegetables, fruits and cereals — corn syrup, beet sugar, honey from flowers' nectar. Starch is also concentrated carbohydrate and is broken down to sugar by the digestive process before it is absorbed.

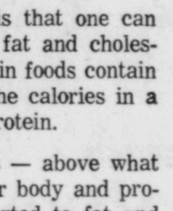

The advantage of the carbohydrate foods also is that one can increase the calorie intake without increasing the fat and cholesterol consumption. Many of the so-called high protein foods contain lots of fat and cholesterol. A high percentage of the calories in a porterhouse steak or many roasts are from fat not protein.

You should know that an excess of any calories — above what you need for real muscle growth, maintaining your body and providing energy for your activities — will be converted to fat and cholesterol by your body. Your body can change sugar to cholesterol. A good diet for anyone, including athletes, will thus avoid obesity while providing the needed energy requirements.

Cook wants to know why spaghetti watery

Dear Dorothy: It seems so simple a household task, yet it has me befuddled. This family loves spaghetti, but every time it's served a watery ring appears on the plates. I drain the pasta well in a colander so where does the water come from? — Jennie Bertin

Asked two excellent cooks about this. One says you probably keep the cover on the sauce until just before serving. Therefore, all the steam from the cover and sides goes into the sauce without being incorporated into it. Leave the cover off the last few minutes before serving and see if this doesn't solve it. The other cook says you should toss the spaghetti quickly in a colander and then quickly add a little olive oil — that there will never be any water on the plate this way. Anyone else in on this act?

Dear Dorothy: How can I get an odor out of mildewed books?— Alice Westin

Spread the pages of the books out fanwise to air. If the books are still damp, sprinkle cornstarch or talcum powder between the pages to take up the moisture. Leave the starch or powder on for several hours, then brush off. Ifthere is still a light mildewy odor, put the books in a box with some fragrant face soap and close the box. One last step could be to put in a couple of dishes of either kitty litter granules or activated charcoal granules.

Dear Dorothy: I put a small sponge in the center of several thicknesses of nylon net and sewed them together with large stitches. It's perfect as a scrubber for milk spots on the furniture legs (with a drop of furniture polish) and to rub crayon marks off the painted walls — even glop on plastic-coated pans. — Katy Olson

Telephone referral service available for those with emotional problems

Until recently, the Yellow Pages or a recommendation from a family doctor or friend were the only avenues for seeking professional help with emotional problems. Too often patients were mismatched with therapists who did not specialize in the patient's problem or who charged more than the patient could afford.

No more.

A new service, based from Forest Hospital in Des Plaines, provides free telephone consultation with a social worker who can recommend referral to psychiatrists and certified psychologists.

IN MAKING recommendations, Psychiatric Referral Service matches patients and therapists via location, type of therapy needed (marital counseling or organic disfunction, for example), and finances. The service has been available to the public since the beginning of April.

"Today there are so many kinds of therapy," said Bob Gibbons, director of biomedical research at Forest Hospital. "We started this as a research project to see if we could match people with the right kind of therapy from just a phone conversation."

Several months ago questionnaires were initially sent to about 60 Illinois psychiatrists and certified psychologists to ascertain the specialties, type of clients desired and rates.

FROM PATIENT interviews, Gibbons and his staff established criteria to match the therapists with the patients. A brief telephone interview was then developed.

"Referrals are strictly made on the information we have from the therapists and the patients. No value judgments are made. There's no 'I like him and he's a good therapist.' That doesn't come into it," said Gibbons. "Some therapists may be very good and some may not. We match by their qualifications."

There is no attempt by the Psychiatric Referral Service to diagnose the problem — only its type and severity. No fee is charged the person seeking help or expanding number of therapists on the referral list.

ABOUT A month after each referral is made, Gibbons and his staff contact the patient and therapist for follow-up evaluation of the referral's success.

"One patient who had been under all kinds of therapy came to us, is now under a different kind of therapy and is happy with it for the first time," said Gibbons. "This was a research project with practical application. And that doesn't happen much these days."

People may contact Psychiatric Referral Service by telephoning 827-8811, ex. 380.

Showhouse for '77 will open Sunday

An 11-room English Manor house in Winnetka has been chosen for this year's Designers' Showhouse which opens Sunday. The stucco and timber home was built in 1912 and includes three screened porches, two terraces and a bathhouse for the swimming pool.

Sponsored by the combined junior and senior boards of Park Ridge School for Girls, showhouse rooms have been decorated by 13 Chicago designers. Tickets are $4 and can be purchased in at the door, and all proceeds will go to the school which is celebrating its 100th anniversary. A charitable residential treatment center for socially and emotionally troubled girls, the school is undergoing major reorganization and will be open this summer.

MRS. L. F. OSTROM, Mount Prospect, is co-chairman of the 1977 Designers' Showhouse, assisted by Mrs. Robert Howard and Mrs. Robert Nelson, senior board members also of Mount Prospect.

Junior board members include Mrs. John C. Dee, Mrs. Robert Miller and Mrs. Larry Van Gessert, all of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Michael Burget and Mrs. Gerald Hall, Palatine.

The showhouse continues through Sunday, May 22, and hours are 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. weekdays; Sundays from noon to 4 p.m.; Friday evenings, 7 to 9. Those wishing to visit the home are asked to park at Glencoe Beach, east on Park off Green Bay or Sheridan Road, where complimentary buses will take house walkers to the home.

Diane Mermigas

Haggerty a natural for Grizzly Adams

Dan Haggerty has always been able to get his point across.

Six years ago he walked into movie producers' offices accompanied by a lion, a leopard and a few chimps. Somehow, that was enough to convince movie makers that Haggery was the one they wanted as an animal trainer for such films as "Tarzan," "Lt. Robinson Caruso" and "Monkeys, Go Home."

These days the burly outdoorsman doesn't have to go that far to get a job — not since instant success landed on his doorstep with a starring role in the movie, "Life and Times of Grizzly Adams."

NBC RAN THE movie last May and received such good public response that it decided to go with a 13-episode series this past season. The series has become one of the top rated family shows on television and has been renewed for two more seasons.

Haggerty's face and hair are streaked from the California sun under which he was born. He is a frank and natural person who does not put on airs. He loves the outdoors and animals, but wants people to know he does not rough it all the time nor does he live in a log cabin.

"I think I am basically the man they see on television. I'm in a position now where I can teach children and adults the importance of conservation and caring for our wildlife," he said during a recent, brief visit to Chicago.

"BUT, IT'S ALL come so quickly for me. Many good fortunes have happened to me the past eight weeks that the series has proved itself. I want to use my success to my best advantage," he said.

It wasn't long ago Haggerty recalled, "I was shoveling animal manure instead."

A life guard at 17 and a married man at 18, Haggerty decided to follow in his father's footsteps and work as a film processor. "But the dark room wasn't for me. I found out I just had to be outdoors," he said.

Haggerty's wife Diane, the "intelligent and good woman" behind the man, always went along with the out-of-the-ordinary courses of their lifestyle.

HAGGERTY'S TWO daughters grew up in the family's Malibu homestead with a lion cub that Haggerty hocked an icie box to buy. It was almost like a zoo back then.

"I always liked animals and I lived in a boarding school when I was young and couldn't havea lot of them. So, when I had a family and home of my own, I decided to become a self-taught animal trainer and that's what I did," he said.

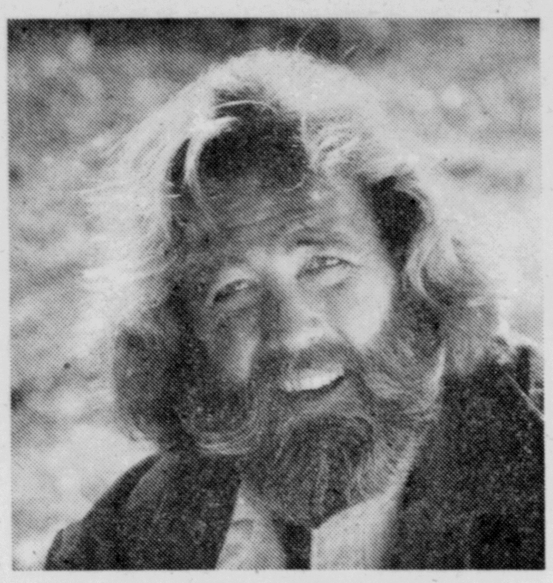

Haggerty learned his skills and picked up tips from animal training experts at animal farms and centers where he used to go buy meat to feed the lion. Soon, he became good friends with Stewart Raffin, an English animal trainer he teamed with to supply and train animals for several Walt Disney films.

Commercials, such as the first Mercury Cougar promotions, followed unil Raffin was able to convince Haggerty he could be just as effective in front of the camera as he was behind the scenes.

HAGGERTY'S FIRST film role came in "The Tender Warrior," a movie scripted by Raffin. After that he got a bit part in the movie, "The Snow Tigers." Haggerty was spotted in that film and asked to play the lead in "Life and Times ofGrizzly Adams."

"The producer told me they had already spent too much money on the first attempt at the film and that they weren't happy with it. They told me they had a $180,000 budget left to work with and offered me $1,000 a week so I took it," Haggerty said.

The film grossed $/3 million and was made for just under the budget only because Haggerty had the necessary animal training and experience. Suddenly, his affinity for and natural relationship with animals took shape on film and Haggerty became a hit overnight, just for being himself.

"I really think it's been terrific. I feel lucky that I'm able to make a decent living by doing something simple and clean. It makes me feel good when I walk down the street and children or adults recognize me, and they stop to talk to me. I love it," he said.

THE 6-FOOT-1 and nearly 200-pound Haggerty has also become an important asset to Hollywood as a highly competitive athlete on the "Celebrity Superstars" events.

It is one of Haggerty's only links with the Hollywood community. He prefers to march to the beat of a different drummer.

The Haggertys are custom building a home on an 80-acre parcel in Malibu complete with beach, waterfall and caves. It will be the perfect spot, Haggerty said, where he can keep his animals and where he and his famly can commune with nature.

Haggerty continues to train animals at a Utah compound where the series "Life and Times of Grizzly Adams" is filmed. He has raised more than 30 African lions, tigers, wolvs, eagles and dogs, and has had a few "close calls" in the process.

"I WOULD LIKE TO start summer camps where kids can come and learn to care for and understand animals and the outdoors. I want to get involved in natural preservation while I can," he said.

The man who insists he had his beard and whiskers at least 10 years before he became active in America's "Born Free" revival, said he has been asked to lunch at the White House with the First Family — number one fans of his show.

"I think that will be great," Hgerty said, "But, I think I'll leave my bear at home."

Students learn to use, not be used by television

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Mike Baker has a unique way of combating the sometimes negative, saturating effect of television on children.

The National Parent Teachers Assn. is advocating networks improve their programming and cut back on violence while parents monitor what their children watch on the tube.

But Baker said he believes in going straight to the kids.

Television is a fact of life that is here to stay. The influence it has on our lives will only continue to increase, he said.

The key, Baker said, is teaching children a more adverary approach to assessing television and more selective approach to what they watch.

THE WAY "HIS KIDS" learn a critical approach is by producing their own videotape programs which are viewed and reviewed by their peers.

They learn the basics about television and its behind-the-scenes workings. They learn there's more to television than just what the country's three major networks give us and they are able to develop an appreciation for programming alternatives.

Baker's "kids" are students in Palatine Township Dist. 15 and he is the district's television coordinator and an enthusiastic supporter of using television to its fullest potential.

He coordinates an extra curricular television club that uses the student's classroom videotape projects as a basis for further learning.

The fruits of the students' labor during the past year were featured during a television festival Saturday at the Palatine Hills Junior High School, 1100 N. Smith St., Palatine.

BUT MORE IMPORTANT on a broad scale is the event and projects prove that children have learned to use television for their own purposes and they need not accept the commercial, popular use of the medium as the last word.

"The emphasis lately has been on violence and what television is not doing. But, in this way, students are expressing themselves through television and are using the medium as an effective way of communicating," Baker said.

"They learn they don't have to accept what the networks offer as the only television experience. It opens their eyes to the endless alternatives in television programming," he said.

None of the children who Baker instructs can sit passively in front of a television set anymore. The students now analyze the aspects of television product with which they have become familiar, such as script, production, acting, content and editing.

THEY MORE LIKELY think about what they are watching instead of letting it go in one ear and out the other. They are more likely to change the channel or turn off the television set if they become disgusted or displeased with the programming because they know they don't have to watch it, Baker said.

This year's projects constructed by kindergarten through sixth grade students included video taped reports on the ice skating career of Dorothy Hamill, a look at last year's Olympic games and Bicentennial events, the making of the movie "King Kong," a retrospect on this past winter's cold wave and a report on the Legionnaires disease.

Junior high school entries included a look at the Citizens' Band radio boom, Chicago's recent L crash, a musical theater production at Palatine Hills Junior High School and the landing of Viking probe on Mars.

"Hamill's Camel," a report on the figure skater's career produced by students at the Marion Jordon Elementary School won first place in the kindergarten through sixth grade competiton. A report on the "CB Boom of '76" produced by students at Winston Park Junior High School, took first place honors among the junior high school entries.

"These kids have feelings bent inside of them about what they see happening in the world and they just don't want to watch it somewhere else. They want to express those feelings," Baker said.

"TEACHING THEM how to do that through the television set is like nipping it in the bud. It's teaching them while they are young to consider a medium like television from every conceivable angle," he said, "and teaching them how to live with it in a positive way."

Each videotape project runs a maximum of six minutes although it takes anywhere from 30 to 50 lunch and after-school hours to complete, Baker said.

The projects are underwritten by the school district where 13 of the 20 schools are equipped with videotape decks, monitors and the rest of the necessary equipment.

The schools' use of television began eight years ago as a playback technique and evaluation device. The use of videotape since has developed as a way students can do their classroom projects as compared with writing reports and giving speeches.

"MOST OF THESE kids will have six years of this kind of television experience before getting out of junior high school. What that means is the development of a new television generation — one that realizes what it's all about and can be discriminating about it, not molded by it," Baker said.

It's hard to believe that youngsters as young as fourth graders can select a news or feature topic, research it, decide hot to deliver the information effectively and produce a program others can watch and learn from.

"It's the best way for them to learn to respect their own judgment regarding television and to understand how the medium can be used to its fullest potential," he said.

Channel 2 receives most local Emmy nominations

The local Emmy Awards show will take place June 3 at Navy Pier despite the first-time cancellation of the national awards show because of irreconcilable differences between the Hollywood chapter and the rest of the organization.

The theme of the show, which will be hosted by Steve Allen, will be Chicago's own television talent.

Nominations for programs, writers, directors and creative crafts for the city's 19th annual Emmy Awards competition were recently announced and have been sent to the academy's Boston chapter for final judging. According to national academy rules, an outside chapter votes on awards for another member city to avoid conflict of interest.

WBBM-TV, CHANNEL 2, walked off with the highest number of nominations. WBBM received 34 and WMAQ-TV, Channel 5, received 32. WLS-TV, Channel 7, trailed with 22. Each of the three Chicago stations represents network-owned stations.

Chicago's public broadcasting station, WTTW-TV, Channel 11, received 20 nominations. The independent stations included WCIU-TV, Channel 26, with 13 nominations, WFLD-TV, Channel 32, with five nominations and WSNS-TV, Channel 44, with three nominations.

A major Emmy Awards category for the local broadcasters is achievement within a regularly scheduled news program in the areas of investigative reporting, spot or general news coverage and a feature story or a mini series.

Investigative pieces nominated include: WLS's reports on the Lansing flood controversey and Chicago Acting Mayor Michal Bilandic's conflict of interest; WMAQ's Goldblatt's investigation and Ford City Bank reports; WBBM's slum landlords and arson reports and WTTW's report on the Independent Voters of Illinois.

AN INTERESTING note on the investigative report nominations is that Women in Communications, Inc., who annually hand out the Jacob Scher Award for investigative journalism in Chicago radio, television and magazine, this year withheld the honor, saying there were no entries worthy of the distinguished award.

The spot or general news coverage nominations went to WBBM's currency exchange holdup story, WTTW's campaign violence report, WMAQ's coverage of the same currency exchange holdup and WLS's report on the funeral of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Feature stories and mini series nominations went to WLS's "Class of '66" and "Chance of Your Life" reports, WMAQ's football injuries report, WBBM's stories on laetrile and P.B.B., and WTTW's "LaSalle Expedition II" report.

Nominations for outstanding achievement in a news special include WBBM's "The Death of Mayor Richard J. Daley," WLS's "Daley Obituary" and "L" crash coverage, WMAQ's Nobel Prize special and "L" crash coverage, and WTTW's "The Death of Mayor Daley" coverage.

DOCUMENTARY nominations in the area of current significance included WMAQ reports on Marquette Park and crime in the black community, WLS's report on Oak Park, WTTW's reports on area neighborhoods and the politics of abortion and WBBM's "Once a Priest" program.

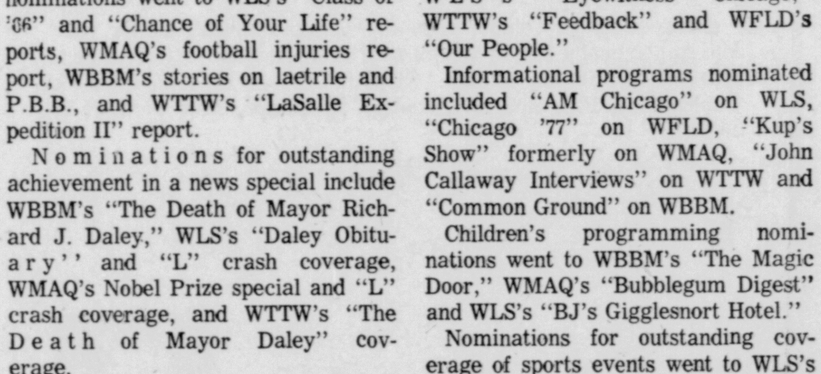

Nearly every worthwhile public affairs program produced in Chicago was nominated for public affairs excellence. Those included WBBM's "Two on 2," WMAQ's "Small World," WLS's "Eyewitness Chicago," WTTW's "Feedback" and WFLD's "Our People."

Informational programs nominated included "AM Chicago" on WLS, "Chicago '77" on WFLD, "Kup's Show" formerly on WMAQ, "John Callaway Interviews" on WTTW and "Common Ground" on WBBM.

Children's programming nominations went to WBBM's "The Magic Door," WMAQ's "Bubblegum Digest" and WLS's "BJ's Gigglesnort Hotel."

Nominations for outstanding coverage of sports events went to WLS's profile on George Halas, WMAQ's World Series of Softball, WBBM's Women's Tennis Championships and WTTW's Invitational Table Tennis Tournament.

Other nomination categories included achievements in series covering sports events, editorials and commentary, individual performance of persons in a nonperforming role (like writers, directors and producers), entertainment programs and specials and special events.

Paris gives Viet premier big welcome

PARIS (UPI) — Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong returned to Paris for the first time in 31 years to a hero's welcome and began negotiations with French leaders to open a new era in the often-troubled relations between the two countries.

The 71-year-old Communist leader, a bitter enemy of France when it was the colonial ruler of Vietnam, said at a lunch in his honor: "We are called upon to open a new chapter in the history of our relations based on mutual respect and mutual advantages."

French Premier Raymond Barre toasted Dong's four-day visit as opening "fruitful and exemplary relations" between the two countries.

"OUR COOPERATION," Barre said, "serves not only the interest of our two peoples, but also that of peace, especially in Southeast Asia where we have many friends."

It was Dong's first trip to Paris since 1946. He left Paris then in a huff when the Vietnamese nationalists' talks with France collapsed, marking the start of three decades of bloody war in Indochina.

In a gesture of reconciliation, President Valery Giscard d'Estaing has invited to today's luncheon in Dong's honor Gen. Marcel Bigeard, former deputy defense minister who was taken prisoner by Viet Cong after the fall of Dien Bien Phu in 1954.

When Dong — gray-haired and slightly stopped — flew into Orly airfield in an old Soviet Il18 turboprop jetliner, he was accorded a hero's welcome with full military honors.

A CROWD OF flag-waving, cheering Vietnamese residents and a host of French officials headed by Barre greeted him.

Buttoned up in a gray topcoat and cluthing a black felt hat, Dong stood at attention while a Republic Guard band played the two national anthems.

The French were hoping to conclude a number of major economic accords with Dong whose government has made it clear it wants to expand its cooperation with Europe, Japan and the United States to speed up its reconstructuion and development.

France has provided $320 million in aid to Vietnam in recent years. Last week it granted Hanoi an additional credit of $130 million for the purchase of French capital goods.

French officials predicted Dong will sign a pact granting the state-controlled Elf-Aquitraine oil group permission to search for oil off Vietnam's eastern and southern shores.

NIPC stand opposes metro government

The Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission has dusted off a 10-year-old position statement opposing "metropolitan government" in an effort to quell suburban attacks on the agency.

"This commission is not out to remake the governmental structure of northeastern Illinois," said NIPC Pres. James J. McClure Jr. at a recent meeting of the executive committee.

"There are regional problems to be solved, but they can be solved by existing units of government if they will work together," he said.

The commission members unanimously endorsed the statement, which says NIPC "does not advocate or promote metropolitan government."

NIPC has been under attack since November when interim guidelines for low- and moderate-income housing were adopted as part of the agency's criteria for reviewing applications for federal funds.

SEVERAL COMMUNITIES unhappy with these criteria have charged that NIPC has exceeded its authority and wants to take autonomy away from local governments. Legislation has been introduced in Springfield to limit NIPC's power and some officials have called for lawsuits to restrict the agency's activities.

McClure said the charges are the same ones voiced in the 1960s "when regional planning was in its infancy."

"Our position is the same as it always has been. We do not advocate metropolitan government. Chicago, the counties and the suburbs need to attack problems together, but they don't need to give up local autonomy to do it," McClure said.

He said critics should examine NIPC's record since it was formed in 1957. "There is not a single case of local government powers being usurped by a regional planning commission," he said. "If anything, local governments have a stronger role than ever as a result of the new Illinois Constitution."

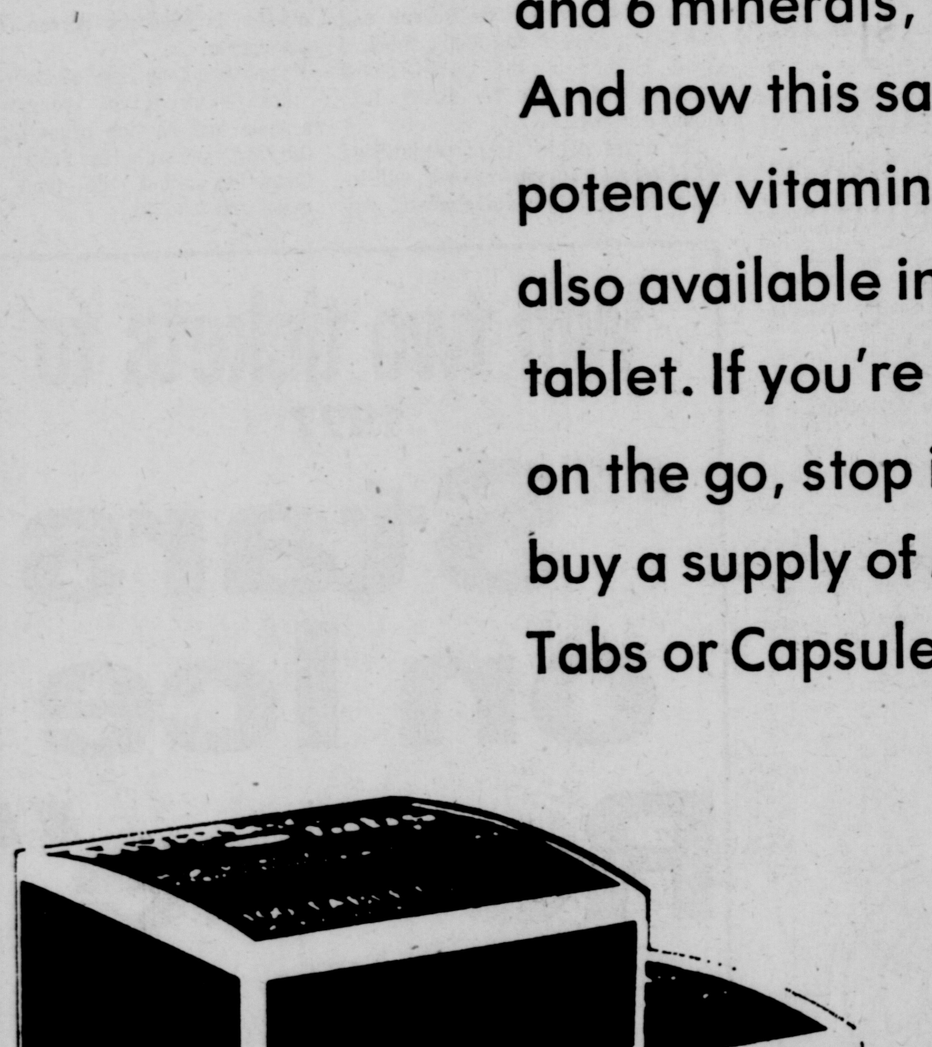

NIPC is an advisory planning organization with no taxing powers.

"IT'S TIME to take a step forward," said White Sox pitcher Larry Monroe, who is upset at his last minute demotion to Double A ball in Knoxville. Monroe spent the last six weeks of the 1976 campaign with the Sox and expected to go to Des Moines, Iowa and Triple A ball this season.

Unhappy Monroe needs lift

A surplus of young pitching talent down on the farm may indicate a bright future for the White Sox, but it means something decidedly different for Larry Monroe, former Forest View High School hurler who is regarded as one of the top Sox pitching prospects.

Monroe feels he's getting the shaft from White Sox brass and is seriously considering quitting baseball entirely if somebody upstairs doesn't take notice — and soon.

Monroe, a strapping 6-4, 200-pound righthander from Mount Prospect is off to a great start for the Sox double A farm club in Knoxville, Tenn. In 19 innings he has yet to give up an earned run. His last two games have been two-and three-hit shutouts, respectively. But big Larry wants out of Knoxville and the quicker the better.

"IT'S TIME TO take a step forward," said Monroe, who spent the final six weeks of the 1976 season with the White Sox. "I hate to sound so bitter, but I am bitter because I just don't deserve to be here," he said.

Monroe's displeasure started in spring training when he felt he didn't get a chance to make the varsity. Things seemed to be predetermined — he would spend the year at Des Moines, Iowa, with the Sox Triple A affiliate. After a year at Knoxville, Larry was ready to move up to Triple A. Then the Sox traded Bucky Dent to the Yankees for cash, outfielder Oscar Gamble and a couple of minor league pitchers.

"They told me on the last day of camp that they'd rather have me be the No. 1 pitcher here (Knoxville) than the then No. 4 starter in Des Moines because of all the rainouts early in the season. "They (Sox) have too many starters in the minors and are going to have to make up their minds."

Monroe figured to be the fourth starter at Iowa behind Ken Kravec, Jack Kucek and Dave Frost, who Monroe rates as the top pitcher in the Sox farm system right now. But along with Gamble, the Sox picked up Bob Polinsky and Dewey Hoyt, a couple of pitchers from the Yankee system.

POLINSKY, 25, was 4-8 with Syracuse (Triple A) last season with a 3.30 ERA. Hoyt, 22, was 15-8, 2.50 ERA in Double A ball at West Haven, Conn. last year and the Sox decided to give both of them berths in Iowa rather than Monroe, with Hoyt taking Monroe's spot in the Iowa starting rotation.

Byline report

Bob Gallas

"My record (11-14 at Knoxville) last year wasn't as impressive (as Hoyt's) but my statistics were decent (2.91 ERA, 113 strike outs, 75 walks)," Monroe said. Monroe joined the Sox on Aug. 22 last season and was 0-1 in eight appearances with a 4.15 ERA and several good efforts in relief.

"Baseball is no fun here," said Monroe, who has yet to turn 21 but is growing up fast in the strange world of pro baseball. "I just want to get out of here. There's no way I can take this league for another year."

"C. V. Davis (Sox farm director) told me on the last day of camp that I'd be going to Knoxville and he hoped I'd agree with him. I asked him if I had a choice and heasid no. I could go to Knoxville or go home.

"THEY TOLD ME 'you're still one of our top prospects but you're the most likely prospect to go back' (to double A)," Monroe said.

"One way or another I'm getting out of here in another month, whether they send me someplace else or I just leave."

He appears ready to leave at a moment's notice. Rather than rent an apartment, Monroe has been living in a Knoxville motel.

"They (Sox) told me I might not be down here long, but I've heard that song and dance before. They said Kevin Bell (Sox third baseman) would only spend a few days, if that, this year with Iowa. And he's still there, isn't he?"

SO FAR, Monroe has pitched better than well enough to earn a spot at Des Moines. On Sunday he tossed a three-hitter, which mistakenly went out over the wire services as a no-hitter. Of the 21 men he faced (Double A games are only seven innings long) 16 were retired by ground balls. He struck out four and walked two.

Monroe, a likeable young man with an easy going disposition is clearly upset by the spot he's in.

"I don't want to make waves, but I don't want to be here. How can they call you up to the major leagues one year then send you back down to double A the next?

"I don't want to sound cocky. I know I have things to learn yet. But not down here."

Bison rally past 'Cats; Warriors, Lions also win

Buffalo Grove put together a five-run rally in the top of the seventh inning to wipe out a 3-1 deficit and ring up their fifth straight win of the conference season at Wheeling Monday, 6-3.

In other Mid-Suburban League baseball action Hersey blanked Fremd, Palatine knocked off Arlington, Forest View nipped Rolling Meadows, Hoffman Estates handcuffed Schaumburg and Prospect slipped past Elk Grove.

Maine West and St. Viator also posted wins Monday to round out the area slate.

THE FEATURE faceoff at Wheeling saw the Wildcats drop from the undefeated ranks when an error opened the floodgates in the seventh. 'Cat hurler Jim Passolt, who had sailed into the fifth on a two-hit shutout, was tapped for an unearned run in the sixth and then issued a walk to Al Cymbal and a short single up the middle to Mike Marshall following the miscue to open the seventh.

That brought on Rick Heredia to spell Passolt on the mound and he walked Tim Prokoff to force in a run. Phil Czosnyka reached on an error after that and two more runs came home.

Dave Martin's two-run single to right rounded out the uprising and earned a win for Mark Rusche, one of three Bison pitchers seeing action.

Wheeling had struck for all of their runs off Bison starter Mike Marshall. Marty Geisler walked to open the second, and Bill Luzinski tripled him home. Jeff Passolt's suicide squeeze bunt brought in Luzinski and Steve Majokowski scored on a single by Jim Passolt.

TODD WALKER'S six-hit pitching led the Huskies past hosting Fremd, 3-0. Bob Schachner provided the firepower in the fourth, doubling to right center after Brian Hastings had doubled, Bob Hart had reached on a scratch single and Doug Frye had sacrificed the runners along.

Joe Pusatera's sacrifice fly brought home an insurance run in the seventh off Viking starter and losing pitcher Kerry Field.

Kevin McKenna came up with another outstanding mound performance — his third of the MSL campaign — in leading the Pirates past Arlington 6-3.

A pair of errors helped visiting Palatine jump into an early 2-0 lead but the Cardinals surged right back in the bottom of the first with three unearned runs.

MIKE MAYERICK'S sacrifice fly accounted for one Card score and Frank DeSimone drove home two more with a single.

After that McKenna slammed the door. Al Knotek, meanwhile, double home the tying run in the third and the Pirates broke the game open off Redbird starter Doug Harth in the seventh.

Dan McSweeney and Doug Buenzow singled to open the crucial rally and Mike Mikulan supplied the big blow, a triple to left center. Mikulan later scored on a wild pitch.

Forest View picked up four unearned runs in the second inning and then held on to nip Rolling Meadows 4-3 behind the four-hit twirling of Bob Koch.

MUSTANG HURLER Dennis Drolet allowed base raps by Chris Hansen, Joe Slawinski and Jeff Nelson to mix with a pair of extra base errors as the Falcons jumped in front.

Meadows came back with three unearned runs of their own but Koch went on to fan ten and yield just four hits in notching the win.

Ray Gawron pitched and hit Hoffman Estates to their first win of the

Two-week walkout ends

NBA refs back to work

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Basketball Association's striking referees reached agreement on a new contract with the league Monday and will return to work for Tuesday night's playoffs.

The referees had stopped work on the final day of the regular season two weeks ago in a dispute over their association's status as a union. They also wanted to negotiate a contract that would include this year's playoffs along with next year's regular season.

During the two-week strike, the NBA hired officials from the Eastern League, college and amateur ranks to work with two non-striking NBA referees, Earl Strom and Richie Powers. The interim refs, however, were criticized greatly by the NBA players and coaches.

"WE ARE PLEASED the strike is over," said Simon P. Gourdine, deputy commissioner of the NBA and labor negotiator for the league. "The referees have agreed to return to work without a contract. Next year's contract will be negotiated during the off-season.

"While the referees have finally agreed with our long-standing position that we should not negotiate under pressure of the playoffs, we do not view this as a victory for the NBA alone. We consider it a victory for everyone concerned — the league, players, referees and fans."

Richard Phillips, attorney for the striking referees, said in Philadelphia that "we didn't get the whole loaf and they didn't get the whole loaf."

Phillips said the strike by the National Association for Basketball Referees served "several purposes from our point of view."

He said it showed that the NBA referees "if pressed will join together and rise up." He also said he felt there was now a "new appreciation of the quality of the NBA officials."

Phillips, at a news conference where he served champagne and hors d'oeuvres, said recognition of the NABR as the bargaining unit for the referees was one of the principal aims of the strike but "not just the major goal.

"We reached a philosophical accord on many items," Phillips said.

Gourdine said discussions on the agreement began last Saturday between the NBA and the National Association of Basketball Referees. The two sides negotiated through the day Sunday and final agreement was reached late Sunday night.

The agreement includes the following points:

—Regular referees return to work for the remainder of the playoffs. Playoff compensation is $750, $850, $950 for each game, an across the board increase of $150 per game.

—THE REFEREES union withdraws allegations of unfair labor practice against the league which are pending before the National Labor Relations Board.

—The union agrees not to strike or participate in any other work stoppage by others during the playoffs.

—NBA agrees to drop plans to sue the referees for damages resulting from their actions, conditional upon the "no strike" clause.

—NBA recognizes the NABR as the collective bargaining representative of the referees, based on evidence showing authorization to NABR by individual members to represent them.

—NBA AND NABR agree to collective bargaining negotiations after the playoffs. If they fail to reach an agreement by Aug. 1, 1977, either party may request mediation, without objection from the other party.

—Referees who are member of NABR must remain members as a condition of employment. Referees hired in the future must also join within 30 days of their employment.

Gourdine said he had instructed all regular referees to return to work Tuesday night. He said he would contact all of the substitute referees to personally thank them for helping out under trying circumstances.

"These referees did an outstanding job in a high-pressure situation," said Gourdine. "We appreciate their efforts and their high degree of capability which was so evident. Their applications to become regular NBA officials will receive the most careful consideration prior to the beginning of next season."

Pirates' Kevin McKenna will enroll at Creighton

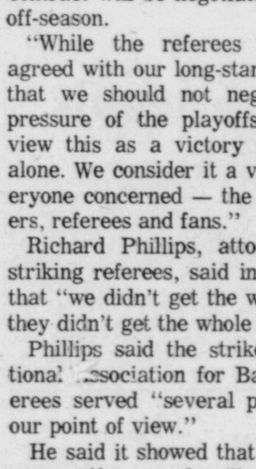

Kevin McKenna, Palatine High School's 6-7 record-breaking basketball player, will enroll at Creighton University, The Herald learned Monday.

McKenna led the Mid-Suburban League in scoring with 22.2 points per game his senior year and set school marks for points in a season (618) and points in a career (1,576). His 42 points in the regional title game against Fremd is also a Pirate record.

During the height of the recruiting process McKenna was wooed by Northwestern, Tulsa, Purdue and Creighton.

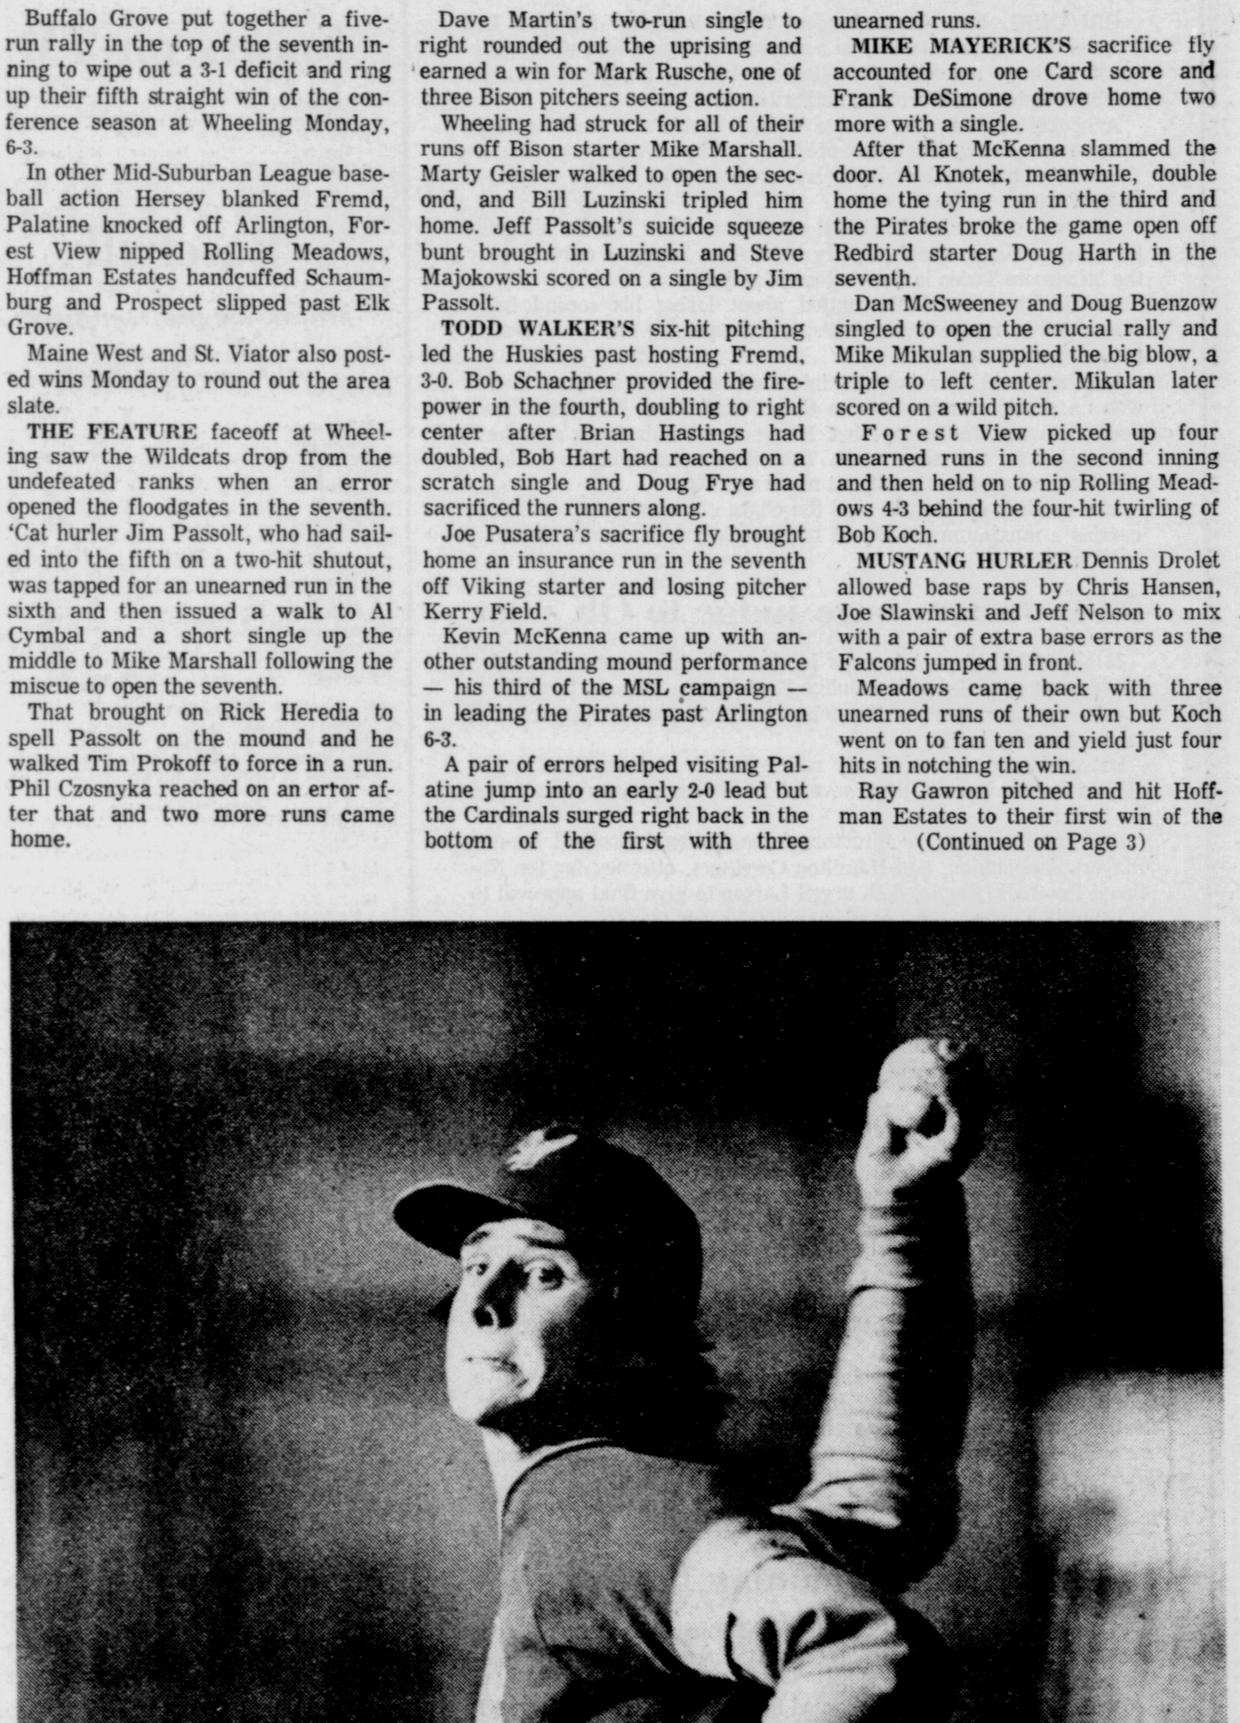

"Creighton is the one he liked," said Palatine coach Ed Molitor. "They came back to visit him Friday and expressed a great amount of interest in Kevin.

"I think in the back of his mind, Creighton is the place he wanted to go all along."

Kevin McKenna

Creighton University, located in Omaha, Neb., currently plays an independent schedule but will join the Missouri Valley Conference next year.

HOFFMAN'S HERO. Hoffman Estates hurler Ray Gawron fires a bullet toward the plate during Monday's game with Schaumburg. Gawron whiffed 10 and fashioned a three hitter while blanking the Saxons on the mound and also contributed three hits and three RBI's to the 3-0 victory.

2 Twins pitchers hurt in car crash

MINNEAPOLIS — Big southpaw pitcher Mike Pazik of the Minnesota Twins Monday suffered fractures of both legs and reliever Don Carrithers received fractures of the wrist and knee in a head-on traffic collision.

The Twins said Pazik, 27, who has a 1-0 record this year, was in "good post surgical condition" but will be out the rest of the season. Carrithers, 27, with a wrist fracture in his right pitching arm, will be out "at least two to three months."

The accident occurred about four hours after the pitchers returned home with the Twins following Sunday's 12-6 victory over the Texas Rangers at Arlington, Tex. Police said Carrithers' van collided with a car traveling the wrong way on a freeway exit ramp.

Authorities identified the driver of the other car as Cheryl Petros, 23, Canton, Ohio. She was taken to a hospital for observation and then released.

After returning from Texas, a Twins' spokesman said, Pazik and Carrithers apparently took their luggage to their apartments and then went out to eat a late dinner and get groceries for breakfast.

Dr. Harvey O'Phelan, operating surgeon at Fairview Southdale Hospital, said Pazik was in the passenger seat without the protection of a seatbelt. He said Pazik, 6-3 and 186 pounds, was jammed under the dashboard and broke both bones in both legs between the knee and ankle.

The surgeon said Pazik will be hospitalized "indefinitely." He said it is "too early to speculate about his future." O'Phelan said Carrithers, acquired from the Montreal Expos earlier this month, had a compound fracture of the right knee, rupture of the tendon attached to the right knee and fracture of the right wrist. He had pitched only three innings so far this year. Pazik had been scheduled to be the Twin's starting pitcher Thursday against Seattle.

Randle charged in Lucchesi beating

ORLANDO, Fla. — Suspended Texas Rangers' infielder Len Randle was named Monday in a warrant charging him with aggravated battery, a felony, for allegedly beating Rangers' Manager Frank Lucchesi on March 28, authorities said.

A spokesman for the Orange County sheriff's department said Randle was being sought out-of-state, in either Arlington, Tex., or Arizona, where the ballplayer has a home. The charge carries a bond of $2,500.

Lucchesi suffered a fractured cheekbone when Randle allegedly hit him at Tinker Field, shortly before the Rangers were to play the Minnesota Twins in a spring training game.

Randle, apparently disgruntled about losing his second baseman's job to rookie Bump Wills, was suspended for 30 days after the incident.

Lucchesi said in a hospital interview after the incident that it was "a sneak attack — worse than Pearl Habor." Randle's suspension is up Wednesday, but Rangers' officials have said he'll never play for the team again. They have been trying to trade or sell him, but apparently without much success.

The sheriff's spokesman said the charge, a second degree felony, carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison or a $10,000 fine, or both.

NFL owners urge judge to OK pact

MINNEAPOLIS — Attorneys for football club owners and union players urged U.S. District Judge Earl Larson Monday to approve a pact between them so the delayed college football player draft can begin early in May.

Larson issued a preliminary ruling March 29 to settle a multi-million dollar lawsuit. But several non-union players questioned the decision.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the National Football League Players Association, and Hamilton Corothers, attorney for the National Football League, both urged Larson to give final approval to $15.8 million in payments to players and former players.

The payments are tied to a collective bargaining agreement, which the football players have not had since 1973. The lack of a contract led to a 36-day player strike in July and August, 1974.

Attorneys for several players objected to terms of the pact. They said their clients should be allowed to challenge the collective bargaining agreement and the payments.

Fire destroys baseball plant in Haiti

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — What was reportedly the largest baseball manufacturing plant in the world went up in flames Monday in Port-Au-Prince.

The fire began in a diesel generator room beneath the three-story Tomar Industries factory, which occupied one square block and made thousands of Rawlings baseballs and softballs daily. The 60 employes were evacuated, but two persons suffered minor injuries.

Firemen brought the spectacular blaze under control after five hours. Residents miles away from the scene could smell burning leather and firemen were hampered as they slipped and scrambled over floors covered with thousands of rolling baseballs, freed when their containers burst.

Company officials tentatively estimated damage at about $500,000.

Soviets crush Romanian hockey 18-1

VIENNA — The Soviet Union trounced Romania 18-1 Monday in a confrontation of the strongest and the weakest teams in the World Ice Hockey Championships.

It was the highest score recorded in the eight nation tournament so far. Reigning world champion Czechoslovakia crushed the bottom-ranked Romanians 13-1 earlier.

The powerful Russians, who had humiliated Team Canada 11-1 the day before, used the match against the Romanians as a warm-up. They operated largely at half speed and could have run up a higher score if they had desired. There was not a single penalty called.

Soviet forward Alexander Maltsev, who was slightly injured in the match against Canada, did not appear on the ice and took a day off to recover from his injury.

Only 600 spectators watched the game.

Sweden handled West Germany 7-1 in an earlier game Monday and emerged as the third unbeaten team along with Russia and Czechoslovakia.

Forest View picks cage coach

Glen Elms has been named to the head basketball coaching position at Forest View High School.

The six-year Falcon sophomore cage coach replaces Ted Wissen, who resigned at the conclusion of the 1976-77 season.

A prep basketball standout at Schurz High School who went on to star at Millikin University, Elms comes to the head coaching ranks in rather indirect fashion.

Although an all-conference player who was named to the NAIA district team, Elms earned an engineering degree at Millikin and then went into the engineering profession.

Later Elms returned to the same school and earned a masters degree in education. He then began his teaching career as a math instructor at Miner Junior High in Arlington Heights.

Next Elms was selected to administer a U.S. government pilot program. Termed the Title Three Project, it involved television work and took him out of teaching for nearly three years.

When Elms returned to teaching, at Forest View, he still had to wait another year before a prep coaching opportunity became available. His contact with the sport up until that time had been maintained by playing and coaching in the AAU and semi-professional ranks.

Falcon athletic director Bill Beckman was obviously very pleased to announce the replacement for the well-liked veteran Wissen: "When you have competent people on your staff, you don't have to go outside for a new coach."

Added Beckman, "We feel Glen has done a fine job with his teams through the years. He's solid in fundamentals and we like the way he gets along with the kids. We're very happy with our choice."

Elms and his wife Sherry have two daughters, Lauri, 14, and Kristi, 5.

Viator trackmen win metric meet

They've been telling Jim Lyne to think metric — and the St. Viator track coach has been doing just that. But for Lyne to think metric he needs only to think victory.

His Lions won the first Cary-Grove Track and Field Invitational Saturday, featuring a metric mile (won by St. Viator's Dave E'ken in 4:18), a 3,200-meter relay (won by Viator in 8:50.3), and a metric shot put (won by "rookie" Dave Nicolau with a baffling 14.24).

"Eventually we're going to have to get used to it," Lyne said of the international measuring system. "But I still like feet better."

THE LION coach at least didn't have to convert the final point-totals which showed St. Viator with 81 points. In second place was Carmel of Mundelein with 59. Cary-Grove, Lake Zurich and Elmwood Park were farther down the line of finishers in the five-team meet.

St. Viator captured nine first places, led by Efken, Dan Bobowski and Ed Schwab.

"It was good competition for us," said Lyne, whose team has virtually no home facilities and has run just three meets this season.

Efken, a junior with the background and experience to compete with the area's top distance runners, added a victory in the 3,000-meter race (9:15.4) for an impressive double. Another Lion junior, sprinter Dan Bobowski, took firsts in the 100-meters (11.6) and the 200-meters (23.0).

MEANWHILE, Schwab, a senior jumper, placed first in the triple jump (11.55) and the long jump (5.77).

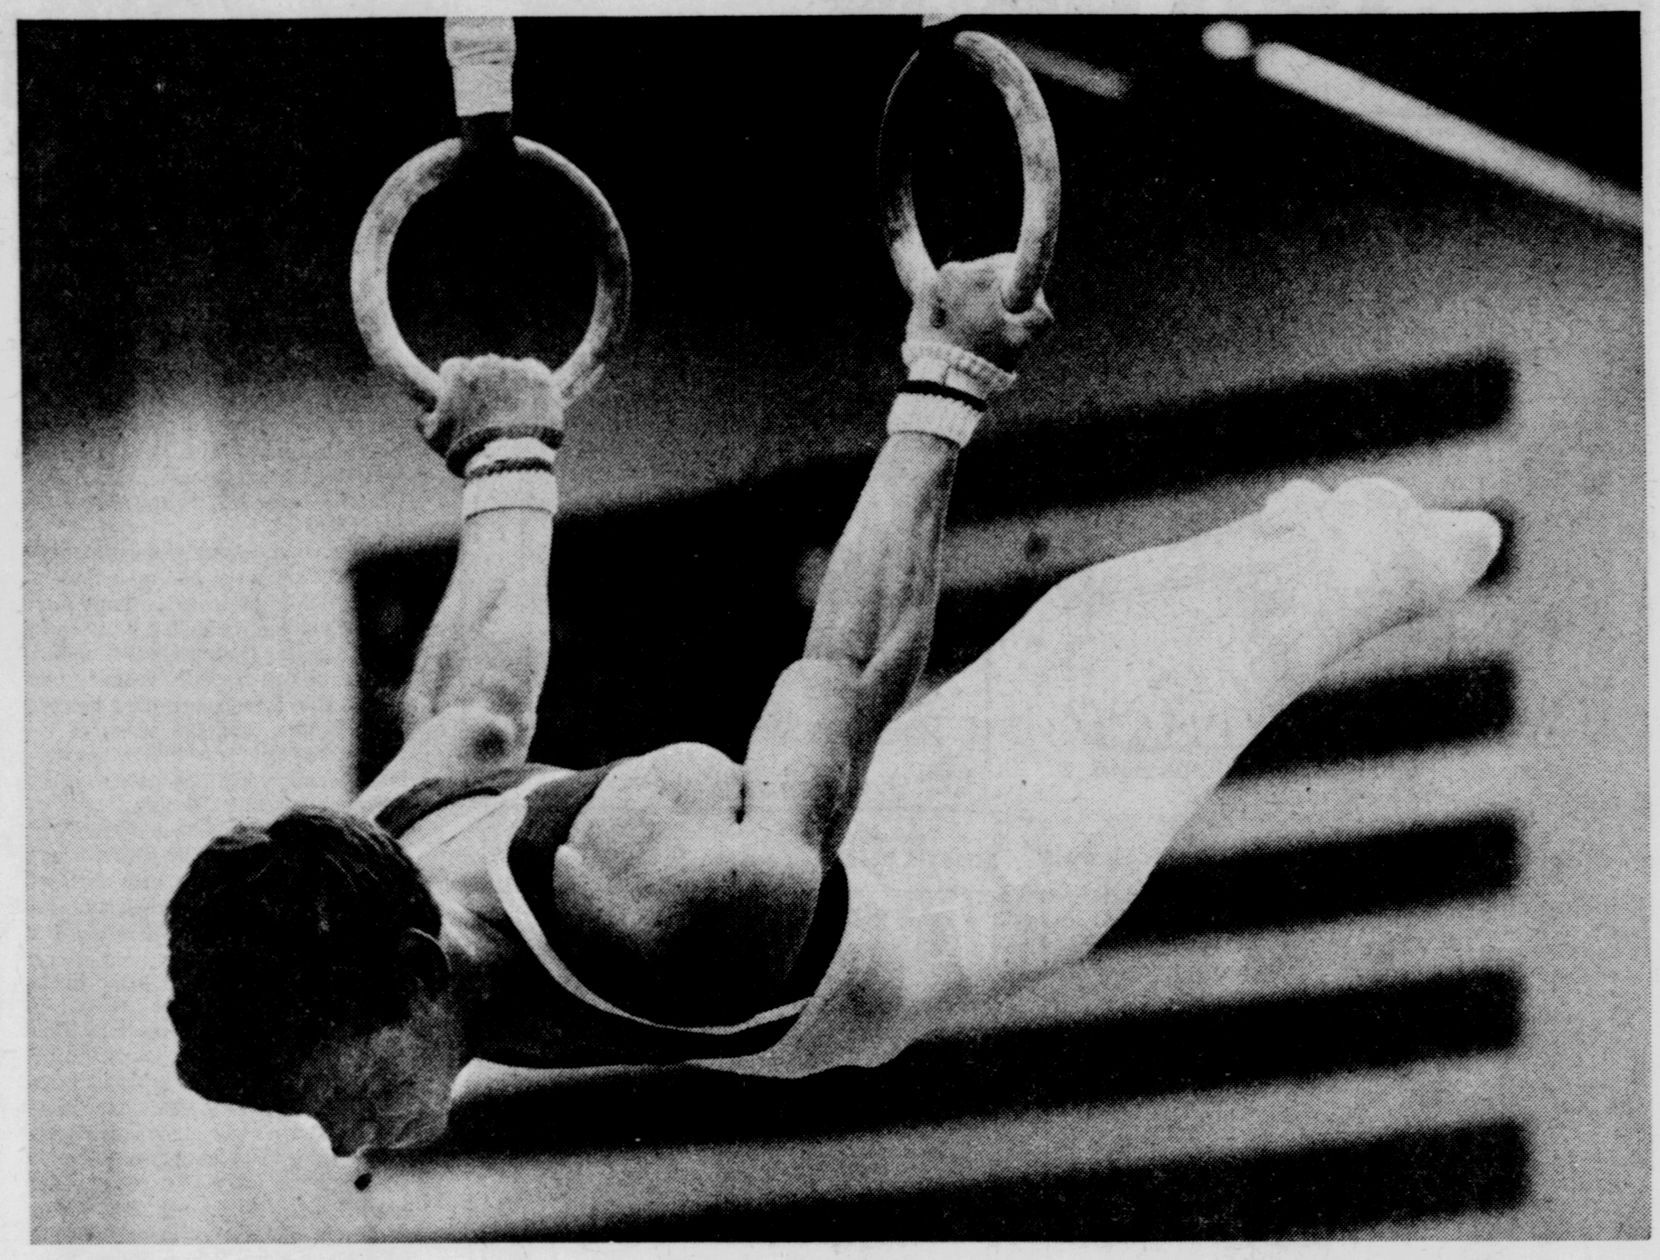

"It takes a little getting used to, those meters," said Lyne. "I was standing over by the long jump area and after a while I got to know that five-something was a good ump. Then I'd see one that I knew wasn't too good. So you get used to it"

Nicolau, 6-5, 230-pound all-state football player competing in the shot for only the second time, won the event at Cary-Grove with his 14.24 put.

Eric Locher of St. Viator won the discus throw with a toss of 42.70.

"I guess we're going to be going to metrics so it's good to get used to it," Lyne said, referring to the IHSA directive effective in 1980.

UNTIL THEN, Lyne and his Lions will be happy to go to Cary-Grove for a slight inconvenience and their metric trophy.

DOUG SMIDL of Fremd took part in the National High School Gymnastics All-Around Invitational at Maine West High School Saturday night. Highlights of the meet will be telecast Saturday on NBC-TV.

FRONT-RUNNING BILL Baird of Conant has one of the area's top times in the 880-yard run this season, a 2:00.8, although he was beaten in this race by Hoffman's Tom Nelson. At far lft is Carl Schnecke of Hoffman.

Cubs frozen out but Reds get hot

The Cubs' game with St. Louis was postponed Monday because of cold weather but the Cincinnati Reds supplied their own heat in Atlanta as they broke out of an early season slump with a 23-9 win over the Braves.

The Cubs, who evened their record at 6-6 with a pair of victories Saturday and Sunday over the Reds, plan to send righthander Rick Reuschel (1-1) against the Cardinals and pitcher Harry Rasmussen (1-2) when the teams meet today at 1:30 p.m. in Wrigley Field.

The Cardinals lead the division with a 9-6 mark in the early going under first-year manager Vern Rapp. They will play the Cubs again Wednesday to close out the current homestand.

IN ATLANTA, George Foster hit two homers and drove in seven runs, including three in a 12-run fifth inning outburst, while Johnny Bench and Dan Driessen each had four RBI Monday night for the Reds.

The Reds, who had lost 10 of their first 14 games and fallen seven games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers in the

Major league baseball

National League West, broke on top with six runs in the first inning. Foster hit the first of two three-run homers in that inning and had a one-run double in the second when Cincinnati scored three more runs.

Foster's second three-run shot came in the fifth inning when the Reds, off to their terrible start this season because of their inability to score runs, erupted for 12 while sending 17 batters to the plate. The two teams totaled 35 hits in the game.

Bench had a homer and four RBI and Driessen also drove in four runs, all in the fifth, when he hit a three-run double and a single.

THE REDS HAD a 23-4 lead in the fifth inning and threatened at that time the modern major league record of 29 runs in a game.

The Braves had enough offense themselves to win most games as they pounded out 17 hits and had two four-run innings. Jeff Burroughs, the National League home run leader, drove in four runs for Atlanta with four singles and Biff Pocoroba had a three-run homer.

In the only other National League game scheduled, San Diego and Los Angeles were meeting on the West Coast later Monday night.

In the American League, Dwight Evans scored the winning run on Rick Burleson's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded in the eighth inning Monday to give the Boston Red Sox a 6-5 victory in the nightcap over Toronto after Otto Velez' two homers gave the Blue Jays a 4-3 triumph.

BOSTON'S CARLTON Fisk was thrown out at the plate attempting to score on a single by Butch Hobson to start the eighth, but the Red Sox loaded the bases and Burleson delivered the tie-breaking run with his sacrifice fly.

In the opener Velez hit a solo blast in the fifth inning then connected with a man aboard off Bill Campbell in the eighth inning to cap a three-run rally. Pete Vuckovich benefitted from the homer to win his first game of the year while Campbell, the Red sox' million dollar reliever, was tagged with his third loss.

Elsewhere in the A. L., New York was at Baltimore in a game delayed by rain while Oakland was scheduled at California in a late game.

season, 6-0 at Schaumburg. On the mound he whiffed ten and allowed just three hits in recording the shutout.

At the plate Gawron was three-for-four including a double and drove in half the Hawk runs.

PROSPECT CAME up with single runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings to edge hosting Elk Grove 3-1 and retain a slim half-game lead over Forest View atop the South Division standings. Doug Clark went the distance on the mound for the Knights to earn the victory.

Maine East's Tim Ringstrand and Maine West's Rob Earhart were locked in a pitchers' duel for nine innings Monday before a bases loaded walk gave West the win.

After eight near flawless innings, Ringstrand gave up all three of his walks in the final inning and that's what led to his downfall as the Warriors improved their Central Suburban Leauge slate to 3-1.

Earhart also went the distance for the Warriors, striking out 12 and walking only one over nine innings, giving up just one hit. Maine West scratched out but three hits against Ringstrand.

Bob Zuccarini and Dean Carpenter walked to open the ninth for the Warriors and Tim Platek's base hit loaded the bases. But Ringstrand struck out Bob Anderson, then got Earhart to tap out, catcher to first, for the second out. That brought up Forrest Wantroba, who walked to drive in the winning run.

Maine West is now 8-2 overall going into today's contest, scheduled for 4:30 at Niles West.

St. Viator improved its mark to 3-4 Monday with a 5-2 win over visiting Notre Dame in an East Suburban Catholic Conference game.

Ahead 2-1, the Lions broke the game open in the fifth inning with a three run outburst as Jim Simmerman got the win for Viator.

Dick Sanders opened the fifth with a walk, then stole second for the Lions. Dan Schwellenbach followed with a walk. Both were driven in on a double by John Josten.

Josten later came home with the fifth Viator run on a single by Mike Cusack.

Fieldhouse runs 4:17.4 for Hawks' fastest mile

Wil Fieldhouse of Harper came within a couple of seconds of national-qualifying time in the mile run at the Carthage Track Invitational, but it was only good enough for fifth place in a field of mostly university milers Saturday.

"We were hoping Wil would get under national-qualifying," said Harper coach Bob Nolan. "But I was still really pleased. He's looking a lot stronger now after he got in a good week of workouts this past week."

Fieldhouse ran 4:17.4 Saturday while the winner clocked 4:12.2. The Fremd High School graduate set a Harper record by five seconds.

FIELDHOUSE, a national junior college qualifier in the mile indoors, had taken a week off to look at colleges out East prior to the Harper Invitational April 16. He was running on literally no practice when he won the mile in that meet in a time of 4:23.8.

"Will fell off the pace a little in the third quarter at Carthage," said Nolan. "But he came back fairly good. That was the difference in running 14:15 or under."

Harper weightman Bob Roels, high jumper Mike Nichol and hurdler Jim Lemke also contributed to the Hawk scoring Saturday as Nolan's team held its own in competition with several four-year schools. The Hawks had 15 points, but Carthage won with 152 and several University of Wisconsin branches scored high.

"It was good for the guys to see competition like that," Nolan explained. "We ran well in several events."

ROELS TOOK fourth in the discus with a toss of 144-1 and reached a personal best in the shot put (46-4) for a sixth place. Nichol, who holds the Harper high jump record at 6-8, managed only 6-2 for third. The winner went just 6-4.

"Nichol said he didn't like the surface," Nolan noted. "He was slipping a lot."

Lemke finished fifth in the intermediate hurdles and Paul Rizzo, who failed to place, did run a 52.0 in the 440.

The dubious distinction of having the lowest career high goes to immortal Bernie Harris.

A fourth round draft choice of the Buffalo Braves in 1974, Harris, from Virginia Commonwealth, had a career high of two points. He was later waived.

Ozzie's partner makes slam

Mary Zita Jacoby never has become a really expert player, but her 1,500 master points are mostly of the red variety since she usually played in major events with some of the family.

She sat South today, while Oswald held the North cards. His bidding can best be described as typical husband-wife slam bidding. For all he knew, when he settled for six spades the combined hands might produce seven spades or seven notrump, but he decided to settle for the small slam.

Mrs. Jacoby was unhappy with the dummy. She could only count to 11 tricks. Of course, 12 would have been easy without that diamond lead, but that diamond lead is what hit her.

She drew trumps with two leads after taking the first diamond and noted that trumps had been accounted for. Then she played three rounds of hearts to ruff the third one in dummy. A diamond was led to her 10 and West's jack.

West made his best lead — the queen of clubs. Now Mary Zita remembered that honors were supposed to divide. She rose with dummy's king, finessed against East's jack and made the slam.

Ask Andy

1769 brought development of automobile

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1977 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Tommy Wilk, 11, of Williamsport, Pa., for his question:

WHEN WAS THE FIRST AUTOMOBILE MADE?

The enactment and enforcement of the Red Flag Act of 1836, which wasn't repealed until 1896, hindered and slowed the automotive industry for more than 60 years. The act made it mandatory for all self-propelled vehicles to be preceded by a man carrying a red flag or a lantern, and the speed of the vehicle was limited to 4 miles per hour in the country and 2 mph in the city.

French inventor Nicolas Cugnot is given credit for building in 1769 the first mechanically propelled vehicle. It was powered by a steam engine and had three wheels, a single one in front being the driver. It reached the speed of 3 miles an hour.

The French were back again in the late 1800s with a gasoline-powered internal combustion engine built by Rene Panhard and Emile Levassor. In Germany, Gottlieb Daimler adapted it to a bicycle in 1886, and B. Benz, in the same year, used it in a tricycle-type carriage.

America got into the act when Charles Duryea came out with a one-cylinder car in 1892. The Haynes and Winton cars were close behind and these were followed by Ford, Selden, Buick, Bristoe, Maxwell, Franklin, White and others.

Almost every type of car imaginable was produced between 1903 and 1915. Cylinders ranged in number from one to 16. Roads improved and the business of building automobiles took off in full force to become one of the world's most important industries.

The internal combustion engine was probably the most important item that boosted the auto industry into prominence. Major parts include the pistons, cylinders, connecting rods, crankshaft, fuel system, ignition and cooling systems and a lubrication system. The piston is pushed by an explosion of fuel in the cylinder, and it thrusts the connecting rod, which in turn moves the crankshaft. The crankshaft is connected to a mechanism which rotates the wheels of the car.

Most gasoline-powered automobiles operate on what are called four-cycle engines. The piston moves the length of the cylinder four times to take in gasoline, compress the fuel mixture, burn it and then remove the waste products of combustion through the exhaust pipe.

What does the future spell for automobiles? We can't tell for sure, but we can safely guess there will be some marvelous developments.

Andy sends a Denoyer-Geppert World Globe to Marie Manaigre, age 15, of St. Boniface, Manitoba, Canada, for her question:

WHAT CAUSES EARTHQUAKES?

An earthquake, simply, is the shaking of the Earth's surface. While thousands occur each year, only a few cause damage. They're caused by the movement of the crustal blocks of rocks that make up the Earth.

Earthquakes occur mainly where mountains are high and oceans are deep because this is where most breaks, or faults, in the Earth's crust are found. Sudden slippage along a fault line causes an earthquake.

A seismograph is an instrument that records the vibrations of an earthquake. By knowing how to read the instrument, scientists can find the exact location of a quake and the intensity of its force.

Do you have a question to Ask Andy? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to Ask Andy in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries are open to girls and boys 7 to 17.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Paris gives Viet premier big welcome

PARIS (UPI) — Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong returned to Paris for the first time in 31 years to a hero's welcome and began negotiations with French leaders to open a new era in the often-troubled relations between the two countries.

The 71-year-old Communist leader, a bitter enemy of France when it was the colonial ruler of Vietnam, said at a lunch in his honor: "We are called upon to open a new chapter in the history of our relations based on mutual respect and mutual advantages."

French Premier Raymond Barre toasted Dong's four-day visit as opening "fruitful and exemplary relations" between the two countries.

"OUR COOPERATION," Barre said, "serves not only the interest of our two peoples, but also that of peace, especially in Southeast Asia where we have many friends."

It was Dong's first trip to Paris since 1946. He left Paris then in a huff when the Vietnamese nationalists' talks with France collapsed, marking the start of three decades of bloody war in Indochina.

In a gesture of reconciliation, President Valery Giscard d'Estaing has invited to today's luncheon in Dong's honor Gen. Marcel Bigeard, former deputy defense minister who was taken prisoner by Viet Cong after the fall of Dien Bien Phu in 1954.

When Dong — gray-haired and slightly stopped — flew into Orly airfield in an old Soviet Il18 turboprop jetliner, he was accorded a hero's welcome with full military honors.

A CROWD OF flag-waving, cheering Vietnamese residents and a host of French officials headed by Barre greeted him.

Buttoned up in a gray topcoat and cluthing a black felt hat, Dong stood at attention while a Republic Guard band played the two national anthems.

The French were hoping to conclude a number of major economic accords with Dong whose government has made it clear it wants to expand its cooperation with Europe, Japan and the United States to speed up its reconstructuion and development.

France has provided $320 million in aid to Vietnam in recent years. Last week it granted Hanoi an additional credit of $130 million for the purchase of French capital goods.

French officials predicted Dong will sign a pact granting the state-controlled Elf-Aquitraine oil group permission to search for oil off Vietnam's eastern and southern shores.

NIPC stand opposes metro government

The Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission has dusted off a 10-year-old position statement opposing "metropolitan government" in an effort to quell suburban attacks on the agency.

"This commission is not out to remake the governmental structure of northeastern Illinois," said NIPC Pres. James J. McClure Jr. at a recent meeting of the executive committee.

"There are regional problems to be solved, but they can be solved by existing units of government if they will work together," he said.

The commission members unanimously endorsed the statement, which says NIPC "does not advocate or promote metropolitan government."

NIPC has been under attack since November when interim guidelines for low- and moderate-income housing were adopted as part of the agency's criteria for reviewing applications for federal funds.

SEVERAL COMMUNITIES unhappy with these criteria have charged that NIPC has exceeded its authority and wants to take autonomy away from local governments. Legislation has been introduced in Springfield to limit NIPC's power and some officials have called for lawsuits to restrict the agency's activities.

McClure said the charges are the same ones voiced in the 1960s "when regional planning was in its infancy."

"Our position is the same as it always has been. We do not advocate metropolitan government. Chicago, the counties and the suburbs need to attack problems together, but they don't need to give up local autonomy to do it," McClure said.

He said critics should examine NIPC's record since it was formed in 1957. "There is not a single case of local government powers being usurped by a regional planning commission," he said. "If anything, local governments have a stronger role than ever as a result of the new Illinois Constitution."

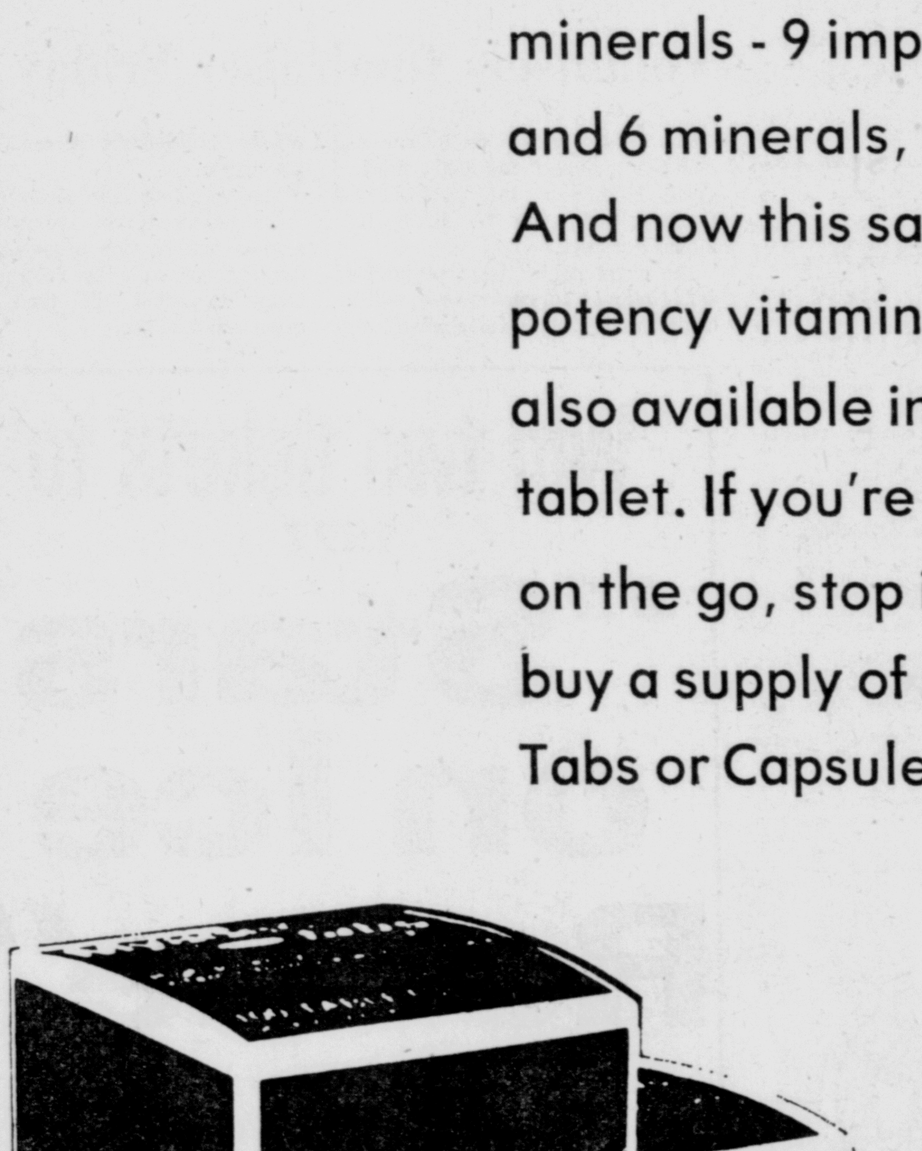

NIPC is an advisory planning organization with no taxing powers.
